WHITE HOUSE REPLY MADE TO HARDING ON THE LEAGUE

Tumulty, After a Talk with Wilson, Disputes Conflict with the Constitution.

QUOTES REPUBLICAN CHIEFS

Taft, Wickersham, Straus and Hoover Cited in Opposition to Nominee's Stand.

ARTICLE X. IS DEFENDED

Taft's Urging of Senators to Ratify Treaty Unanimously Is Recalled.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, tonight gave to THE NEW YORK TIMES a prepared statement challenging the assertion made by Senator Harding, in a speech at Marion yesterday, that no American could be simultaneously for Article X. and for the American Constitution "any more than an American in Lincoln's time could be simultaneously for emancipation and for slavery."

Secretary Tumulty's statement calls attention to the fact that this declaration by Senator Harding is at variance with the views of certain leading members of the Republican Party with respect to Article X. Mr. Tumulty quotes from utterances by former President Taft, former Attorney General Wickersham, Oscar S. Straus, who was formerly a Republican Secretary of the Department of Commerce, and Herbert Hoover.

His statement was given to THE TIMES in response to an inquiry as to whether he cared to comment on that portion of Senator Harding's speech.

Statement of Mr. Tumulty.

The statement of Mr. Tumulty, who is known to have talked with President Wilson during the day, reads:

"In discussing Article X. in a speech made at Marion yesterday Senator Harding said:

No American can be simultaneously for Article X. and for the Constitution of our Republic any more than an American in Lincoln's time could be simultaneously for emancipation and for slavery.

"This statement of Senator Harding is very interesting in view of the attitude of the leading members of his own party on Article X.

"In an article in The Public Ledger April 30, 1919, Mr. Taft said, in discussing Article X.:

The arguments against Article X. which have been most pressed are those directed to showing that under its obligations the United States can be forced into many wars and to support burdensome expeditionary forces to protect countries in which it has no legitimate interest. This objection will not bear examination.

"In the same article Mr. Taft gave additional reasons why Article X. would not involve us in war:

How much will it involve us in war? Little, if any. In the first place, the universal boycott, first to be applied, will impose upon most nations such a withering isolation and starvation that in most cases it will be effective. In the second place, we will not be drawn into any war in which it will not be reasonable and convenient for us to render efficient aid, because the plan of the council must be approved by our representatives, as already explained. In the third place, the threat of universal boycott and the union of overwhelming forces of the members of the League, if need be, will hold every nation from violating Article X. and Articles XII., XIII. and XV. unless there is a world conspiracy, as in this war, in which case the earlier we get into the war the better.

Taft Denied Supersovereignty.

"In another article Mr. Taft said:

All who have pressed for a league of nations to maintain peace and prevent war must thank God as they read the provisions of the constitution of the League upon which the nations in conference at Paris have agreed.

President Wilson is to be warmly congratulated that the League of Nations which he promised to the harassed peoples in his messages and addresses and has urged before the conference has taken such a form.

It is a real League. It has clinching provisions.

Article X. covers the Monroe Doctrine AND EXTENDS IT TO THE WORLD. The League is not a supersovereign, but a partnership int ded to secure to us and all nations only the sovereignty we can properly have, i. e., sovereignty regulated by international law and morality and consistent with the same sovereignty of other nations. The United States is not under this constitution to be forced into actual war against its will. This League is to be regarded in conflict with the advice of Washington only with a narrow and reactionary viewpoint.

"Mr. Taft closes his editorial indorsement of the League with the hope

That a forward-looking Senate will not seek to defeat this grand advance of mankind toward a just and lasting peace. Now that President Wilson brings back to us a real League and has fully made good his an-

Germany Accepts W. D. Hines As Waterways Arbitrator

PARIS, Sept. 21.—Walker D. Hines, the American arbitrator in the waterways question, has finally been accepted by Germany "in the interest of peace and the speedy reconstruction of Europe."

The German acceptance was contained in a note received by the Foreign Office in reply to Premier Millerand's refusal to consider the German protest against the appointment of Mr. Hines, on the ground that Mr. Hines was a citizen of a country with which Germany is still at war.

COX IS PLEASED BY COAST GREETING

TAKES UP JAPANESE ISSUE

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 21.—Governor Cox left for the East this afternoon after receiving in Los Angeles one of the most notable demonstrations of his entire trip to the West.

"I wish," he said, "I could spend another week in the State."

Despite the hostile attitude of the Southern California newspapers, the Governor encountered here vast crowds of enthusiasts. Possibly the most interesting phase of the Governor's visit was the complete surprise so many persons expressed after hearing him at the ball park last night. The Los Angeles papers have been printing little or nothing of his campaign addresses. They have been filled daily with the attacks the big staff of publicity experts employed by the Republican National Committee have been sending out. Even today one of the Republican papers here gave its front page over to praise of Senator Harding and put the story of Governor Cox's visit and speech on the seventeenth page.

So Governor Cox came to Los Angeles almost unknown. Most of the 12,000 persons who crowded themselves into the ball park to hear him last night went out of curiosity, but they remained for two hours and listened in rapt attention to all he had to say. Hundreds stood throughout the entire meeting.

It is no exaggeration to say that last night and today the streets were filled with amazed comment. The reception was such as to induce favorable comment even from The Los Angeles Examiner, the Hearst paper here, which has been very bitter in its attacks on the Democratic candidate. In its report of the meeting The Examiner said:

"Governor Cox, the Democratic candidate nominee for President, had with him the people who could get into the ball park last night. The Governor has a very winning personality. He is a well-poised man with a keen eye that synchronizes with his brain in alertness to see and avail of what it sees. His voice showed the wear and tear on his throat for the first half hour, but after that his tones, without any oratorical exuberance, became clear and saturated with power. And he is a fearless politician; he did not sidestep nor attempt to straddle."

Criticises Newspaper Partisanship.

Governor Cox referred several times in his speech to The Los Angeles Times by name, declaring it was not presenting the campaign issues fairly to the people. The Governor said he spoke as a newspaper owner and not as a candidate when he made this criticism. He felt that partisanship in newspapers should be confined to their editorial columns.

He made a great hit with his audience when he read the editorial from The Los Angeles Times declaring Governor Cox had failed to prove his campaign fund charges. The Governor said he had told the Southern California's quota was to be $100,000, "and now," he said, "I cite you The Los Angeles Times of Aug. 4. That was before I had made my charges of a $15,000,000 corruption fund. The Times printed on Aug. 4 the story of a local meeting of Republicans, in which they proudly proclaimed they were going to raise the $100,000. Another local paper said the $100,000 was to be a mere trifle of what might ultimately be raised."

The "deadly parallel," as the Governor called it, was quickly grasped by the audience, which yelled its approval.

Tomorrow the Governor will be in Arizona, and on Thursday he will travel through New Mexico.

Cox Discusses Japanese Question.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 21 (Associated Press).—As an editor to his fellow editors, Governor Cox opened his day's activity today with a short talk on the problems of his craft, delivered at the Chamber of Commerce rooms here to the Southern California Editorial Association. He spoke in a friendly and intimate strain and did not touch on political questions.

Following the talk to the editors, the Governor went by automobile to Long Beach, where he was awaited by an audience that overflowed the Municipal Auditorium.

Governor Cox opened by addressing directly a large group of civil war veterans at the local post and from a nearby veterans' home. He again dis-

POLICE CONSULT 100 HORSESHOERS IN BOMB MYSTERY

INVESTIGATORS BAFFLED

FIRE CHIEF IN CONFERENCE

Accident Theory Again Revived but Discredited by Testimony Before Grand Jury.

No one was arrested yesterday for the explosion last Thursday in Wall Street which killed thirty-five persons and injured hundreds. Neither the police, the District Attorney nor Federal agents were ready last night to hint, even, at the imminence of an arrest or to assert there had been any significant, positive achievement leading in that direction at the end of the fifth day's hunt for those criminally responsible for the disaster.

As on previous days, old evidence was churned up and new theories formed as the result of delving into the physical aftermath by experts of one sort and another. Added to this was a series of official conferences, the examination of witnesses with new stories and old, and further efforts to trace the horse and the wagon in which the infernal contrivance stood.

Thus while the authorities in the course of their day's work got new light on some old débris and came into possession of a still more comprehensive survey of all that is known and has been disclosed about the occurrence, there was made public no single ray of hope that at last they had emerged from the shadows and were traveling at least a faintly illuminated path toward the wholesale murderers.

"Nothing New," Investigators Say.

On the part of the Federal investigators and the Police Department there was a marked disposition to hide most of the day's doings. "Nothing new," said Chief William J. Flynn for the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice. "Nothing new," echoed Chief Inspector William J. Lahey of the Police Department.

There was no particular pretense that this attitude represented an effort to guard important evidence, disclosure of which might hamper the investigation. In certain quarters, on the other hand, there was plainly discernible an attitude of resentment because the newspapers published the fact that previous days of investigation had yielded no such startling progress as had been hoped. This feeling was intensified, so far as the police were concerned, by stories that their embarrassment over the only arrest they have made in the case, that of Alexander J. Brailovsky, whom they charged with being an undesirable alien, was indicative of lack of complete cooperation between Headquarters and the Government detectives.

Police officials believed, it was said, that any intimation that they had blundered in the Brailovsky affair was unjust, since they knew him as a radical and acted in response to an anonymous letter charging that he was seen near the explosion just after the disaster, discussing something with three men who seemed highly elated. They held him on the Federal charge because they thought that was a simple way of keeping him until they had completed their investigation which resulted in exonerating and freeing him without the usual formality of an arraignment. If the Federal investigators refused to back them up in the arrest, they thought, they should not be criticised.

Conference with Horseshoers.

Despite the evolving of a new, or rather an amplified theory regarding the nature of the infernal contrivance itself, the finding of the owner or driver of the horse and wagon still remained in the forefront of official objectives. With this end in view detectives of the homicide squad took one front and one rear shoe and parts of the hoofs to a meeting of the Journeymen Horseshoers' Union, Local No. 1, at Gannon's Hall, Third Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street, last night where they were examined with eager interest by about 100 members.

The detectives were reticent as to the results, beyond saying the blacksmiths had shown every disposition to co-operate with them. From Timothy Healy, traveling agent of the union, however, came the encouraging declaration, concurred in by others, that it ought to be possible to identify the man who put union shoes on the hind hoofs within twenty-four hours.

This belief was predicated upon the fact that all the farriers agreed the shoes had been put in place very shortly before the horse was blown to death, possibly the very day of the explosion, coupled with the observation that the "J. H. U." stamped on the shoes, in accord with the invariable custom of union horseshoers, was so clean-cut it quite evidently had been made with a comparatively new die.

Records of the union, said Healy and other officials, showed that only thirty-five such dies had been issued to horseshoers within the past nine months and the record of their names was carefully

British Coal Miners Will Walk Out on Monday; Cabinet Meets and Is Expected to Back Horne

LONDON, Sept. 21 (Associated Press).—Failing an eleventh-hour development, virtually every coal mine in the United Kingdom will be idle next Monday, a meeting of the delegates from all districts having this afternoon accepted the report of the Executive Committee of the Federation to the effect that nothing had been achieved by the negotiations to prevent a strike. The delegates, who numbered nearly two hundred, also indorsed the proposals which the Committee made to Sir Robert S. Horne, President of the Board of Trade.

The next move, therefore, appears to be with the Cabinet, which met today to receive Sir Robert Horne's report on his conferences with the miner's committee. It is considered possible that the Cabinet may reverse the decision of the President of the Board of Trade that the question of an increase of two shillings demanded by the miners, on which the negotiations broke down, must be referred to an independent tribunal. As the Minister had frequently consulted with his colleagues during the conferences, however, it is generally believed that they agree with him.

It is unlikely that the miners will give way on their demand for an immediate increase of two shillings, for from what can be gathered from the meeting of the miners' delegates today they were not too pleased at the action of the Executive Committee in dropping their demand for a reduction in the price of domestic coal.

It is true that a few delegates were opposed to going to the length of striking, in view of public feeling against it, and there was a considerable minority which voted against the strike, but the majority favored forcing their demand by this means.

The transport workers, who, with the miners and railwaymen, form the "Triple Alliance," at a meeting today indorsed the action of the miners' executive and instructed their executive to recommend any action it deemed necessary.

The railway men's delegates decided, after a long debate, to intervene, in the hope of averting the miners' strike, according to The Daily Mail's labor writer, who adds:

"James Henry Thomas will probably propose to the meeting of the Triple Alliance Wednesday that a mediatory interview with the Government be sought. If the railway men's proposed intervention fails, it is probable that the Labor Party will try persuasive pressure on the miners and Government, but much hope cannot be built on this."

Even without the miners' strike the industrial situation is serious. Unemployment has largely increased in the past month due to many of the woolen and cotton mills and boot factories working part time and the cutting down of the staffs at shipyards and engineering and automobile works.

ITALIAN WORKERS VACATING PLANTS

TROUBLE IS FORESHADOWED

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Evacuation of the Milan factories by the workers is proceeding, says a Milan dispatch to The London Times under Tuesday's date, but at Turin, where the movement has been of a more violent nature, it reports that nothing has been done toward vacating the works.

Difficulties arising through Premier Giolitti's plan for settlement of the controversy between the metal workers and their employers is foreshadowed in a Rome dispatch to The Times, "because representation of the workers on the commission for syndical control will be confined to the Confederation of Labor, while the Catholic labor organization, which is of considerable strength throughout the country, is not represented, and because the Popular Party long ago was assured that the monopoly for settling labor questions would not be given to the Confederation."

ROME, Sept. 20.—Signor Crespi, a representative of the employers, speaking today concerning the settlement of the metal workers' strike, said:

"The employers at first made all the concessions to the men which were considered compatible with the existence of the industries in our country, where we are obliged to face such grave difficulties owing to lack of raw materials. Afterward we were obliged to yield to the will of the Government in order completely to satisfy the claims of the workmen.

"Now that the plan for participation by the men in our industries has been accepted, it remains to be seen whether the new system, which theoretically would bring capital and labor closer together and increase production, will work out in practice. If the system proves a success the industries will prosper. Otherwise, they will be irretrievably crippled."

"Participation in the management of manufactories was one of the greatest aspirations held by the masses and one which nothing could repress," said Signor Daragona, the Socialist Deputy. "If the new principles are loyally and broadly applied the immediate result will be an increase in production and a decrease in the number of strikes, as once capital and labor meet on the same level the differences between them will diminish, rendering such weapons as lockouts and strikes unnecessary.

"My impression is that when the masters see and understand that times have changed it will lead to a period of tranquillity and profitable work."

The Avanti, speaking today regarding the settlement of the trouble, says:

"It has been a great triumph for the workmen and a great defeat for the masters. The success of the metal workers has been the greatest ever seen in Europe, having surpassed the victories of the proletariat in France and in England."

An agreement has been reached between the Government and the railwaymen by which the men will receive increased wages amounting to 200,000,000 lire annually. This will bring the railway deficit to 2,000,000,000 lire yearly. It is proposed to meet this deficit with a further increase of 20 per cent. in fares. Fares already have been more than doubled since the war began.

MOVES TO DISMISS 'ANTIS" APPEAL

Colby Holds Proclamation of Suffrage Amendment an Accomplished Fact.

CONNECTICUT RE-RATIFIES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—After refusing to grant the request of anti-suffragists from Tennessee that he rescind his action in proclaiming ratification of the Nineteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution, Secretary Colby, through United States District Attorney Laskey, today filed in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals a motion to dismiss the appeal taken by Charles S. Fairchild for the American Constitutional League, from the decision of Justice Bailey refusing an injunction to prevent the proclamation of the suffrage amendment.

The reply made on behalf of Secretary Colby suggests to the court that the question involved in the case has now become a moot one, since the Secretary of State on Aug. 26, after the suit had been dismissed in the lower court, actually proclaimed the ratification of the amendment. The motion pointed out that the only relief sought in the appeal was to prevent what had already been done. Should the court not be disposed to dismiss the appeal, Secretary Colby asked that the decree of the lower court be affirmed without prejudice to the plaintiff to institute appropriate action or suit with reference to future acts to enforce the Nineteenth Amendment.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 21.—At 7:43 this evening Special Session No. 2 of the Connecticut Legislature was adjourned by Governor Holcomb, Frederick L. Perry, Secretary of State, and George D. Gabb, High Sheriff of Hartford County. Then, as Governor Holcomb smiled and walked past them, the younger Senators and Representatives stood around in the House lobby and sang modern Te Deums in honor of their big day's work of ratifying twice more the Federal suffrage amendment, which they had formally ratified last week, to the satisfaction at least of Attorney General Frank E. Healy, and of passing a big appropriation over the Governor's veto.

It was a hectic day, the most memorable legislative day known to the oldest Solon, and was record-breaking in that two special sessions were held in one day, and that for the first time Connecticut was forced to resort to the Congressional subterfuge of turning back and stopping clocks.

When the Governor issued his call for last week's special session, no complication over the Tennessee ratification had developed, and the members were summoned, not to ratify the amendment, but to arrange proper legislation to permit women to vote. When the Assembly had convened, the Governor, citing the Tennessee situation, suggested that the members adjourn to come back to another special session, which he thereupon called for this forenoon, specifically including in his call the business of considering the ratification of the amendment as proposed by Congress and the necessary amendments to State laws concerning women voting. The members last week broke away from the Governor, ratified the amendment on their own initiative and passed sundry other bills, all of which actions the Governor held to be irregular.

With one hour intervening before today's special session should meet, both branches at 11 o'clock this forenoon began hurrying through a series of twenty-one different bills, all relating to making women voters.

At two minutes of noon it was necessary to stop the master clock, which controls all the Capitol timepieces, and about an hour later the Governor was summoned to adjourn special session No. 1. There was a long delay while a Sheriff was paged and finally secured, but when the Governor directed the Secretary of State to pronounce the valedictory the Secretary was not in the

ASSEMBLY AGAIN EXPELS THREE SOCIALISTS; DECIDES TO OUST THEM BY VOTE OF 90 TO 45 DE WITT AND ORR SEATED, BUT RESIGN

Recital of Charges Against Socialist Assemblymen On Which the Vote of Expulsion Was Based

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 21.—The resolution offered by Assemblyman Cuvillier on which the vote of expulsion of Socialists was based was as follows:

Whereas, Louis Waldman of the Eighth District and August Claessens of the Seventeenth District, County of New York; Samuel A. De Witt of the Third District, and Samuel Orr of the Fourth District, County of Bronx, and Charles Solomon of the Twenty-third District, County of Kings, were elected members of the Assembly of the State of New York for the year 1920, and

Whereas, a resolution was adopted immediately after the organization of this Assembly for the session of 1920, denying the said Louis Waldman August Claessens, Samuel A. De Witt, Samuel Orr and Charles Solomon seats in the Assembly pending an investigation of the qualifications and eligibility of the said five persons to seats in the Assembly, and

Whereas, the Judiciary Committee of the Assembly, after an extended investigation as to the qualifications and eligibility of the aforesaid persons recommended that each of them be declared ineligible and disqualified to occupy seats in the Assembly of the State of New York as members thereof and said report was adopted by the Assembly, and

Whereas, the said persons at a recent special election were re-elected to fill the vacancies caused by their exclusion, and

Whereas, the said Louis Waldman, August Claessens and Charles Solomon were found to be ineligible to sit as members of this Assembly because of reasons of a disqualifying character personal to themselves and apart from the consequence of mere membership in the Socialist Party of America, which at that time was found by this Assembly to be a group or party advocating and committed to purposes and policies violating in essential particulars the necessary qualification of loyalty to State and nation, but which said Socialist Party of America has since the aforesaid action of this Assembly, according to information furnished to this Assembly by the Speaker thereof, abandoned the advocacy of such principles and policies; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That under the facts and circumstances of this case [name of member voted on] is disqualified to have or to hold a seat in the Assembly of the State of New York as a member thereof and that the seat to which he was elected be declared vacant.

CHEERS WHEN TWO RESIGN

VOTE NOT ON PARTY LINES

Republicans Admit Political Consideration Entered Into Seating of Two.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 21.—After a debate which at times was stormy and kept the Assembly occupied all day to the exclusion of practically all other legislative business, that body tonight voted to expel anew three of the Socialist Assemblymen ousted at the regular session but re-elected at the special election held in their districts last Thursday.

Louis Waldman of the Eighth Manhattan Assembly District, August Claessens of the Seventeenth Manhattan and Charles Solomon of the Twenty-third in Brooklyn were those ousted. Assemblymen Samuel Orr and Samuel A. De Witt of the Third and Fourth Assembly Districts in the Bronx, respectively, were sustained in the tenure of their seats by vote of the Assembly, but resigned immediately after the fate of their three comrades had been announced.

Both De Witt and Orr denounced the majority of the Assemblymen as "un-American" and declared they could not sit with them in the Assembly.

"Inasmuch as the Assembly, by a majority vote, has decided that we are unfit to sit here, I have the right now to sit in judgment on the qualifications of the men who judged us, and I refuse to sit in a body that is so un-American," declared De Witt. "I resign."

His resignation was accepted with cheers from some of the members.

Orr followed De Witt and declared that Socialists had agreed that there could be no compromise on the question of their fitness to serve as legislators.

"We will not stand to have the Socialists made the football of political parties," he said. "This question is one of politics. You have proven yourselves un-American and this opinion will be held by the electorate of the entire country. Until this House purges itself of the un-American men now in this body I will refuse to sit with them."

Assembly Cheers Resignations.

The vote by which Waldman, Claessens and Solomon were expelled was 90 to 45. On the question of expelling the other two 48 votes were cast in favor of such action and 87 against.

After the result had been announced Assemblyman Martin G. McCue, a Tammany Democrat, who has been most zealous in his denunciation of the five Socialists and in his insistence that they all be barred from the Assembly, charged that political considerations had swayed the Republican majority in drawing a line of demarkation between the first three and the other two. He moved for a reconsideration of the vote by which Waldman had been ousted, declaring that if De Witt and Orr were seated the other three had as much right to their seats in the Assembly.

"Do not let us make fools of ourselves," McCue said, wrathfully. "You well know that politics has entered into this work. As long as two have been seated, let us seat all five."

When a vote was taken on the motion of Mr. McCue, it was lost by 52 to 81. Then followed the resignation of Messrs. De Witt and Orr.

The ouster vote did not follow party lines. A majority of the Democratic members voted to leave them in their seats for the remainder of the extraordinary session, and a goodly number of Republicans from New York City districts voted with them. A few up-State Republicans, notably Assemblyman Martin of Oneida, who presided at the hearing of the charges against the Socialists at the regular session last Spring; Majority Leader Simon L. Adler, and Assemblyman Theodore Roosevelt voted to sustain the Socialists.

Committee Reports Resolution.

The debate began when the resolution, introduced at last night's session by Assemblyman Ransom H. Gillett of Columbia, and drafted by Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier of New York, a Tammany Democrat, was reported by the Assembly Judiciary Committee, without recommendation but for the consideration of the Assembly, by a vote of 7 to 6.

Those voting in favor of reporting it were Chairman Martin of Oneida and Assemblymen Everett of St. Lawrence, Rowe of Erie, Wilson of Westchester, Jenks of Broome, Harrington of Clinton and Cuvillier of New York. Those voting against report were Lown of Yates, Pelletier of New York, Stitt of Kings, Blodgett of Schenectady, Bloch of New York and Evans of the Bronx. The last two named being Democrats.

DUBLIN, Sept. 21. — Balbriggan, a small seaport town twenty-two miles north of Dublin, was sacked today in two attacks by armed bands of "Black and Tans"—auxiliary police recruits enlisted in England.

The first onslaught early this morning lasted for five hours, and the second began in the afternoon. In the first attack two civilians were shot dead. Several large mills, including the largest hosiery mills in Ireland, and more than thirty houses belonging to Sinn Feiners were destroyed by fire. Volleys were fired in the streets, and many panic-stricken inhabitants left their homes. The refugees are now pouring into Dublin.

These reprisals followed quickly on the murder of Head Constable Burke and the wounding of his brother, Sergeant Burke, last night. These officers, with three others, had gone by car to Balbriggan and stopped for refreshments. On leaving a restaurant they were fired at by people among a large crowd which had collected.

When news of the outrage reached Gormanstown, where the recruits of the Royal Irish Constabulary are stationed, a large body started off in motor lorries. They arrived at Balbriggan about midnight, and thence onward to 5 o'clock the town was given over to ruthless reprisals. Public houses were looted and a row of ten thatched cottages belonging to workingmen were fired and two large private houses wrecked.

Scenes of the wildest disorder reigned. Some of the inhabitants escaped by back doors, and many spent the night in the fields. It is alleged that they were given no warning by the attackers in some cases, and in others not given sufficient time to dress and run to safety. Some of them assert that they were driven from their homes at the point of the bayonet.

One woman only just succeeded in rescuing her baby from its cot before the house was burned.

One of the men killed was a barber. His house was wrecked, and marks on a wall on Quay Street have given rise to the belief locally that he was taken out and shot. The other victim, a farmer, is presumed to have been in his company at the time, and is said to have been bayoneted. The victims were suspected of having killed Constable Burke. Just before leaving the attackers are said to have discharged parting volleys up the streets and to have driven off singing "Boys of the Bulldog Breed."

This morning the roads leading from the town were crowded with fleeing women and children, some wheeling perambulators, others carrying such household property as they were able to bring away. In many cases they were

APPEAL TO CONGRESS FOR HOUSING AID

Legislators Ask Help in Obtaining More and Cheaper Building Materials.

PUBLIC HEARING THURSDAY

Legislative Committee and Hylan Relief Measures Introduced with Many Individual Bills.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 21.—New York State took its first step today to obtain aid from Congress in its attempt to solve the housing problem for which the special session of the Legislature was convened.

The Assembly, by unanimous vote, adopted concurrent resolutions asking the Federal legislative bodies to:

1. Institute immediately a sweeping investigation of the building materials industry to ascertain if a combination exists designed to keep up the present prohibitive prices of building materials.

2. Grant priority shipment rights to building materials second only to the priority transportation of food and coal.

3. Place an embargo on the shipment of building materials to foreign countries.

The entire program of the Special Legislative Housing Committee, which is headed by Senator Charles C. Lockwood, was introduced in the Assembly today. So were the measures designed to alleviate New York City's shortage of housing facilities, proposed by Mayor Hylan. They were introduced by the minority leaders in both houses. Several individual bills, not a part of the general program scheduled to be passed, were also introduced and these with the committee bills and the Hylan proposals will be heard publicly Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the assembly chamber before the joint Cities Committees.

Assemblyman J. Fairfax McLaughlin of the Bronx proposed a bill establishing a land loan bureau to aid the construction of new homes on easy terms with State money and improve and for dwelling purposes. The bureau, the bill provides, would be headed by an appointee of the State Superintendent of Banks and would be empowered to issue certificates to meet loans, the certificates to be based only on bond and mortgage security.

The bonds would bear 4½ per cent. interest and would be exempt from State tax. No loan would be more than $100,000 and none less than $500.

A bill making it a misdemeanor for any person to enter into an agreement for rent at more than 25 per cent. in excess of the sum charged for rental on April 1, 1919, was submitted by Assemblyman O. J. Smith of New York. He also introduced a measure which would prohibit a Judge who, since April 1, 1919, has been an owner or landlord of an apartment house or tenement or a stockholder in a corporation owning the property, from sitting or taking any part in the decision of an action to recover possession of real property. Both measures were referred to the Assembly Cities Committee.

Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier of New York proposed an amendment to the State Constitution to provide that the State's credit be extended to "any political subdivision" upon such terms as the Legislature prescribes "whenever the public health and safety require it."

An additional franchise tax of 1 per cent. on insurance companies, trust companies and savings banks to be levied on an amount equal to 20, 30 and 60 per cent. respectively of the gross assets not invested in real estate bonds and mortgages is proposed in a bill introduced by Assemblyman McWhinney of Nassau.

resolution and accepted as a substitute a resolution which bore the name of Assemblyman Cuvillier and which had been offered by the latter as an amendment to that presented by Mr. Gillett.

The Cuvillier substitute really contemplated the expulsion of Waldman, Claessens and Solomon only on the ground that individually they had been found ineligible to sit as members, entirely aside from any objectionable clauses in the doctrines and programs of the Socialist Party of America, which furnished the ground for the expulsion at the regular session. Finally, however, a separate vote was taken on the Cuvillier resolution with the name of each of the Socialist members embodied.

The Vote on Expulsion.

FOR EXPULSION.

AGAINST EXPULSION.

DEMOCRATS—Bloch, W. G. Carroll, Cosgrove, Donohue, Evans, Miss E. V. Gillette, Griffith, Hamill, Kilngman, Tiernan, Lental, Lindsay, McKee, McArdle, McDonald, J. F. McLaughlin, J. Van Wagenen—17.

Not voting 5, absent 9.

The twenty-eight Republicans who voted to seat Waldman, Solomon and Claessens also voted against the expulsion of De Witt and Orr and were joined by the following thirty-six, who had voted to unseat the first three:

Six Democrats, after voting to oust three of the Socialists, voted in favor of seating De Witt and Orr. They were Beasley, Gross, Cuvillier, Henderson, Leininger, Schwab.

Action Decided on at Conference.

The decision to oust three of the Socialists was taken at a conference of leaders held in Speaker Sweet's room soon after the Judiciary Committee had made its report. Scores of up-State Republicans were in revolt against the proposal to leave any of the Socialists in their seats. But the Speaker displayed the same force he used at the regular session when he compelled expulsion and induced many reluctant members to vote in favor of the two Socialists from the Bronx on the final roll call.

The action proposed by the Speaker, and foreshadowed in his address at the night session yesterday, was not to his liking. In fact, he had his named called on each of the five ballots, and voted consistently for the expulsion of each of the Socialists. Many Republicans freely admit that party considerations and pressure from national leaders in the organization, as well as from friends of Judge Miller, the candidate for Governor, were wholly responsible for the distinction drawn. By expelling the three members whose individual conduct during the war had been subjected to severe censure and leaving in their seats the two against whom no such charges had been made, it was argued the charge that the Assembly had ousted duly elected members on the ground that the principles of their party were not to the liking of the majority controlling the Assembly would fall to the ground.

Demands Expulsion on Personal Grounds.

Assemblyman Cuvillier opened the debate on the Gillett resolution when he offered his amendment. He said that Waldman, Solomon and Claessens had been disqualified for reasons entirely aside from their membership in the Socialist Party of America, so that the statement of Speaker Sweet that the Socialist Party constitution and program had been amended to conform with the Constitution of the United States and of the State of New York should not affect the status of those three members.

"In asking for the exclusion of Waldman, Claessens and Solomon I do it on the ground that they are personally and criminally guilty of disloyalty against the Government of the United States and of the State of New York," he said. "There is now imprisoned a former member of this House, Benjamin Gitlow. He did no more than they did. I say it is unfortunate that the wheels of justice did not work in a sufficiently wide cycle to embrace these men, and that, instead of being in State's prison, where they ought to be, they should be present in this Assembly Chamber today. Before the sun sets in the west we must reaffirm what we did in April. When I first entered this chamber today I felt that all five should be thrown out on the spot, but I have since modified my attitude, and now I favor giving the Socialist Party a chance to demonstrate whether the changes in its constitution are more than camouflage."

All the five Socialists took part in the debate. Far from trying to explain their conduct and their attitude on questions which had brought them into conflict with the Assembly, they hurled defiance at their colleagues of the major party, and by many taunts practically invited unfavorable action. Assemblyman Claessens got up and wanted to ask Mr. Cuvillier a question when the latter finished speaking, but the latter refused to answer it.

Assemblyman Warren I. Lee, a Brooklyn Republican, followed Cuvillier. He said he would vote to throw out all five. Colonel Frederick A. Wells, representing the Seventeenth District in Brooklyn, said he would vote to expel all.

"These men committed perjury when they came here and took their oath of office," said Colonel Wells. "No one can tell me that sincere repentance came to them so quickly after their disloyal conduct during the war."

Waldman Stands on Election.

Waldman was the first of the Socialists to speak in his own behalf. He declared that the special election offered a trial of their status and that the verdict of the voters had more binding force than any that could be returned by the Assembly. The 2,000,000 word record of the hearing last Spring was before the voters in the special election and extensively discussed.

"I'm not going to defend my principles before you Assemblymen," Waldman exclaimed. "You need not shake hands with us, but under the decree that the voters rendered last week you must sit with us in the Assembly. To tell the truth, there are some members of this Assembly that I would not care to shake hands with. You have charged me with disloyalty. Is it because I am disloyal to the traction trust, to the international bankers, to the food profiteers, to all who live on the sweat and blood and labor of the masses? I swear with all the power which I can muster that I am loyal to the people of the United States. Something has been said to the effect that we Socialists have purged ourselves by changing our constitution. We have not purged ourselves. There was no need of it. I stand for industrial democracy now, just as I stood for it five months ago. We are going to the people on this issue, and if they want to send Socialists to the Assembly neither you nor any one else can prevent them."

Assemblyman Charles H. Betts of Wayne, Republican, said that there had been no change in the Socialist program and that he would vote to expel every Socialist.

"What does the amending of their constitution mean?" he asked. "It means merely that they were caught with the goods, that they had been forced to take their treasonable articles out of the show window. The party was clearly treasonable during the war. If I should be convicted of burglary and my constituents should show the bad taste of electing me to the Assembly, would that purge me of my crime? Congress expelled Berger, although he was elected by an increased majority. Berger's constituency is unrepresented in Congress today because it sent as its representative to the House a traitor. For the same good and sufficient reason we should throw out these five Socialists."

Ullman Defends Socialists.

Assemblyman Sol Ullman of the Sixth Manhattan District, Republican, said that he had been through the special election on the east side, where the questions involved in the expulsion of the Socialists were fully discussed, and that the voters there were just as able to distinguish between what was right and wrong, American or un-American, as any member of the Assembly. He asserted the "indecent attack" by Assemblyman Cuvillier had placed him in line for the observation board of some institution. This brought Assemblyman McCue to his feet in denunciation of Ullman, whose attack he branded as "cowardly." Inasmuch as Cuvillier was not in his seat. Ullman took no notice of this.

"The question that comes to my mind," he said, "is this: Are you going to follow the pronunciamento in our national platform and the leadership of Senator Harding, the Presidential nominee, who has declared that a man's party affiliation should not militate against his membership of a legislative body, or are you Republicans going to follow the leadership of Cuvillier and his kind?"

Orr Threatens Resignation.

Samuel Orr, who took the floor next, said that flag waving would not settle the situation; that what was done at the regular session and what was being done now was done for political advantage purely.

"We are not going to permit ourselves to be made scapegoats," he said. "We are not going to let you make any compromise. We are not going to stay if Solomon, Claessens and Waldman are thrown out."

Assemblyman J. T. Carroll of Kings, who said he was a veteran of two wars, that he fought in Cuba and again in France as an enlisted man and that he had one son at the front in France and two daughters in the navy, called "the amendments to the Socialists' constitution nothing but lip service." "The fact," he said, "that they nominated a man doing time for disloyalty, Debs, is proof of that. We ousted these fellows as punishment for crime. Are you going to reverse yourself because some of these fellows have covered their red shirts with a pink tie, and surrounded their guilty heads with a false halo? If you do it will be an affront to the 80,000 who offered their lives for their country on the battlefields of Europe. Put them out."

Assemblyman Claessens, who spoke next, said that by expelling the Socialists the Assembly would create a new national issue.

"I owe you a lot," he said, "for having advertised me already. Twelve months ago I could not have raised an audience of more than two kids and a cat beyond the marshes of New Jersey. Now I have a national reputation. You have accused us of being traitors. You yourselves, are traitors to the best interests of this State when you complicate the serious work you have come here to do with this farcical proceeding. Let me tell you, we had as much patriotism in our souls when we opposed the war as those who voted for it."

Colonel Gillett said that the Socialist Party was against the Government, that the five men had been sent back by wrong-headed, obstinate, unthinking constituencies and should be thrown out.

McCue Calls Socialists Traitors.

Assemblyman McCue declared he would vote to oust them all.

"We have had no defense, only defiance, from them and their kind," he said. "I believe," he continued, turning toward the five Assemblymen and shaking his fist at them, "that as far as you understand this Government you are traitors to it. I sincerely trust that I shall have the pleasure of seeing you all cast out. You have never produced anything except strife and disloyalty."

"I helped to build the tunnels you are riding in in New York City," broke in Waldman, who was employed as an engineer by the Public Service Commission at one time.

"Yes," said McCue, "and every dollar you received in pay was dishonestly taken because you were preaching anarchy and socialism to your fellow-workers. All of you are untrue to your oath of office. Three of you were proved traitors to the United States, and a traitor is the meanest kind of creature there is. I am reminded that this is the anniversary of the meeting between Benedict Arnold and Major André to arrange for the surrender of West Point. It's a good day on which to throw these fellows out."

Assemblyman Martin said that he could not last Spring have voted to expel the Socialist Assemblymen but for the fact that they were allied with a political group pledged to revolution.

"My legal conclusions," he said, "are such that I cannot conscientiously vote to unseat these men on the facts now before us."

Assemblyman De Witt, the last of the Socialists to speak, said that he had worked in an ammunition plant during the war to help the Government and that the Socialist Party had taken no action against him, but on the contrary had nominated him for the Assembly, thereby showing its tolerance.

"I did more than that," cried DeWitt. "I sold liberty bonds and I sold more Liberty bonds than there were glasses of beer sold over the bar of your saloon," pointing his finger at McCue. "The other day we were traitors and now you say we have purged ourselves. We require no purging. If there is any purging to be done you should do it. My constituents gave me the right to sit here by their vote on Thursday and the only way you can deprive me of that right is to steal it from me."

The debate was ended by Majority Leader Adler and Minority Leader Donohue, both of whom urged the seating of the five Socialists. Majority Leader Adler said that he spoke not as Republican floor leader, but as a member.

The vote on the expulsion of the five Socialists at the regular session stood, in the case of Waldman, 115 to 28; Claessens and Solomon, 116 to 28; Orr and De Witt, 104 to 40.

Panken Condemns Expulsion.

Municipal Court Justice Jacob Panken, Socialist candidate for United States Senator, speaking for the party, made this comment on the new ousting of the Socialists:

"Eight hours of torture to every decent person present was inflicted by the Assembly. Every constitutional provision, every historic tradition, every precedent, even the common decencies were ridden over roughshod by the mighty spokesmen for the Middle Ages.

"The expulsion of Waldman, Claessens and Solomon was an affront to every citizen of the nation, and a betrayal of every citizen of the nation. De Witt and Orr in withdrawing from the session reflect the conviction of all decent people, that this Legislature will not, cannot, nor has it the capacity, to apply itself to an honest solution of the housing situation. I felt that no decent man could sit side by side with the ninety traitors to American institutions.

"The men were expelled without a hearing and without trial. The Socialists made no technical objection, for the position of the Socialists is well known. On the floor each of them frankly stated the Socialist position. Nevertheless, to the shame of the Assembly, history will record the fact that the duly elected representatives were kicked out without a trial."

Socialists Issue Statement.

ALBANY, Sept. 21 (Associated Press). —"What happened in the Assembly tonight is monstrous," said a statement issued by the Socialist Assemblymen. "Never before in the history of the country has a more brazen disregard of the constitutional safeguards of the liberties of the people been shown. The act of the bi-partisan combination is a challenge to the conscience of America. The people must answer it, and they will. The reactionary Assembly has precipitated a crisis which menaces the very existence of democratic Government in this country. There can be no doubting the meaning of this act. It is brutal dictatorship by the tools of vested interests. It is the annihilation of the ballot box. The electorate in five Assembly districts, and for that matter throughout the nation, have been told in unmistakable terms that their verdict at the polls has ceased to count in this State.

"The prejudice and ignorance of the majority of the members of the Assembly have not shaken our faith in the ability and willingness of the people to undo this crime. In that confidence we will go to the electorate again. We shall fight to the very last for 'government of, by and for the people.' On this issue there can be no doubt of the position of the great masses of the people of this country."

Does every man want more than one woman? "One for one" says "Way Down East," 44th St. Theatre, today and tonight.

SEATING CALLED ILLEGAL.

Vote for Socialists Still Uncanvassed in Manhattan and Kings.

The Manhattan Aldermen did not meet yesterday at the County Clerk's office to be sworn in as a Board of County Canvassers to canvass the vote cast at the special election last Thursday in the districts represented by Socialists who were first expelled from the Assembly at the last regular session. Only a few Aldermen appeared, and County Clerk Schneider adjourned the meeting until Thursday. In the meantime, according to local election authorities, the re-elected Socialist Assemblymen have not been officially declared elected.

According to County Clerk Schneider, Secretary of State Hugo had no right to swear them in.

"His action," said Mr. Schneider, "is inexplicable because the Aldermen of Manhattan have not been called together by me to meet to organize themselves into a Board of County Canvassers, and only after they have canvassed the vote and declared the result can I issue a certificate of election, which must be filed by the Assemblymen-elect with Secretary Hugo before they can assume the duties of their office.

"Swearing in the five Socialists is absolutely illegal, as the law requires the presentation of the certificate of election before the oath can be administered by the Secretary of State. The five Socialists cannot serve until they have obtained their certificates of election from myself and the County Clerks of the Bronx and Kings."

According to the County Clerk, it will be next week before the legal formalities of canvassing the vote and issuing the election certificates can be complied with.

Third Assembly District—Samuel De Witt, Socialist, received 3,838 votes, as compared with 2,280 for Milton Altshuler, the Fusion candidate. The total number of votes cast, including void and unmarked ballots, was 6,301.

Fourth District—Samuel Orr, Socialist, received 4,177 votes, as against 3,062 for James J. Collins, the Fusion candidate. The total number of votes cast, including void and unmarked ballots, was 7,425. The count also showed that 1,840 persons voted for Altshuler under the Democratic emblem, 411 under the Republican emblem and 39 under the Fusion Democratic and Republican emblem. For Collins 2,416 votes were cast under the Democratic star, 617 under the Republican eagle and 129 under the Fusion emblem.

Robert S. Allen, Chairman, and William E. Kelly, Secretary of the Board of Canvassers of Kings County, sent yesterday to Speaker Sweet of the Assembly a protest against the seating of Benjamin Klingman and Charles Solomon, one of the expelled Socialists, before the vote of the special elections was canvassed and certificates of election issued. Klingman was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John Damico, Assemblyman from the Nineteenth District. Speaker Sweet said the Assembly was without power to act, since the men have been sworn in.

THOUSANDS GATHER AT CUSTOM HOUSE

ARMED SENTINELS ON GUARD

Only Persons on Business Allowed to Enter Building, in Which Little Work Is Done.

With armed sentinels of the United States Coast Guard, watchful Federal operatives in plain clothes and a cordon of uniformed policemen keeping guard about the Cutsom House, at Bowling Green, yesterday, hours of anxious vigilance passed without the threatened destruction of the building, warning of which was given in an anonymous letter to William H. Edwards, Collector of Internal Revenue, on Monday.

Thousands of persons stood in the streets near the building when the hour of 2 P. M.—the time mentioned in the warning letter—arrived. The faces of the watchers in the streets showed a deep relief as the hour passed and the crowd soon broke up. But the anxiety of those among the 1,700 employes of the building who remained at their posts throughout the day did not wear away until their day's work was done and they could leave the building.

Although the officials were convinced immediately that the warning letter sent to Mr. Edwards was a hoax, every possible precaution was taken to prevent a repetition of the Wall Street bomb outrage. The guards looked closely at every one who approached the building. Those who had business there were subjected to close scrutiny as they entered the doors, and if they had packages or anything suspicious they were stopped and the articles were inspected. Particular care was taken to prevent automobiles or any other vehicles from stopping near the building. Inside, the coast guards, with bayonets fixed marched up and down the corridors and kept every one moving.

Little Work Accomplished.

Little work was done in the Custom House. By 9 o'clock the heads of the departments whose offices are in the building were beginning to get telephone messages from their employes, asking to be allowed to stay away for the day. About one-fourth of the employes were absent when the noon hour arrived, and among those who were present there was a marked tension.

The blowing out of a fuse in a card punching machine in the Customs and Statistics Office added to the nervousness of the young women employed there. As the fuse went out with a flash and a muffled sound, two of the girls fainted and several others became hysterical. James F. Carroll, in charge of the office, decided that there was no use trying to keep the employes there and the staff was dismissed for the day.

Collector Edwards, Colonel Daniel Porter of the Internal Revenue Department and Frank L. Boyd, newly appointed prohibition enforcement agent, took similar action late in the forenoon. By noon most of the young women employed in the building had departed, but the men as a rule stayed at their posts.

One hundred men of the United States Coast Guard, under Captain Reide, took posts in and around the building before noon. Each man carried a loaded rifle, with the bayonet fixed and had a belt full of ammunition. Details from the Department of Justice and Police Headquarters arrived soon afterward. The doors at the north end of the building were barred, except for one entrance through the ground floor.

Watchfulness of Guards Increases.

The watchfulness of the guards increased as 2 o'clock approached. During this period all persons who entered the building were stopped, and only persons who could prove that they had necessary business in the building were allowed to enter. By this time several cars which had been parked near the building were driven away.

There was a flutter of excitement at about 1:30 when a wagon with a red flag trailing from the rear end and containing a small wooden box halted in the rear of the Custom House on Bridge Street. Department of Justice agents questioned the driver, who said that he was employed by Cheseboro-Whitman Company and that he was carrying material for workmen employed on a building nearby.

The Federal agents removed the box from the wagon and sent for the foreman of the men for whom it was said the materials were being carted. When the box was opened it was found that it contained some tools.

The streets in the immediate vicinity of the Custom House, which during the lunch hour were jammed with watchers, were almost deserted when 2 o'clock came. There was tense silence for a few seconds as timepieces were consulted—then a general gasp of relief as the crowds started to move away.

An hour later a lone sentinel stood at each doorway where earlier there had been four or five. Persons entered and left the building without any effort from the guards to question them. The offices then were virtually deserted.

"Well, it was a hoax, after all," said one official. "But it was just as well to be careful. Things will be back to normal tomorrow, I hope."

CLUE REPORTED IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Discovery today of nine pieces of broken sash weights, similar to those found in Wall Street, New York, after last Thursday's explosion, started Department of Justice men here on a search of the business district in a belief that the janitor of one of the large office buildings may have knowledge of the bomb plot.

The weights were found in a bale of waste paper delivered to the firm of Higgins & Henry, junk dealers, at 422 Federal Street, late yesterday. John Higgins, who made the discovery, traced the bale of paper to Abraham Abel, a junk dealer, and questioned him today.

Abel said the bale had come to him from a janitor of an office building at Jackson and Dearborn Streets, whose name he did not know.

Higgins immediately reported the case to the Department of Justice and the search started. Skeptical persons hazard the opinion that a wily janitor had inserted the metal weights in the bale of waste paper to increase his pecuniary gains.

'REDS' CHALLENGE ANSWERED.'

Anglo-Saxon Never Intimidated, Kingsley Wires Lord Desborough.

TORONTO, Sept. 21.—"The challenge of the Reds has been answered with a complete resumption of business within twenty-four hours. The Anglo-Saxon sometimes blunders, but he never has been intimidated."

preserved. Even should the individual who did the work prove to be an itinerant workman, the belief was expressed that he could be located very quickly.

Staten Island Eliminated.

It was the opinion of the farriers that while the front shoes were "pavement shod," the rear ones appeared to be the work of some suburban workman, accustomed to adapting his work to softer roads. Staten Island was eliminated because, according to President John F. Fitzgibbons of the union, there are no union farriers working there. The stamp, in his judgment, was placed on the shoes either in Hudson County, New Jersey, Manhattan, the Bronx or Kings or Queens.

A further inference drawn from expert examination of the shoes was that the horse weighed about 1,200 pounds and was lame. The belief that the horse had been shod perhaps the day of the explosion was based upon the badly worn condition of the off hind hoof, indicating that the animal had done some traveling after new shoes and that his driver, in having it replaced, had been forced to have two new hind shoes because the one remaining was a non-union shoe and union farriers will not replace a single shoe of a non-union job.

That the infernal contrivance may have been the huge bomb which anarchists are said long to have boasted they some day would let loose in Wall Street and that it may have possessed a hitherto unsuspected devilish feature in the form of a flame throwing addition was the theory evolved after experts from the American Can Company, working over pieces of tin picked up near the explosion, had reconstructed five cans which they believe were incorporated into the device. They think three of these cans were of five gallon capacity and the other two of three gallon capacity.

Chemists Examine Fragments.

The new theory is that these five cans were lashed to the central core of the bomb, which itself is believed to have been filled with TNT, and the iron slugs which caused most of the destruction. In the cans may have been picric acid, which would have exploded with just such flame flashes as many eyewitnesses described, accounting for the burning clothing and singed hair, eyebrows and fingernails of some of the dead and injured. Yellowish stains found on the facade of the new Assay Office likewise could be attributed to this chemical. According to this hypothetical reconstruction of the bomb, the cans were encased in turn in the outer integument of the whole contrivance, which may have been a wooden box but, in the opinion of experts, more probably was a metal case.

Corrosions on the inner side of the tin pieces were scraped off yesterday and sent to chemists of the Bureau of Mines and the Health Department in the hope that analysis might yield definite knowledge as to the contents of the cans of which they are supposed to have been parts.

Incidentally it developed while the pieces of tin were under consideration that souvenir hunters who swarmed Wall Street before the police lines drew taut may have carried off important evidence in the form of bits of metal which might be helpful in determining definitely the nature of the bomb. It is hoped that any persons who preserved relics which conceivably might be helpful to the authorities will surrender them at Headquarters without delay. One such piece was recovered yesterday when a Mr. Ropes of the firm of Horace S. Ely & Co. handed over a curved piece of metal about 3 inches by 4 inches, which appeared to be part of a 6-inch shell. It was found on the fifth floor of 52 Wall Street immediately after the explosion.

Immediately after the picric acid can theory had been elaborated, Police and Fire Department officials entered a conference in Fire Commissioner Drennan's office, which started at 11 o'clock in the morning and lasted until nightfall. Among those who attended besides the Commissioner were Fire Marshal Brophy, Dr. William F. Doyle, Chief of the Bureau of Fire Prevention; Assistant Inspector of Combustibles John S. Dixon, investigators from the Fire Marshal's office and that of Dr. Doyle and Detective Captain Busby, temporarily assigned to the Bomb Squad.

Commissioner Drennan said all phases of the department's work in co-operation with the police were discussed, and refused to admit that any particular discovery inspired the long confab, referring all inquirers to the uncommunicative police.

In the course of the day Mr. Drennan refused a newspaper man's request that he be allowed to examine the public records of the handling and transport of explosives in the city. The Commissioner said they could not be seen so long as the investigation was in progress.

The Commissioner refused a request for permission to do some blasting by the construction foreman on the Stock Exchange extension building, the foundation of which, at the southeast corner of Nassau and Broad Streets, now is being cleared. Nervousness of workers in the financial district was the reason assigned, though Mr. Drennan said he might soon permit the work to be done early in the morning or late in the evening.

Truck's Backfire Excites Workers.

His consideration for the tension of those in Wall Street seemed to be justified when yesterday afternoon a big motor truck backfired in front of the Broad Street Curb market. There was a near panic. Many who started to flee tried to avoid the jeers of the stouter hearted by pretending they suddenly had recollected urgent need for being elsewhere. When the excitement was over a rumor started that some one exploded a firecracker as a practical joke. This caused so much indignation that the New York Curb Market Association investigated and issued formal denial.

In face of an unexplained and unsubstantiated revival yesterday of the accident theory of the disaster, to which some detectives, sincerely or otherwise, admitted they were giving credence, there was apparently eliminated the possibility of a powder wagon having been in the neighborhood at the time. John Mulstay of 446 West 151st Street, the only man who drives a du Pont powder wagon in New York, told freely of his deliveries on the day of the explosion, which, he said, never took him below Union Square. When he made a delivery in that neighborhood he found a rumor that his wagon had exploded in Wall Street had preceded him. Mulstay said most of the horse-drawn wagons used around New York up to a few years ago by the du Ponts had been sent to other plants of the concern. One, he recalled, was sold to Michael J. Fitzgerald, a contractor in Sedgwick Avenue, the Bronx.

Wagon Sold by Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald said he used the wagon for a brief period after removing the du Pont name, though he allowed the red paint to remain. Then he sold it to George Lenz, a second-hand dealer, of 530 East 179th Street, the Bronx. Lenz who subsequently had gone out of business and parted with the wagon, was in Pennsylvania yesterday, his wife said, and as she did not know to whom he sold the vehicle, its trail ended there for the time being.

Lenz later was found at his home by a reporter. He said he had been instructed by the police to answer no questions concerning the wagon and to leave word for all inquirers that he was out of town. He asserted he knew nothing that might lead to the perpetrators of the outrage. He had been a towerman for the Interborough for seventeen years.

Before the September Grand Jury, when District Attorney Swann decided to resume the inquiry which he thought on Monday he would interrupt until the police and Federal investigations were more advanced, there was reiterated sworn testimony that there could have been no wagon lawfully and regularly hauling explosives in or near Wall Street at the time.

William D. Fuller, Superintendent of the New Jersey trucking division of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company, gave evidence to that effect, adding, as on previous occasions, that the concern did have a paint and supply wagon with a red trailer downtown that morning.

William J. Morgan, Secretary of Carl Dittmar & Co., the only other concern licensed to transport explosives in this city, repeated his declaration to the police that the company had no wagon south of Forty-second Street in Manhattan that day.

Another witness examined by the Grand Jury was Samuel B. Wellington of 60 Wall Street, whose story of seeing three men flee just before the explosion after two of them on the south side of Wall Street had called to a third standing before a wagon in front of the Assay Office, "Come on, get out of here, beat it!" was published yesterday.

Girl Describes Wagon.

Miss Rebecca Epstein of 79 Seventy-third Street, Brooklyn, employed by Newburger, Henderson & Loeb, brokers at 100 Broadway, repeated to the Grand Jurors her story that as she was returning from lunch she saw a dark wagon with a dark horse attached to it moving east through Wall Street in front of the Assay Office. The wagon had side racks, she thought, and was laden with boxes or barrels.

It was smeared with some white stuff like plaster, which obscured part of the name on the side so she could see only the letters "D N T." She was positive a red flag about one foot square flapped from a standard on the rear of the conveyance. She said she saw the wagon stop before 37 Wall Street—on the same side as the Morgan banking house—and that the driver, a foreigner about 40 years old, wearing brown overalls and looking in need of a shave, got out and walked past her. A moment later came the blast.

John J. Holmes, a 17-year-old messenger boy of 61 West 124th Street, said as he turned into Wall Street from William an automobile pulled up in front of the Morgan Building and driving east about the middle of the street abreast of the halted car he saw a dark horse attached to a dark wagon with black sides. A second later there was an explosion and he saw the automobile in the air.

Daniel J. Nugent, a lawyer of 280 Madison Avenue, said he saw a similar wagon turn east into Wall Street from Nassau and proceed toward William Street. It just had passed the Assay Office when the explosion happened. Cornelius Brosnan, 15 years old, a messenger, living at 401 East Seventy-ninth Street, told of being in Wall Street and said the force of the explosion bent a crucifix he carried in his left hand trousers pocket and tore loose the figure of the Saviour, but did not injure himself.

Appeal by Jury Foreman.

The Grand Jury also recorded the story of Dunham S. Belden, a druggist of Orange, N. J., whose automobile, standing across the street from where the "death wagon" stood before the Assay Office, was burned. William H. Douglass, foreman of the body, in preparation for continuing its investigation today, issued this statement:

"The Grand Jury respectfully requests that any person who saw the explosion or who has any knowledge bearing upon its cause or knows the persons responsible for it to please communicate with the foreman of the Grand Jury, care of Edward Swann, District Attorney, 32 Franklin Street, New York City."

All of the injured in the hospitals were reported yesterday as progressing satisfactorily and their number gradually was being reduced. Physicians and nurses said their stories of the disaster contributed little, as most of them were too dazed, shocked or frightened to have coherent recollections of what happened.

Edwin P. Fischer, brought back to New York from Canada after he had sent warnings of the explosion to a number of persons, remained yesterday in the psychopatnic ward at Bellevue, where he was sent without formal commitment after the authorities decided he was a mental unfortunate and his warnings were ravings which bore only the force of queer coincidence. There was no change in the plan to commit him to the custody of a private sanitarium.

The warning which Collector of Internal Revenue William H. Edwards received of an attempt to blow up the Custom House at 2 P. M. yesterday caused much apprehension. Many clerks remained away and others were dismissed about noon, while extraordinary precautions were taken to guard the structure despite the belief the warning was a hoax or a crank document. There was no explosion.

The authorities have received many requests to examine suspicious packages by persons whose fears have been aroused. They all have been compiled with, but thus far all the "alarming" boxes and bundles have proved quite harmless.

ALL NEW RAG

CRANE papers are not only all-rag—they are all new rag—which is several degrees finer than just "all-rag." But all-rag is a better paper than rag and wood-pulp mixed. Such papers are called "rag-content" papers—meaning that the mixture contains rags. How much rag is used depends on the grade of paper being made. But it is obvious that the greater the percentage of rag, the better the paper, on up to all-rag paper, and then on top of that, all new rag—and there you have CRANE'S.

HARDING CHARGES BETRAYAL OF CHINA

Declares Contract Secretly Made Led to Shantung Award to Japan.

APOLOGIZES TO ROOSEVELT

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Sept. 21.—Speaking today to a Columbus delegation of the Loyal Order of the Golden Heart, Senator Harding charged the Administration with a betrayal of China's confidence in agreeing to the award of Shantung to Japan at the Peace Conference. He spoke of the return of the Boxer indemnity by this country to China as "the first great illustration of a fraternal spirit among nations."

"And that is why China plants its faith in the example, in the democracy, in the justice of the United States of America," he declared. "And we, my countrymen, are greater today by reason of the example which we then set to the world than we could ever hope to be by force of arms, no matter how large our army and navy may be."

Declares China's Trust Failed.

"China went into the war at our request," Senator Harding said in his speech. "I do not know that you recall it, but that Oriental people, at the suggestion of the State Department of our own country, declared war against the Central Empires, Germany and Austria-Hungary. And when the war settlement came about, China sought to be represented at the Peace Conference, and they ought to have been represented. For som reason or other they were not. Then they said, 'We will trust the United States of America to represent us, with confidence in that great Republic,' and yet, somehow, in the Peace Conference, through contract secretly made, China had no voice in the settlement, and instead of being awarded the freedom of her own people under the gospel of self-determination for which America spoke, several millions of her people were delivered over to a rival nation with the consent and approval of those who spoke for America in Paris.

"But when that covenant came into the United States Senate I rejoice that there were Americans in the United States who said 'No,' and we did not approve the Shantung award and we kept the plighted faith in the lesson we taught China some twenty years ago.

"Now, the obligation and the fraternal thought is that you would not enter into any fraternal organization, no matter how high its ideals might be, if you thought it involved the surrender of anything essential to your individual existence, and that, my countrymen, men and women, is precisely the doctrine I am trying to preach just now for the United States. We want to be high and eminent and influential in the fraternity of nations. We want to play our part in the promotion and maintenance of peace throughout the world; aye, we want to play this Republic's part in assuring justice to the world and advancing human kind in every way we can. In America, we want to contribute our part through the application of justice rather than the application of force; and if I can have my way of speaking for America we will never enter into a fraternity that is founded on force, but we do mean to play our part, our full part, along the lines of justice properly applied.

"Surrender" in League Decried.

"So with this new international relationship proposition we Republicans are saying that we do not intend to go in so long as it involves the surrender of anything essential to the dignity, freedom of action, freedom of conscience of the United States of America. But we do willingly say that we want to join any association of nations for the promotion of justice, for the felicitation of international conscience, for turning the deliberate, intelligent public opinion of the world upon international controversy so that it may be settled in the applied conscience of nations rather than through military force directed by council of foreign powers, with capacity to invite, aye, to order the sons of America into war for the protection of the boundaries of nations across the sea. That, my countrymen, America will never consent to. We have our own destiny to work out, and we in America have been working it out to the astonishment and the admiration, yes, to the inspiration of all the world.

"And so I am preaching also the gospel of getting back to the Constitution and putting an end to one-man power in the United States. In your fraternity you do not allow one man to dictate the policy. You choose your leaders, but you determine policy by the vote of your membership. And if we can have our own way in this campaign, we are going to go on in America determining the policy of this Republic by the vote of its intelligent citizenship, doubled hannily now by the addition of the conscience and the aspirations and the convictions of American womanhood. I am glad you women are coming in. Come into the parties and play your part and join in giving expression to the conscience of this wonderful land of ourk."

Senator Harding introduced Lillian Russell as "one of the most eminent women of America, long distinguished for her notable, successful and highly honorable career on the American stage."

"A great many women do not know how to vote," she said. "Many do not know whether they should be Republicans or Democrats, because they have never studied political parties and have not looked into matters of this kind very thoroughly. But they must be taught which is the party of progress and of safety.

"Practically every benefit you are receiving from the National Government has come through the Republican Party, and even during Democratic Administrations the Republicans were foremost in putting through important legislation. One of the most important was the Child Labor bill.

"Now, my dear lady friends, in conclusion I am going to tell you my opinion of our opponent by telling you a little story."

She then related the story of Queen Mary visiting a British "Tommy" whose pronunciation, "Wypers," she corrected by repeating "Eep." When the soldier was told afterward that the Queen had visited him he said: "That was no queen, she was an old maid with the hiccoughs."

Big Delegations Expected.

West Virginians will hold a State meeting at the front porch on Friday, when about 1,000 are expected. They will come by motor cars. This is considered likely to be, in point of numbers, the largest pilgrimage of its kind during the front porch campaign.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 members of the Harding and Coolidge Traveling Men's League are expected here Saturday for the final day of the porch campaign. There will be special trains of commercial travelers from New York, Chicago, Indianapolis, Boston and Philadelphia. Another special will bring several hundred men from Ohio cities.

Senator Harding will make his first political speech of the campaign in Ohio, outside of Marion, on Oct. 2, at a meeting on the road between West Jefferson and Plain City, at a point which marks the junction of Madison, Union and Franklin Counties.

Predicts Pennsylvania Sweep.

MARION, Ohio, Sept. 21 (Associated Press).—At the front porch meeting today, addressed by Lillian Russell, her husband, Alexander P. Moore of Pittsburgh, made a brief speech predicting that Pennsylvania would give Harding and Coolidge a majority of 1,000,000.

W. J. James of Illinois, National Representative of the United Mine Workers for that State, today discussed labor and political conditions with Senator Harding. After the conference Mr. James issued a statement in which he said:

"Being a Republican, I am for the Republican Party and the Harding-Coolidge ticket. I find that miners who are Republicans are going to support Harding and those who are Democrats will support Cox. President Gompers's effort to deliver the labor vote to the Democratic ticket will fall just as it always has failed."

HARDING SENDS APOLOGY.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Sept. 21.—Senator Harding sent a telegram of apology to Franklin D. Roosevelt today for having quoted a newspaper account of a statement that Mr. Roosevelt already had denied uttering, concerning the League votes of Haiti and San Domingo and this country's relation to them. This message was in reply to a telegram from Mr, Roosevelt calling his attention to the matter.

While reserving his opinion of the Administration's policy toward the two black republics, the Senator assured Mr. Roosevelt that he had not seen the Democratic Vice Presidential nominee's denial of the published report of his Montana speech, and that his error was unintentional. He requested newspaper correspondents at Marion to give as much publicity to his Roosevelt telegram as was given to his reference to the affair in his Constitution Day speech delivered to delegations last Friday from Ohio counties.

In that speech Senator Harding quoted the repudiated newspaper account of Mr. Roosevelt's speech to the effect that he "had something to do with the running of a couple of little republics," and that until he had resigned as Assistant Secretary of the Navy he had two votes in the League Assembly, but now Secretary Daniels had them. This, the Senator said last Friday, was "the most shocking assertion that ever emanated from a responsible member of the Government of the United States."

Senator Harding's telegram read:

Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt,
Care Democratic National Committee,
New York City.

Your telegram stating that I quoted in a speech on Sept. 17 a statement which you had already publicly denied is received. I am frank to say I had not seen and have not yet seen such denial, but I accept your statement in good faith and express regret that I should have quoted you. I am sincerely sorry for any implied misrepresentation of you, or any other candidate, even though the error was wholly unintentional.

This does not in any way abate my opinion as to the policy of your Administration in dealing with Haiti and San Domingo, but I do want to express regret for the quotation of a statement you disavow. Because I am devoted to truth and courtesy I am asking the news associations and newspaper correspondents to carry this telegram as conspicuously as they did the quotation.

W. G. HARDING.

Mr. Roosevelt's telegram to Senator Harding was:

Regret to see in today's speech you have put into my mouth an alleged statement about the votes in the League of Nations of Haiti and San Domingo which I had already publicly denied making and which denial was printed in all the leading newspapers. I cannot believe you did this intentionally.

F. D. ROOSEVELT.

JOHNSON INDORSES HARDING ON LEAGUE

ATTACKS WILSON POLICIES

Four Parties Meet in State Conventions on the Same Day in Sacramento.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 21.—Senator Hiram W. Johnson, in his first speech in behalf of the Republican national ticket, indorsed the attitude of Senator Harding on the League of Nations here today. The speech was made to the Republican State Convention at its opening session. It began with congratulations "upon the outlook for Republican success" and an attack upon the present Democratic Administration.

"So wide is the dissatisfaction with the present Administration," he said, "so great the hostility to many acts of the President, and so acute the justifiable fear of the metamorphosis of our foreign policy, that apparently nothing can prevent overwhelming Republican success in the November election.

"The indictment brought against Mr. Wilson's Government is severe but warranted by the facts. For the first time in our lives the Democratic Administration taught us what repression and suppression were. This Administration not only curtailed the constitutional privileges of citizens at home, but endeavored to drive us into perilous paths abroad. Free speech has been threatened, not in the interest of patriotism, but for existing power. A free press has been endangered. A rigid censorship diluted the news, and facts to which all were entitled were forbidden publication, while Government propaganda colored and often distorted the information permitted to come to the people. These assaults insensibly bred intolerance, the ancient foe of freedom. The necessary restrictions of wartime have been inexcusably prolonged in peace, and our Government has strayed far from those fundamental principles upon which for more than a century and a quarter the Republic has so securely rested."

Senator Johnson then attacked the Administration on the League of Nations issue.

"Under the specious guise of a League of Nations to promote peace and prevent war we were to be inextricably bound hereafter to every future world war," he continued.

Takes Pride in Harding's Attitude.

"Upon the League of Nations the issue is clean cut. There are some gentlemen who seek by construction of words to obscure it. I do not object to these gentlemen and their newspaper protagonists saving their faces so long as they do not carry their League. But the language of the two candidates is plain and unambiguous. The one says he will go into the League, and I am proud to say that our candidate says he will stay out of the League.

"Every normal man desires to promote peace and prevent war. Every private citizen and every individual in official position will do his utmost in the endeavor to promote peace and prevent war. It is possible that this may be done in one way or another in the future without inviting entanglements or imperialistic policies or European or Asiatic schemes of aggression or ambition. That we will strive to find a way to prevent war goes without saying. But the present issue is the League of Nations. This has been the issue since the return of Mr. Wilson from Europe. During all the bitter, vindictive months this has been the fight. It finally culminates now in solemn referendum to the people.

"Mr. Cox says if he is successful he will go in. Our candidate says he will stay out. Mr. Harding, happily for himself and for America, has scrapped the League."

Senator Johnson quoted Senator Harding as having said on Aug. 28, "The League is impotent as a preventative of wars," and that "the original League mistakenly conceived and unreasonably insisted on, has undoubtedly passed beyond the possibility of restoration."

"On Saturday last," he said, "Senator Harding again stated the issue: 'The Constitution or the Covenant, that is the paramount issue.' The two are irreconcilable. We cannot be governed from both Geneva and Washington. We cannot follow our present Chief Magistrate without forsaking the father of our country.'"

Senator Johnson concluded by saying the Issue "arouses not only our greatest enthusiasm, but our loftiest patriotism," and, declaring the "Republican Party marches to victory in this campaign, under the banner of Americanism."

Four political conventions opened in Sacramento today—Republican, Democratic, Socialist and Prohibitionist—to make pronouncements of party policies, name Presidential Electors and choose State Central Committee members.

One lone Progressive who qualified at the August primary called for his credentials and went into session by himself. He was John W. Fowler, colored, candidate for the Assembly from Alameda County.

The Socialists, at an early informal convention, approved a resolution condemning action by the United States Government that would aid the Poles in their war against Soviet Russia.

In each convention except the Socialist a delegate was ready to offer a resolution approving a prohibition enforcement act which comes before the voters in November as a referendum measure.

Senator James D. Phelan, who did not attend the Democratic Convention, had prepared a resolution indorsing legislation to restrict Oriental immigration and sent a message saying the Democratic Administration would not trespass on State jurisdiction over questions relating to it.

COMMENDS HARDING POLICY

Morning Post Says British Will Welcome Fair Competition.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The Morning Post, in an editorial on its correspondent's conversation with Senator Harding and the latter's admission that his policy might lead to Anglo-American commercial rivalry, says:

"Commercial rivalry is a condition with which we may lay our account on every side of the world and under whatever administrations. Nothing is gained by glossing over the existence of this competition of interests, and Harding's position that it need involve no ill-will if fairly and openly pursued is undoubtedly the common-sense view, whose open profession averts misunderstanding.

"In the same spirit, we take it that Harding would take no exception to Britain's action if it should be the case of standing upon her treaty rights in regard, for instance, to the Panama Canal traffic. In reference to this question, Harding said, 'a treaty is a treaty, a solemn obligation, the terms of which must be solemnly observed,' but he added enough to indicate that if he should be brought to the Presidency we may expect to find the question raised diplomatically at an early date.

"This is fair notice, and we ask nothing more than the policy of plain dealing, believing this to be the best policy for all interests in the long run."

The Morning Post concludes by saying that Harding is "evidently a robust American, whom in some respects we shall have to consider as a downright opponent of British interests. But Britain can and will see to the preservation of her own interests in the long run and reserve no malice toward her competitors. It is the incomprehensible man who in international politics is a real danger."

NOTIFY MILLER TONIGHT.

Ex-Governor Hughes to Speak for Republicans at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 21.—The Syracuse Citizens' Committee tonight completed its plans for ceremonies in connection with the formal notification tomorrow night of former Judge Nathan L. Miller, Republican candidate for Governor.

Members of the State Committee, Chairmen of county committees, the Notification Committee, all candidates on the State ticket and members of the Women's State Executive Committee will be guests of the citizens at dinner.

Arrangements have been made to handle an enormous throng on the lawns at the Miller home, where former Governor Charles E. Hughes will notify Judge Miller of his nomination. The response will outline, for the first time, the platform and principles upon which Judge Miller will make his campaign.

ALBANY, Sept. 21.—Notification of nominees on the Democratic State ticket will take place here Friday night. Former Judge D-Cady Herrick of Albany, who two years ago notified Governor Smith at Syracuse of his nomination, again making the notification addresses; W. W. Farley, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, announced tonight.

Governor Smith, Lieutenant Governor Walker and other nominees will respond and the issues of the campaign will be discussed.

An adjourned meeting of the Democratic State Committee will be held previous to the notification ceremony, and the list of Democratic Presidential electors will be completed.

Chairman Farley also announced that the Executive Committee of the State committee which has charge of the campaign, has opened headquarters at Syracuse.

LEAGUE HALTING WAR, M'ADOO SAYS

Points to the Sweden-Finland and the Poland-Lithuania Submissions.

TOLL PLATFORM ATTACKED

Chairman White Says Harding Convicts Republicans of Immoral Stand.

The Democratic Campaign Committee was jubilant yesterday over the news from abroad that the League of Nations was functioning at the very time that Senator Harding, the Republican Presidential candidate, Senator Hiram Johnson and other anti-Leaguers were proclaiming that the League was a "fraud" and had been "scrapped." For the balance of the campaign the committee will make the most of the fact that possible war has been averted between Sweden and Finland and Poland and Lithuania as the result of action by the League of Nations.

"While Republican leaders have been declaring that the League of Nations would cause wars and promote wars, we have a striking example of the fact that the League of Nations is actually preventing wars," said William G. McAdoo, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, who is taking an active part in the Democratic campaign. "Sweden and Finland have agreed to submit their controversy over the Aland Islands to the Council of the League, and Poland and Lithuania agreed yesterday to suspend hostilities and to submit their boundary dispute to the Council of the League of Nations.

"The Republican opposition to the League is based upon conjecture and misunderstanding as well as misrepresentation of the League. This will be made clearer and clearer as the League continues to function and with the progress of events. It should be emphasized that the prevention of these two wars, which the League has just attained through the peaceful methods of arbitration and inquiry, has been accomplished, notwithstanding the fact that the United States has not yet joined the League. With the moral influence of active support of the League, the prevention of wars through peaceful methods of arbitration and inquiry will be made ever more certain than now.

"The American people have always been the champions of the peaceful settlement of international disputes through arbitration. Surely they will not be misled into opposition to this great peaceful organization, the League of Nations, through purely linguistic arguments and vague imaginings of visionless political leaders who are more intent upon gaining the spoils of reward of office than in conserving the peace of the world and the cause of humanity."

Chairman George White of the National Committee, said:

"On the very day that the League of Nations prevented one war and ended another one, Senator Harding told some porch pilgrims that the League was a 'stupendous fraud.' But the honeymoon of misrepresentation against the League is about over. This sickening smash of the truth against a falsehood yesterday is the beginning of a series of such collisions which will end in the election of the candidates who support the League.

"In the same speech the Senator admits that equal tolls through the canal is a 'moral obligation.' But the platform on which he was nominated proposes breaking that obligation. Thus the Republican candidate convicts his party and platform of an immoral attitude, and he convicts himself, too, because in his speech of acceptance he said he just loved the Americanism of the plank which stands for treaty-breaking on the tolls question."

cussed his stand against "reactionaries," expressed his belief in a need of ideals in government and discussed domestic problems that, he said, had resulted from reactionary government.

In speaking in Long Beach of the Japanese question the Governor said his policy as President would be to permit the State of California, as mostly interested, to have the leading voice in the fixing of the national policy toward Oriental races.

Turning to the League of Nations covenant, Governor Cox said that while, perhaps, it needed refining, yet he upheld it and presented arguments to support his view.

Turning to reclamation problems, the speaker said he was coming back to California during his first term with the message that the $40,000,000 it formerly cost to bufld a battleship could be used to reclaim 2,000,000 acres of arid land.

From Long Beach the Governor returned here, going to an auditorium where an audience of several thousand women greeted him.

Governor Cox repeated the arguments for a League of Nations he had advanced here last night and at Long Beach this morning. After his fourth address of the day the candidate left for the Farm and Tractor Show at Glendale, near here, where he was to speak briefly.

On his return from Long Beach Governor Cox spoke to a gathering of club women of Southern California. But he was unable to keep engagements for three other addresses. He was able, however, to keep an engagement at a motion picture studio in Hollywood, where he "acted" on a "set" prepared especially for his visit.

The "set" represented the Ship of State, and he took up a position on the bridge, while about the craft, in water which reached their ankles, several girls disported in bathing suits. In a short talk from the bridge, the Governor extolled the motion picture industry.

WHITE HOUSE REPLY MADE TO HARDING

nounced purpose, it would greatly please this country if the Senators would give him unanimous support. Such action would be heard around the world with acclaim.

"In another article Mr. Taft said:

I consider that the moral effect of Article X. on predatory nations would restrain them from war as the declaration of the Monroe Doctrine has done, and that the requirement of unanimous consent by the representatives of the great powers in council before League action, would safeguard the United States from any perversion of the high purpose of the League. Moreover, I believe that the issue of the League transcends in its importance any domestic issue and would justify and require one who believes so to ignore party ties and secure this great boon for the world and this country.

Wickersham and Straus Quoted.

"Evidently Mr. Wickersham, formerly Attorney General under Mr. Taft, and who is now supporting Mr. Harding, does not agree with the Republican candidate that the ratification of the League of Nations and the Treaty of Versailles means that our boys 'will be sent across the seas.'

"In an article in The Baltimore Sun he said:

For, if Sir Edward Grey had been able to get Austria into a conference with the representatives of the other great powers over the Serbian question at the outset of the war, 1,000,000 dead men would be alive today.

"There is another leading Republican, Mr. Oscar Straus, formerly Secretary of Commerce, whose views are at variance with those of the Republican candidate as to the burdens our country would have to bear under Article X. In an article appearing in The New York Sun-Herald, he characterized the Versailles Treaty as 'the greatest political achievement of the world's diplomacy.' He said that Article X. means the adoption by the world of the principles of the Monroe Doctrine.

"Evidently, Mr. Hoover, who is now supporting the Republican candidate, Mr. Harding, does not agree with the Article X. bugaboo, that under it we will be compelled to send 'our boys across the seas.' Mr. Hoover, in discussing our responsibilities under Article X., said:

The League agrees that military force may be used in defense against invasion of one country by another, and the consent must mean the United States Congress on our side. From my own experience I believe that the discussion, negotiations, arbitration and enlightenment of public opinion, leading to the normal isolation of an outcast, will be all sufficient, coupled with the knowledge that other weapons exist. The hope which I, as an independent observer, have placed in the League is that it will forever relieve the United States of the necessity to again send a single soldier outside of our boundaries.

Hoover Cited Need of Consent.

"In further discussing our responsibilities under Article X., Mr. Hoover said:

We hear the cry that the League obligates that our sons be sent to fight in foreign lands. Yet the very intent and structure of the League is to prevent war. There is no obligation for the United States to engage in military operations or allow any interference with our internal affairs without the full consent of our representatives in the League.

To me every line of the Covenant is the complete negation of militarism. During the course of negotiations in Paris the fact stood out with regard to the League. The opposition there arose entirely from the representatives of the old militaristic régimes and from the reactionaries of the world in general.

"Evidently Mr. Hoover does not agree with Mr. Harding that the League of Nations is a mere super-Government whose object is war, for in his Leland Stanford University speech he said:

I am one of those who hold that this war would never have happened if the nations of Europe had accepted the invitation of Sir Edward Grey to a conference of civilians in July, 1914. I believe that if the intelligence of the world can be aggregated around a table, the pressure from these responsible men for a solution which will prevent the enormous loss of life and the fabulous amount of human misery created by war will be such that no body of decent men in these times can résist it. We have now seen the most terrible five years of history because the reactionaries of Europe refused to come into a room to discuss the welfare of humanity.

From this mighty political, social and economic upheaval there has resulted a host of outstanding problems which can breed war at any minute. The liberal world is asking us to come into a council to find a solution for these things. That world is not asking for soldiers; it is asking for our economic and moral weight, our idealism and our disinterested sense of justice. Are we not to take the responsibility that rests on the souls of these men in Europe who refused this invitation in 1914?

HAYS NAMES FORTY AS ADVISORY BODY

Former Progressives and Both Opponents and Advocates of League on List.

SIXTEEN WOMEN MEMBERS

Republican Chairman Cites Personnel of New Committee as Evidence of Party Harmony.

Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, made public yesterday the personnel of the new Republican Campaign Advisory Committee, the members of which are to take a prominent part in the conduct of the Harding-Coolidge campaign. As an indication of the harmony existing within the party Chairman Hays pointed out that many former Progressives are on the committee and both opponent and advocates of the League of Nations. Among those the Chairman specifically cited as belonging to the latter group were Herbert C. Hoover and ex-President William H. Taft.

The committe consists of forty members, twenty-four men and sixteen women. Practically every Northern and Western State is represented. The list follows:

Walter F. Brown of Toledo, Progressive Ohio campaign manager for Roosevelt in 1912 and recently defeated for the Republican nomination for United States Senator; Mrs. Albert Brueggeman of St. Louis, Judge William P. Bynum of Greensboro, N. C., former President of the American Bar Association; ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, former member of the Bull Moose Party; Mrs. Frederick P. Bagley of Boston, Governor Thomas E. Campbell of Phoenix, Ariz., former Bull Mooser; Governor Robert D. Carey of Wyoming, former Bull Mooser; Mrs. Thomas C. Carter of Washington, D. C., wife of former United States Senator Thomas C. Carter; Miss Margaret Cobb of Boise, Idaho; former United States Senator Joseph P. Dixon of Montana, who was Chairman of the Progressive National Convention in 1912; R. A. Eddy of Augusta, Me.; Mrs. E. J. Fleckert of Plainfield, N. J.; Mrs. George T. Guernsey of Independence, Kan., former President General of the D. A. R.; Mrs. Guy P. Gannett of Augusta, Me., who organized the Republican women during the recent election in that State; Herbert C. Hoover of Palo Alto, Cal.; Charles E. Hughes of New York City, William L. Hutchinson of Indianapolis, President of the Carpenters and Joiners of North America.

Mrs. Solomon Hirsch of Portland, Ore.; Major Frank R. Knox of Manchester, N. H.; Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, William H. Lewis of Boston, Assistant Attorney General under President Taft; Mrs. Lillian Russell Moore of Pittsburgh, Representative John I. Nolan of San Francisco, who was the California campaign manager for Senator Hiram Johnson; Governor Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, the present Republican candidate for Senator; Colonel William Cooper Procter of Cincinnati, campaign manager for Leonard Wood; Senator Miles Poindexter of Spokane, Wash., Chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee; Mrs. George Poffenbarger of Charleston, W. Va.; John C. Shaffer of Chicago, owner of a chain of newspapers; Oscar S. Straus of New York City, who was the Progressive candidate for Governor of New York; William Sacks of St. Louis, Governor William C. Sproul of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Max C. Sloss of San Francisco, Mrs. C. A. Severance of St. Paul, Minn.; William H. Taft of New Haven, Mrs. Harriet E. Vittum of Chicago, who was Chairman of the women's division of the Wood campaign; Horace C. Wilkinson of New York City, Henry C. Wallace of Des Moines, Iowa; Miss Maude Wetmore of Providence, R. I.; Miss Bina M. West of Port Huron, Mich., and Mrs. Theodore Youmans of Waukesha, Wis.

Chairman Hays said that the makeup of the committee conclusively showed that there was complete harmony in the party, and that even differences of opinion regarding the League of Nations was not interfering with the Republican demand for the election of Senator Harding.

MOB TRIES TO LYNCH NEGRO

Two Policemen Save Woman's Alleged Assailant.

Patrolmen held back a crowd with drawn revolvers yesterday when they attempted to lynch Henry Smith, a negro chauffeur of 2 West 137th street, accused of attacking and robbing Mrs. Mary Henderson of 642 West 172d Street.

Mrs. Henderson stepped into the vestibule of an apartment house at 654 St. Nicholas Avenue in search for an apartment. Smith, she said, posed as the superintendent and volunteered to show her a vacant apartment. In the hallway he knocked her down, she said, and grabbed her pocketbook containing $5. The woman screamed and Patrolmen Larkin and Hughes of the West 152d Street station gave chase. They fired several shots at Smith. One bullet penetrated his left hand.

A crowd gathered when Smith fled into a nearby areaway and when he was dragged out an attempt was made to get at him, but the police saved him. He was locked up in the West 135th Street station.

REASONABLY PRICED FINE FURNITURE

The Sloane Collection

Several old New York Establishments have a national reputation for excellence of goods and service.

The prestige of their names is so great and their homes so imposing that many persons of artistic tastes but moderate means hesitate to visit them, feeling that the high quality must express itself in high prices.

On the contrary, articles in these great houses, quality for quality, cost less than elsewhere, and in order to spread such knowledge, visitors are as welcome as purchasers.

In the field of Furniture there is a conspicuous case of this rare association of high quality and reasonable price.

Sloane's devote fully as much attention to their Collection of Reasonably Priced Fine Furniture as to their special hand made pieces. This Collection is growing in size and usefulness all the time, because merit, price and the guarantee of an honored name, make shopping there a delightful experience.

BUTLER SEES SWEEP IN THE FAR WEST

LOOKS FOR SENATE GAINS

After an Extensive Trip He Finds Demand for "Constructive Progress."

Victory for the Republican national ticket in twelve of the fifteen States of the Far West was predicted last night by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, immediately after his return from a two months' trip, which carried him all over that territory from the Canadian to the Mexican border. Political apathy and economic prosperity characterizes that section of the country, according to Dr. Butler. He said the Non-Partisan League, founded by A. C. Townley and still strong in the Northwest, had passed its zenith, and said that public opinion in the West was steadily growing against the "absurdities" of the direct primary system of nominations.

"Despite marked and widespread apathy," said Dr. Butler, "the Republican Party leaders in States west of the Missouri River are very confident of the result, which many regard as due to the fact that people have definitely made up their minds how to vote in November. In 1916 Wilson's re-election was brought about not only by the loss of Ohio, but by the defection of the great group of States west of the Missouri River that were formerly Republican.

"Of the fifteen States in that region, having eighty-three electoral votes, Wilson carried thirteen, with seventy-three electoral votes, in 1916. In 1920 it is most usual to hear voters of every class and type in these States express the most bitter antagonism to the Wilson Administration and its policies. They seem to be stirred by an amusing mixture of regret, remorse and revenge. Unless some new factor should enter later in the campaign, it seems likely that twelve of these fifteen States, with seventy-three electoral votes, will be carried by Harding.

"In these trans-Missouri States there are eight chances to gain Republican Senators and so ensure breaking the deadlock that has existed at Washington for two years past. In California, although Senator Phelan has a large personal following, it is confidently believed that Shortridge will win. Governor Gooding is expected to defeat Senator Nugent in Idaho, and other gains are counted in South Dakota and Colorado. In Oregon, however, Senator Chamberlain will probably succeed himself. He is very popular, and his sharp criticism of the Administration has brought him much Republican support."

Analyzing the general political situation, Dr. Butler said that following the rejection of radical platform planks, both at Chicago and San Francisco, a number of things had happened to encourage advocates of "constructive progress." Among these he mentioned the nomination of ex-Senator Theodore E. Burton for Congress in Ohio, the renomination of Senator Lenroot in Wisconsin, despite the opposition of the La Follette faction; the nomination of Samuel M. Shortridge for Senator in California over two radical candidates, and the renomination of Judge Stanley Webster in the Spokane district of Washington against Non-Partisan League opposition.

"Against these gains, however," Dr. Butler continued, "must be put as losses the withdrawal from public life of Senator Thomas of Colorado, one of the ablest men now in service at Washington; the defeat of Congressman Esch of Wisconsin as the penalty for rendering highly meritorious public service, and the recrudescence of the Georgia historian of the French Revolution and of Napoleon, the Hon. Tom Watson of Thomson."

Dr. Butler said that a Republican national victory was expected in the Far West and that there was a general belief that this would be followed by a speedy and constructive solution of Peace Treaty problem in accordance with the nation's established foreign policy.

bleeding as a result of being hit by flying glass and debris. The Dublin hospitals are dealing with the casualties.

Many Clashes Elsewhere.

DUBLIN, Seppt. 21 (Associated Press)—Numerous clashes resulting in deaths and serious injuries continue in various parts of the country. Latest reports received this morning recorded the shooting of Sergeant McGuire at Ferbane, 11½ miles southeast of Athlone, while making an arrest. McGuire was taken to a hospital in a critical condition.

Constable Donoghue was wounded from ambush at Newcastle and died. A saloon keeper at Palinglass was fired upon and wounded seriously yesterday, while a constable was wounded at the same time.

Two civilians while passing the barracks in Abbeyfeale, County Limerick, failed to halt when challenged. The police fired, wounding both men.

The "Black and Tans" returned to Balbriggan this afternoon, 150 strong, and began discharging further shots at Sinn Fein houses.

According to a parish priest the death of Larless and Gibbons, whose bodies bore both bayonet and bullet wounds, followed upon demands on them from the "Black and Tans" to disclose the names of the local Sinn Fein leaders.

With only a remnant of the population remaining in town, Balbriggan tonight was reported to be quiet. According to information received in Dublin the "Black and Tans" entered Balbriggan this afternoon at the very moment a delegation from the town, composed of clergymen and leading citizens, was being received at Dublin Castle to ask for further protection from depredations.

It is said that the "Black and Tans" drove through the streets of Balbriggan in motor lorries, throwing bombs and firing rifles. So far as is known, there were no further casualties. The only persons in the street at the time were a few Dublin journalists and photographers, who sought cover when the lorries approached.

There is intense excitement in Dublin tonight.

BELFAST, Sept. 21.—Following a display by Ulster volunteers today, armed and disguised men in uniform attacked several premises in Carrick-on-Shannon, County Leitrim, and caused considerable damage with rifle fire and bombs.

MacSwiney Considerably Weaker.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Mrs. MacSwiney, who visited her husband this evening, said that his condition was very bad indeed. He was in great pain and had not spoken all day. He was still conscious, however.

A late bulletin issued by the Irish Self-Determination League said: "The Lord Mayor's condition is unchanged. He is still in a very prostrate condition, but conscious."

A bulletin issued at 10 o'clock tonight says: "The doctor, after visiting the Lord Mayor, said he was in a very weak condition, and advised his relatives not to speak to him or cause him the slightest exertion."

MacSwiney has now equalled the professional fasting test of Dr. Tanner, who abstained from food for forty days in New York in 1880 after having fasted without observation for forty-two days in 1877. An Italian named Nucci once fasted for forty-five days.

The morning bulletin issued by the league said the Lord Mayor passed a very restless night. He had some sleep, but it was quite fitful, and he was very weak this morning. Today was the fortieth day of his fast.

Asked the direct question whether MacSwiney was being fed, a Home Office official said this morning:

"Not that we know of, but you must remember his relatives have free access to him."

This is the first time officials have qualified the statement that as far as the Government's doctors know the Lord Mayor is not receiving nourishment.

The prison physician reported this morning that MacSwiney was considerably weaker than he was yesterday.

Miss Annie MacSwiney, the Mayor's sister, replying to the statement by the Home Office yesterday, says:

"The Home Office is simply attempting to draw a red herring across the track of the real question at issue. The present protest of the Lord Mayor is not directed against the kind or degree of treatment meted out to him, the protest is against the act of imprisoning him. It is a declaration before the world that Ireland denies England's right to set up its house within the Irish Republic or to arrest and imprison citizens of the republic.

She further declares that the Lord Mayor was treated with the utmost indignity on his own official premises, his private room being raided, municipal documents seized and the Mayor then "tried and condemned by an alien court for having under his control the police cipher, of which he alone, as Lord Mayor of the city, was entitled to have control."

Cork Men Fast Forty-three Days.

CORK, Sept. 21.—The hunger strikers here were made more comfortable today with a change to new mattresses and in some instances new bedsteads. Each also was provided with an oil stove.

All the prisoners are reported to be very weak, but conscious, with the exception of Sean Hennessy, who has been unconscious for a long time.

The length of their hunger strike, forty-three days, has now approached the utmost limit of fasting as endured by professional fasters of various countries. The prison doctors point out that the professionals usually, as a preliminary to their proposed ordeal, go into training, fattening themselves for weeks before the beginning of their trial. In the case of these prisoners, however, none was particularly robust when the hunger strike began. Several of them were even in delicate health.

The doctors reiterate that they are convinced the strikers are not receiving nourishment in any form and are getting no stimulants in the water taken.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—The St. Louis Democratic City Committee today cabled an appeal to the British Government for the release of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork.

JEWS OBSERVING YOM KIPPUR TODAY

Day of Atonement Is Passed in Prayer and Repentance—Began at Sundown.

DENOUNCE BOMB OUTRAGE

Rabbis Condemn Treatment of Jews In Central Europe—Pogroms Are Denounced.

Today is the Day of Atonement in the Jewish calendar. Among Jews the world over the day is known as Yom Kippur. The observance began at sundown yesterday. Jewish tradition is that if the day is spent in praying and repenting one's sins between man and God they will be pardoned by God, but the sins committed by man against his fellowman cannot be pardoned until he has appeased the one wronged.

Rabbi Samuel Schulman of Temple Beth-El, Fifth Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street, in his Yom Kippur sermon gave his views on the bomb crime of last Thursday.

"That such an event as the dastardly act which killed over thirty innocent people and wounded hundreds was possible shows how woefully the human heart has gone astray," said Dr. Schulman. "It is not enough for us to vent our just indignation. It will not do merely to look for the capture of the misguided wretches. We must see to it that justice and the upholding of the sanctities of life shall be vindicated in the retribution imposed upon them.

Pogroms Are Condemned.

"We must become conscious of the deeper causes which have brought about the mental disease, the moral degeneracy, the atrocious ruthlessness which promoted such an act."

Many rabbis in their sermons last evening condemned the present treatment of Jews in Central Europe.

"We may take consolation in the hope that the last chapter of the gruesome story of Israel's persecution is drawing to a close," said the Rev. Dr. Israel Goldstein, rabbi of Temple B'nai Jeshurun, 257 West Eighty-eighth Street. "It is doubtful whether pogroms will be countenanced much longer even by benighted Governments which have heretofore stimulated them.

"The world is beginning to learn at last that Jew-killing brings its own nemesis. The lesson which history teaches that whoever acts the executioner against the Jew is himself doomed to the gallows is at last beginning to impress our latest persecutors.

Aided by America and England.

"It is becoming recognized everywhere that no nation can afford to stand before the eyes of the world as a murderer, that no nation may expect to appeal to its fellow nations for assistance and recognition and hope to receive it when its hands are stained with the blood of Jewish martyrs. Thank God, America and England have helped powerfully to make that fact clear to those who needed elucidation."

Rabbi Herbert S. Goldstein in the Institutional Synagogue, 110th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue, deplored the fact that so many young Jews were falling away from the practice of the religion of their fathers. The cure for this, he argued, was the institutional synagogue. The rabbi said the institutional synagogue represented three different Jewish institutions, all under one roof.

"In short, it represents the combination of the synagogue, the social and athletic centre and the school house—all in one building. Man is so constituted that he naturally follows the path of least resistance. The institutional synagogue offers this path for the furtherance of the best religious, moral, social and physical ends."

Dr. Goldstein said the institutional synagogue cemented the family because old people, young men and women and the children would all come and have recreation and education "in a truly Jewish atmosphere."

Deplores Slanders Against Jews.

"Slander" was the topic of the Rev. Dr. Maurice H. Harris in Temple Israel, Lenox Avenue and 120th Street. He deplored what he called "the grave calumnies recently cast against the Jewish people throughout the world."

Rabbi Louis I. Newman of the Bronx Free Synagogue, Prospect Avenue and Macy Place, preached on "The Jewish Message to a Cynical World." This morning at 9 o'clock Rabbi Stephen S. Wise will preach in this building, which is a branch of the downtown Free Synagogue. The topic of Dr. Wise will be "Israel's Peril and Christendom's Shame."

Great pressure was brought to bear yesterday upon the immigration force at Ellis Island to urge the speedy inspection of several thousand Jewish immigrants so that they might be released to take up a new life in a new country with the beginning of Yom Kippur. On the New Rochelle, whose passengers were inspected Sunday there were only twelve Gentiles and 1,400 Jews.

Hundreds of fowl were slaughtered in the Ghetto yesterday. The men who made this vicarious sacrifice offered a cock and the women offered a hen. This is in atonement for their sins of the year.

FARMERS ASK MORE CREDIT.

Governor of Reserve Board Promises Help in Crop Moving.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—General credit conditions facing the farmers of the country were discussed today at an informal conference between Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board and a committee representing various farmers' organizations.

Representatives of the farmers told the Governor that there was a feeling in agricultural districts that the farmers had not received the fullest consideration under the board's policy for the restriction of credit to the various lines of industry and urged more elasticity for the marketing of the crops.

Governor Harding assured the committee that the board was in complete sympathy with the problems of the farmers and that every effort was being made to assure funds for crop movement. The board always stood ready to co-operate with the farmers, he declared.

PRECAUTIONS IN LONDON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON Sept. 21.—The committee of the London Stock Exchange issued a notice today that parcels for the members could be delivered and claimed only at the cloakroom in the Broad Street station which is some distance from Throgmorton Street, where the Exchange is located. Members regarded the notice as a precaution against a possible bomb outrage. Shorters Court door to the Stock Exchange also has been closed.

Broad Street station is located in Liverpool Street, next to the Great Eastern Railway, and is the terminus for the North London Railway and the city depot for the London and North Western Railway. During the war a motor bus was struck by an aerial bomb in front of the station and blown to pieces with the loss of several lives.

New Bedford Gets Warning.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 21.—An anonymous warning that bomb outrages involving the City Halls in this city and Fall River are planned for Thursday has been received by Mayor J. H. Kay of Fall River, according to a statement by District Attorney Joseph T. Kenney today.

This favorable condition urges the advisability of immediate buying while our present assortments are complete and unbroken.

BUSES ARE WITHDRAWN

Suspension Ordered in Sections Having Other Transit Service—New Bridge Regulations.

Reports that 1,500 Brooklyn Rapid Transit strikers, at a meeting last night in the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum, had voted on a proposal to end the strike, were denied after the meeting by P. J. Shea and other strike leaders. "We will stick to the end," said one of the spokesmen for the strikers.

Receipts from fares are increasing daily with the displacement of strike-breakers by new permanent employes, officials of the system said yesterday. On the subway and elevated lines 211 trains were run yesterday—an increase of 11 over Monday. The Lorimer Street surface line was reopened last night. All but five surface lines are now running.

The bus service inaugurated in Brooklyn during the strike was suspended last night in all sections served by trolley and rapid transit lines. Commissioner Grover A. Whalen said that the police would serve summonses on all drivers of buses who disregarded the order to withdraw.

An order was issued at the same time stopping the emergency ferry service between Bay Ridge and Pier A, North River.

New traffic regulations for three of the East River bridges provide for the opening of both roadways on the Williamsburgh Bridge for westbound traffic from 7 to 10 A. M.; east and west from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.; eastbound only from 4 to 7 P. M., and east and west from 7 P. M. to 7 A. M.

Traffic on the Manhattan Bridge going west will use both roadways from 7 A. M. to 3 P. M. and going east from 3 P. M. to 7 P. M. Both east and west bound traffic will be admitted to the bridge from 7 P. M. to 7 A. M.

On the Brooklyn Bridge both roadways will be open to eastbound traffic from 7 A. M. to 3 P. M.; to westbound traffic from 3 to 7 P. M. and to traffic going in both directions from 7 P. M. to 7 A. M.

COURT SETS STRIKE LIMITS.

Findings in Rochester Case Bar Threats and Violence as Means.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 21.—In findings of fact handed down here today by Supreme Court Justice A. J. Rodenbeck, in the injunction suit brought by Michaels, Stern & Co. against the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, the Court holds that it was lawful for the employes as members of the union to strike for the purpose of securing redress of any alleged grievances, and for the purpose of inducing the plaintiffs to enter into an agreement with the Amalgamated providing for collective bargaining and arbitration of disputes.

The findings of fact also state that it was lawful for the officers or agents of the Amalgamated to persuade employes of the plaintiffs who were members of the union to strike for such purposes, and that it was lawful for the Amalgamated to encourage employes of Michaels, Stern & Co. who were not members of the Amalgamated to join in the strike.

The findings hold, however, that it was "not lawful for the officers, agents or members of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers to seek to accomplish any of the lawful purposes by concerted action, by the use of threats, intimidation, violence or any other coercive or unlawful measures."

News of THINGS WANTED, Fairly Priced

Try to learn some one thing each day

Marconi years ago told his intimate friend, a member of Parliament, who told the writer, that it was true that Her Majesty's warship at Malta, in the Mediterranean, through their commander sent at sunset every night a good night to Her Majesty Queen Victoria.

Sir Henniker Heaton asked him for information as to how it was done, and Marconi replied, "I do not know myself. All I know is that I can get there by sound waves."

Today it is a fact careful experiments and scientific study and mechanical inventions, one after another, have, little by little, conquered difficulties and perfected aerial message carrying.

Marconi did not quit until he got there.

REAL LACES have arrived from Belgium.

One of the most beautiful array of laces that ever adorned our counter—new laces—exquisite in every way.

ROSE POINT that brings to mind visions of beautiful bridal creations is perhaps the most fascinating because of its web-like delicacy, 1 to 7 in. wide, $9 to $75 yard.

ANOTHER FAVORITE is the beautiful Point Venise lace so desired for collars, cuffs and trimming, 1 to 7 in. wide, $4.75 to $35 yard.

IRISH EDGES and insertions, ⅛ in. to 6 in. wide, 50c to $13.50 yard.

VALENCIENNES edges and insertions, ½ in to 7 in. wide, 50c to $65 yard.

BINCHE laces, ¾ inch to 3 in. wide, 95c to $6.95 yard.

FILET EDGES and insertions, ¾ in. to 7 in. wide, 45c to $5.95 yard.

DUCHESSE and point laces, 3 inch to 12 in. wide, $22.50 to $45 yard.

CARRICK-MA-CROSS laces, 1¼ to 22 in. wide, $5 to $50 yd.

POINT APPLIQUE laces, 5 to 12 in. wide, $12 to $20 yard.

LIMERICK laces, 4 to 7 in. wide, $6.50 to $18 yard.

ROSALINE laces, 1½ to 3 in. wide, $8.95 to $12.95 yard.

CLUNY edges and insertions, ½ in. to 7½ in. wide, 25c to $7.50 yard.

Prices according to width and quality.

A lovely combination is of Rose Point and Venise. The delicate tracing of the Rose Point blending beautifully with the heavier Venise edging; 4 in. wide, $45 yard.

THE snap in the Autumn air means warm night clothes for wee tots.

Soft, warm flannelette, which does not scratch, but is fluffy and cozy, is the material to keep off Jack Frost's nip. In the section devoted to wee boys and girls are all the warm winter things. Pajamas of plain white, pink or blue or of narrow stripes, fastened with silk frogs, sizes 4 to 16, are $2.50 and $2.95.

Night drawers with feet are striped or plain white. Sizes 2 to 6, $1.75.

Infants' flannelette gowns, dainty and white, sizes 1, 2 and 3, are at $1.15.

Billy Burkes, which gather in a ruffle about the angle and do not slip up to let in cold air, come in pink or blue stripes or plain colors with a butterfly figure. Sizes 2 to 16, $3.25.

Bathrobes of blanket cloth or eiderdown are edged with satin, have silk cords, plain or turn over collared necklines. Colors are plain pink and blue or cross-bars in blue and tan or blue and red. Sizes 6 months to 6 years. $3.25 and $4.50.

Flannelette princess slips for the snappy days are of plain white with the round shoulder line and ruffle hemstitched in white or pink or blue. Sizes 4 to 12. $1.15 or $1.65, according to size.

$5 down and $5 a month

The ARMONIOLA

Guaranteed by John Wanamaker

Compare the ARMONIOLA with other phonographs at $200 and $250. It plays all records. The cabinet is larger than the average, of mahogany finish, of handsome design. The motor is the acme of simplicity—the type used in $300 phonographs—plays six 12-inch records at one winding. The tone arm is of straight construction, equipped with the latest improved mica sound box. Tone chamber is all wood, well seasoned, permitting a natural reproduction sound with ample volume. The tone modifier controls the volume of tone at the throat of the tone chamber. The interior of the cabinet is beautifully finished, and can accommodate 100 records on its six shelves.

Pick your own records—$10 worth—and we will deliver them with your ARMONIOLA at once. You pay only $5 down for the phonograph and the records, balance $5 a month.

The Shops for Men

A Specialized Service of the Wanamaker Store

Plenty Here

"Shoes are very scarce and very high in price in many countries where industry is still crippled from the horrible experiences of the war," says a report.

On this side of the globe things are different. Good shoes for men, in several styles, solid all the way through, can be had at $7.75 a pair.

Why France?

You would naturally think that terry cloth bathrobes for men could be made fully as good in this country. But—

When you see these new arrivals from France your opinion may be changed. The cloth is lovely to see, and the trimmings are beautifully harmonized.

Laundered Cuffs

Some men like them, particularly in the Autumn. A bit of a change from the negligee style of the summer months.

Percale, at $2.75.
Madras, at $4.

These are well-made shirts—with all the characteristics of the Wanamaker kind.

"It Just Slips On"

A new topcoat. Different in line and feature. Especially different in the choice of fabrics—imported and domestic tweeds, cheviots and Shetlands. Plain and herringbone effects in rich grays and browns.

The quality of the workmanship matches the quality of the fabric; and the combination will gladden the eye of the man who appreciates the value of self-satisfaction when applied in a practical way. $75 and $80.

Hats Off

Sometimes they are badly off—

Off color; off quality.

It is not difficult to cover defects in felt by the liberal use of trimming.

Trimming means silk binding, silk bands and such.

The Wanamaker Store is a strong believer in satisfaction. And we know that no man can be fully satisfied with a hat that will not withstand a reasonable amount of service. There are plenty of cheap hats cheap this season, but they are not always exploited in that way.

ANNOUNCING the arrival of fall and winter woolens in the made-to-measure shop for men. Exclusive and distinctive, as usual.

We Saw a Suit

—the other day in a shop window. It was a one-button affair, with a high waistline, and several other curious features of tailoring.

We speak of this suit only as a means of comparison. It has been our belief that most men buy clothes as they transact business—in a straight-forward, business-like way. Extremes are noticeably out of order. Noise is not logic.

So we choose models that are plain and practical. Obviously, a suit that depends wholly upon fabric and workmanship must possess these two important requisites in a satisfying degree.

OIL SHAREHOLDERS DEMAND RECEIVER

SEEK TO BAR FORECLOSURE

Ask Injunction Against Empire Trust Co. as Trustee—Tell of Many Transfers.

Charges of improvidence and neglect of duty "amounting to fraud" on the part of officers and directors of the Petroleum Corporation of America are made in a complaint filed in the Supreme Court by twenty-eight stockholders, who ask for the appointment of a receiver of the property and for an injunction restraining the Empire Trust Company as trustee under a deed of trust executed Aug. 1, 1919, from taking action to foreclose on the mortgage. Among the persons named are Alwyn Ball, Jr., President of the Petroleum Corporation of America; Edward A. Clark, Edwin B. Cadwell, Charles R. Flint, George H. Gudebrod, Raymond D. Fuller, Burr E. Clements and James R. Carlton.

The corporation was organized May 2, 1919, with $60,000,000 capital, consisting of 12,000,000 shares. It is alleged that the corporation was formed in the interest of its promoters, and that fourteen subsidiary petroleum corporations of as many different States were organized in aid of a stock-selling scheme of the promoters. The plaintiffs say that the scheme is an aftermath of the unsuccessful Black Diamond Oil Company, incorporated in the District of Columbia with $25,000,000 capital and claiming oil properties and rights in Texas, Indiana and Oklahoma.

The complaint alleges that millions of dollars worth of the Black Diamond stock were sold and that the representations as to the value of the properties were made by Jacob W. Mettler, who was president. The Illinois Secretary of State refused an application in 1918 for permission to sell the Black Diamond stock in that State when the assets were represented to be $44,140,082, of which $25,200,000 was in property and the remainder in treasury stock. It is alleged that because of the difficulty of selling the stock after the action of the Illinois authorities, Mettler and his associates sought to bring about a foreclosure of a mortgage on the property in order to obtain it for themselves and organize a company so that stock could be sold under a new name.

The stockholders allege that the Franklin Oil Company was then formed, with Mettler as President, and the Black Diamond assets were bought for $300,000. When the company went into bankruptcy only $37 was collected by the Trustee. It is alleged that various schemes were then devised by which the assets of the Franklin Oil Company were transferred to subsidiaries of the Petroleum Corporation of America and a series of contracts executed for the benefit of the officers and Directors and in violation of the rights of the stockholders.

One of the contracts objected to was made by the Petroleum Corporation of America with the Petroleum Properties Corporation, of which John A. Shillito, associate of Mettler in the original deal, was President, by which the Petroleum Corporation bound itself to buy from the Petroleum Properties oil leases and properties alleged to aggregate 300,000 acres, with an estimated production of 35,000 barrels a day, and in exchange was to turn over its $60,000,000 stock and first mortgage bond issue of $20,000,000.

BICYCLE ASHORE WITH BODY

Special to The New York Times.

FORT SALONGA, L. I., Sept. 21.—Mystery surrounds the finding of a man's body, tied to a bicycle, which had been washed ashore almost in front of Daybreak, the Summer home of John Shields, by Henry Stanley of this place. The body is unidentified. It is that of a man about 45 years old. A kit of tools was found near the body. It contained carpenter's tools, paint brushes, knives and razors.

The body had apparently been in the water two or three weeks. The body is that of a man with mixed gray hair, about six feet in height. To the man's belt was fastened one end of a piece of stout rope, the other end of which was made fast to the crossbar of the bicycle. A watch of little value was the only object found in any of the pockets of the clothing.

Making Headway

"MOVE the freight!" is the cry of the day. The need of increased transportation and its vital relation to the welfare of the country were never so widely appreciated as now. It should be encouraging to the public to know that the railroads are fast getting back into their old stride.

During the month of August the New York Central Lines moved from stations and connecting lines 927,329 loaded cars. This is an increase of 53,129 cars over the same month of 1919, and the greatest number of loaded cars moved in any month of this year.

Prevailing conditions have brought especially heavy and imperative demands for transportation of basic necessities, particularly coal and ore.

These lines moved during the month of August, 27,667 cars of ore; an increase of 15,227 over the month of August, 1919, and by far the biggest movement of any month this year.

COAL loaded at mines on these lines during the month of August totalled 63,011 cars, an increase of 5,134 over the corresponding period of last year, and the heaviest loading of any month of the present year.

This performance, made possible by the earnestness and determination of New York Central workers, indicates the spirit as well as the physical strength of the system. Backed by larger investment and with the delivery of the new equipment now under construction, even these records will ultimately be surpassed.

A Time to Build Good Will in the Clothing Business Rather than a Bank Balance

Last month we did double the volume of business that we did in August of last year. And yet, so slight was our mark-up, from the viewpoint of net profits, it was one of the least satisfactory months in our history.

"A very poor showing" would be the verdict of most merchants.

For thousands of new customers are wearing clothing which will impress them with its sterling wearing power.

In brief, we are building good will rather than a bank balance. We are building for the future. This has always been our policy. But now that increased living costs are bearing heavily upon the public, we are shaving our mark-up more closely than ever. Now is the time to make friends at any sacrifice of profits.

FORD CUTS CARS TO PRE-WAR PRICES

Declares It Is Time to Call Halt on War Greed and Profiteering.

NO REDUCTION IN WAGES

Touring Models Will Sell at $440—Company Announces It Has 146,065 Unfilled Orders.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Sept. 21.—The Ford Motor Company today announced a reduction in the price of its cars "to the pre-war level." In making the announcement Henry Ford said that "the war is over and it is time war prices were over." The reductions range from about 14 per cent. on motor trucks to 31 per cent. on small automobiles.

The cuts in prices are:

Stripped chassis, from $525 to $360; runabouts, from $550 to $395, with starter, from $625 to $465; touring car, from $575 to $440, with starter, from $650 to $510; truck chassis, from $640 to $545, including demountable rims and pneumatic tires; coupé, from $850 to $745, including starting system and demountable rims; sedan, from $975 to $795, including starting system and demountable rims; Fords on tractor, from $850 to $790.

"In announcing a reduction in the prices of Ford cars, trucks and tractors, Mr. Henry Ford says:

"The war is over and it is time war prices were over. There is no sense or wisdom in trying to maintain an artificial standard of values. For the best interests of all it is time that a real practical effort was made to bring the business of the country and the life of the country down to normal.

"Inflated prices always retard progress. We had to stand it during the war, although it wasn't right, so the Ford Motor Company will make the prices of its products the same as they were before the war.

"This in face of the fact that we have unfilled orders for immediate delivery of 146,065 cars and tractors.

"We must, of course, take a temporary loss because of the stock of materials on hand, bought at inflated prices, and until we use that stock up we will have to submit to a loss, but we take it willingly in order to bring about a going state of business throughout the country.

"There is a lull in general business; we are touched by the waiting period that always precedes a reaction; people in every walk of life are waiting for prices to become lower. They realize that it is an unwholesome, unnatural, unrighteous condition of affairs, produced by the war. It is one of the penalties civilization pays for war. In every line of activity there is a growing idleness because the demand is not there.

"Raw materials are being stored; manufactured goods are being stored, because the volume of consumption is growing less and less and less, through the self-denial of the people, many of whom could not afford to pay the high prices. Others would not pay the high prices because they felt the injustice of the situation. Manufacturing plants are being shut down all over the country. Labor is being thrown out of employment, yet the cost of living has seen very little reduction.

"Our country is rich beyond measure in natural resources, rich in all the material things that go to make a nation great, and yet its progress is being held practically at a standstill because of the greed of the profiteers.

"Now is the time to call a halt on war methods, war prices, war profiteering and war greed. It may be necessary for everybody to stand a little sacrifice, but it will be most profitable after all, because the sooner we get the business of the country back to a pre-war condition, the sooner the lives of our people become more natural—progress, prosperity and contentment will occupy the attention of our people.

"There will be no change in wages."

MOVES TO DISMISS 'ANTIS' APPEAL

house. After some delay the Secretary arrived and session No. 1 was history.

As quickly as possible session No. 2 was organized, and the Governor again appeared and addressed the members. He explained his procedure and said he wanted the Connecticut ratification to be above any legal questioning, although a high State official had ruled last week's action as legal.

The second session also got away from the Governor's instructions and proceeded to re-enact every piece of legislation which he had vetoed, including an appropriation of $335,000 for dormitories at the Connecticut Agricultural College, which was repassed, 160 to 1 in the House and 25 to 3 in the Senate.

The suffrage resolution which the Governor had finally submitted was ratified unanimously by the Senate, and by a vote of 194 to 9 by the House. Later it was decided that there should be a formal joint ratifying resolution attached to and covering the Washington document, and the amendment was ratified for the third time in the legislative records and the second time in one day—unanimously again in the Senate and by a vote of 159 to 3 in the House.

The Assembly also passed a bill providing a bonus of $100 for each Connecticut soldier in the World War, provided the proposition should be approved in a State-wide referendum next election day.

Under the provisions of one of today's bills women voters need not disclose their age beyond stating that they have reached the age 21.

TO FIND OLD BOOKS.
Nothing so cherished as a rare old book! Frequently found in the Book Exchange column of The Book Review and Magazine section of Sunday's New York Times.—Advt.

With every step you, too, receive a blow

In early China and Persia there was a form of torture—horrible not on account of its violence but because of its refined cruelty

KNOWN as the Bastinado, this punishment consisted of light blows on the feet of the victim with a small stick or lath of bamboo.

Not in the severity of the blows, which were scarcely more than taps, but in the constant repetition of this tapping, which reduced the strongest man to nervous exhaustion, lay the terror of the punishment.

This grim torture was a product of savage civilization. Yet at the present time millions of Americans are inflicting like punishment upon themselves—because they fail to adjust themselves to changed conditions of modern life.

Today, even the smallest cities and towns have miles of hard paved streets and even harder sidewalks. The floors of homes and offices, too, are hard and unyielding. Every step you take with leather heels or ordinary "dead" rubber heels on modern streets, sidewalks and floors is a hammer blow and, like the Bastinado, a shock to the nervous system.

The average man takes 8,000 steps a day. Every day he receives 8,000 of these shocks. Their constant repetition tends to destroy that store of energy so vital to success.

Remove this cause of fatigue

You can do much to prevent this condition. You can eliminate the shocks of pounding hard heels on still harder pavements. O'Sullivan's Heels are specially made to absorb these jolts and jars.

To secure the resiliency, the springiness of O'Sullivan's Heels, the highest grades of rubber are blended by special formula. With this blend of live, springy rubber are "compounded" the best toughening agents known. The compound is then "cured" or baked under high pressure.

The same process that makes O'Sullivan's Heels resilient gives them their great durability. O'Sullivan's Heels outlast three pairs of leather heels—they often outlast two pairs of ordinary rubber heels.

Stop pounding away your energy. Go to your shoe repairer today and have O'Sullivan's Heels put on your shoes.

With every step on hard heels you are pounding away your energy

O'Sullivan's Heels

Absorb the shocks that tire you out

Why Warren and Wetmore Purchased Office Space in the New Mortgage-Free Park-Madison Building

Statement by Charles D. Wetmore of Warren and Wetmore

"We purchased the entire 31st floor and more than half of the 30th floor,—in the Park-Madison Building, occupying the entire blocks from Park to Madison Aves., 46th to 47th Streets, which is to be owned, and managed by the stockholders:—

Because a careful investigation of the renting situation compelled us to conclude that we should own our own offices.

Because purchasing space in the Park-Madison Building is more economical than erecting a building for ourselves.

Because we approve of the conservative methods of financing the project on a mortgage-free and co-operative basis.

Because we secure unobstructed, well-lighted working space in an ideal location.

Because we secure a permanent business home by the payment of only seven years' rent in advance, with free rent thereafter.

Because we appreciate that the rare opportunity, for an investment so advantageous, may not present itself again."

CHEMISTS UPHOLD TNT BOMB THEORY

Some Exposition Experts Argue That Death Wagon Must Have Borne a Ton of Slugs.

EXPLOSIVE IS EASILY MADE

Dr. R. E. Rose Says Anyone Versed In Chemistry Could Compound Charge in Kitchen.

Ten chemists and explosives experts yesterday made brief reports of their opinions and study on the Wall Street bomb explosion to the headquarters of the Chemical Show in the Grand Central Palace, after Dr. Charles H. Herty, President of the American Chemical Society, had declared that valuable deductions on the bomb might be proffered to the police by technical men.

All these experts agreed with John C. Hebden, the explosives expert whose interview was printed yesterday morning, that the bomb charge was TNT and that it must have weighed at least 100 to 200 pounds. Some of them ventured the opinion that the steel case holding the explosives and its packing of death-dealing slubs and scrap iron must have filled the small wagon to the weight of at least a ton.

A few of the explosives experts suggested that the destructive charge might have been some more treacherous and powerful explosive than TNT, such as tetryl, a sensitive explosive which is used as a "booster" or detonator to set off TNT, or perhaps ammonium picrate, a dangerous salt of picric acid, which is a "highly temperamental explosive, like to blow up even if you merely swear at it."

Some other high explosives were mentioned, but the experts agreed that it was unlikely that the cunning plotters would have used a sensitive explosive that would have endangered their own lives while they were working on the bomb. TNT can be pounded with a hammer, melted and poured, or treated in almost any careless manner without danger to the handler. It burns slowly and requires a "booster" to start it off. Picric acid has the same "lack of temperament," although it is a vicious explosive when some other chemical has been used to "stir it up."

May Have Used Home-made TNT.

Dr. Robert E. Rose, who has made a close study of the relation of dyestuffs and explosives for the du Pont Company, said that the explosives used by the plotters might have been made by them "in any kitchen with a couple of kettles," but that it was most likely that the bomb contrivers were chemists of much experience and cunning.

"There is no secret about the making of TNT or picric acid," said Dr. Rose. "Any fairly intelligent man with a high school course in chemistry and sufficient diabolical intent could have made sufficient TNT and picric acid for the bomb in a short time. The ordinary process of making TNT would not take more than eight hours, and picric acid is one of the stock experiments in the college course in organic chemistry. It is harmless enough in itself, but in the hands of a vicious plotter who has other chemical re-agents at his disposal it is a destructive explosive.

"This explosive could have been made in a kitchen or any other place where a fire and a few pots and kettles were available for use, and there would have been little danger of premature explosion in the hands of an experienced man. Plotters could have made the stuff in small batches until they thought they had enough for their purposes."

Dr. Rose and some of his associates in the du Pont laboratories said it was extremely unlikely that the plotters had used some new explosive or even such a sensitive explosive as tetryl. Tetryl is formed by the action of acids upon benzene and is a violent and dangerous composition to handle. It is closely allied to the anilines used in dyes, and passes through some of the chemical reactions used in making dyes.

The explosives experts said that almost any sensitive, quick-burning explosive might have been used as a detonator. The usual compound is fulminate of mercury, an explosive that is easily made by the action of nitric acid and mercury on ethyl alcohol.

Smoke Indicated TNT.

Although most of the experts said that any high explosive might have caused the appearance of a dark cloud of unburned carbon, all agreed with Mr. Hebden's deduction that the dark greenish flame of the blast would have indicated that a TNT charge was used. They said that the peculiar yellow-greenish splotches of flame and hazy smoke, reported yesterday by new eye-witnesses of the explosion, might have been caused by an explosion of picric acid combined with the TNT in the main explosive bomb, or packed in subsidiary bombs around the main charge.

Before the Wall Street explosion, the Chemical Warfare Service had planned an exhibit for the Chemical Show in the Grand Central Palace, showing how TNT and many other explosives were derived from their base ingredients. The exhibit is now in place at the show, disclosing the close relationship between harmless dyes and other materials and high explosives and tear and poison gas. An exhibit on simHar lines, showing the difference and the close relationship between the atoms and molecules of explosives and dyes, also has been built in the Grand Central Palace by the du Pont company. Process of making fast dyes from phosgene, the "tear gas" of the war, also is shown in the Chemical Warfare Service exhibit.

Commenting upon the fact that the chemists with expert knowledge of dyestuffs, also were likely to be experts in explosives, some of the technical men at the show told of the close relation of the two industries. A peace-time dye factory can be turned almost overnight in time of war to the manufacture of TNT, tetryl, gas and various other forms of war materials, they said, although it would take several years to make either factory separately.

The subjects for discussion at the Chemical Show this afternoon are "Industrial Management" and "Materials Handling," with a meeting of the Chemical Warfare Post of the American Legion at night.

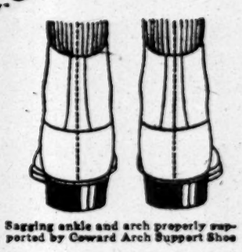
Sagging ankle and arch without support of the Coward Arch Support Shoe



Sagging ankle and arch properly supported by Coward Arch Support Shoe

TWO OUT OF FIVE

Statistics show that two out of every five children of school age have either sagging ankles or weak arches. These conditions, if taken care of in time, need not cause serious alarm, but if neglected, very troublesome foot-ailments will most likely result in later years.

The Coward Arch Support Shoe corrects these tendencies in a scientific manner. The weight of the body is properly distributed, thereby relieving the ankles of much strain while the arch of the foot is held securely in place.

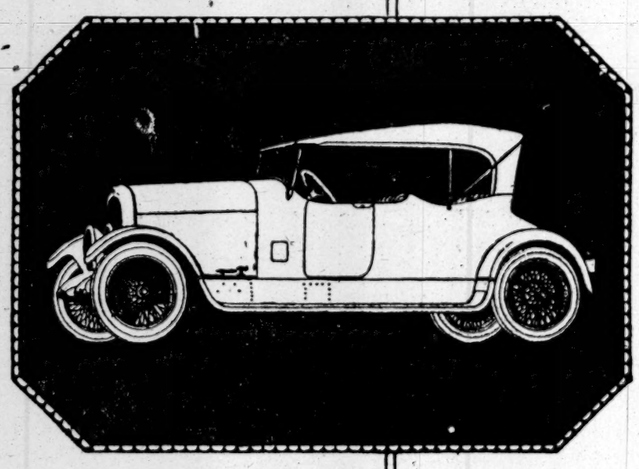
How to Compare Motor Cars

How to prevent a mistake—how to check advantages —how to make a final decision



THERE has been an appalling lack of method in buying motor cars. There has been no simple system of selection—no standard measurements of values.

Strange fancies and passing foibles have been the hypnotic factors that have answered in the minds of the many the everlasting question of "Which car?"

Yet there is always danger in the haphazard! Buying that is too casual or too reckless is always non-economic. And waste, whether willful or unintentional, leads always to revolt.

Out of the maze

Motor building has reached a high plane of efficiency. There were never so many good cars from which to choose.

There is a car of every price and many in each price class. So many, possibly, that bewilderment has been added to confusion.

But motor-buying has been unscientific. Part is due to the manufacturers, who were devoting themselves chiefly to production. And part of the responsibility must be borne by the public itself.

Such frankness is required to face the facts unflinchingly and to bring about better ways of buying.

Each contribution towards this end will be helpful. An unhealthy situation will be thus overcome.

A simple way

There is only one way to get at fundamentals. And that is through a demonstration. Not an old-time ride around town, basking in the sunshine of superficialities—but an honest-to-goodness test of a car's different performances.

There are a few simple tests that will eliminate the cars which you won't want to consider in the final decision. These have been assembled in score-card form.

On this score card you can compare all cars and strike that combination of advantages you seek.

This establishes a new basis of buying, an up-to-date way of comparison. It makes buying the right car more certain. It means avoiding disappointments.

Get a score card now

While primarily prepared for comparing a Marmon 34 with other cars that seek to compete with it, the Marmon Score Card is available for all, and a copy will be furnished gladly, free of cost. Call, telephone or write for it.

There is no guide like it. Every prospective buyer should use it as the basis of his choice.

Summary of the SCORE CARD

This is merely to give an idea of some of the items included in the Marmon Score Card. On the score card these items are elaborated and it is arranged for a record of competition between several cars. As you compare them, you can record all the results as a guide in making a decision. A complete copy of the Marmon Score Card will be furnished upon request.

YANKS GIVE BROWNS ANOTHER HARD JOLT

A HIT FOR EVERY YANKEE

Babe, Lewis and Shawkey Have Three Apiece—St. Louis Tries Trio of Twirlers, but All Look Alike.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 21.—Everybody knows that old one about locking the barn door after the nag has been stolen. Well, that's the way it is with the Yanks. Now that the pennant is practically beyond their grasp they are playing to beat the band. They made it two out of three from the Browns this afternoon, winning easily by 8 to 3.

It was a big afternoon for Babe Ruth. Even if the slugger didn't make his fiftieth home run as 12,000 fans hoped he would, he came within a couple of feet of promulgating that classic smash which the world awaits with breathless impatience. It looks now as though Babe would deliver his fiftieth poke right on the Polo Grounds before the home folks.

In the fourth inoing this afternoon when the Yanks had knocked Duke Deberry out of the box, Bill Bayne took his place and Babe was the first Yank to face the new boxman. Ruth jammed a terrific drive on a line to right field. It struck the front of the right-field pavilion. A couple of more feet to the left and it would have been parked into the bleachers for his record smash.

Babe Is Also Fanned.

Besides the triple Babe got a double, a single, a complimentary walk, and a pitcher named Burwell completed his day by striking him out.

Say, if these Yanks could have played against the White Sox as they played against the Browns this afternoon Jake Ruppert's tailor would now be measuring the creases for the pennant. The Ruggins troupe crashed out eighteen hits and fielded with finesse.

Bob Shawkey won his third game of the trip, and although the hard-hitting Browns got gay with him in a couple of innings, he shut off their rush before they could get any destructive didoes. Bob was as close as a miser when the Browns were threatening and delivered his most puzzling twisters at critical moments.

Ruth, Lewis and Shawkey led the sluggers with three bangs each. Every mother's son got at least one. Goodness, gracious, how they peppered Deberry, Bayne and Burwell.

Deberry Is Banged Hard.

Wardie said "howdy" to Deberry in the first with a single to left. Pipp got a pass and Ruth ripped a two-bagger to the right centre field barricade, scoring Ward and sending Pipp to third. Pratt grounded to Gedeon and Pipp was exterminated between third and the plate. Lewis hoisted a long sacrifice fly to Jacobson, Ruth scoring, while Pratt scampered to third. Peck was called out on strikes.

The first hit off Shawkey was made by Jacobson in the second. Baby Doll singled to left and Williams slammed a red hot bunter at Shawkey's feet. The ball bounded high and sneak with Bob's pedals, but he found the ball, and by a quick play got the ball to Peck in time for a force out. Lewis made a game attempt to gather Smith's hit near the clover tops, but he just missed it. Williams going to second on the hit.

Tobin singled to centre, scoring Williams, and when Ruth made a wild peg of the ball home, Smith scored and Tobin got to third. The score was tied. Severeid grounded to Ward and Tobin was nipped trying to score, Severeid taking second. Deberry fanned. Good enough.

Ruth Scores 150th Run.

The mauling monarch checked up his 150th run of the season in the third effusion. With one out, Babe jammed a single to right and trotted home on Pratt's double to left centre. Lewis singled to left, scoring Pratt.

Yanks now two runs ahead. That's better.

There was one Brownie gone in the third when Gedeon slammed a two-bagger to left. The crowd rejoiced when Sisler came to the bat, for here in St. Louis Sisler is a Babe Ruth and a Ty Cobb rolled into one. Georgie matched a long fly to centre, but Babe Ruth ran back and caught it with one hand, Gedeon going to third after the gorgeous grab. Ward threw out Baby Doll.

Shawkey jarred Deberry for a single in the fourth and Ward sent him along with a sacrifice. Pipp doubled to right, scoring Shawkey. Exit Deberry. Enter Bill Bayne, nicknamed Beverly.

Bayne was apple pie for Ruth, and the slugging Samson came pretty close to getting that fiftieth home run. Babe thumped a long triple to right-field stockade and scored when Bayne unraveled a wild pitch. Pratt walked and Smith threw out Lewis. Peck skying out to Williams, who got the ball up against the fence.

Beverly Bayne Gets the Air.

Smith doubled to right with one out in the same inning and went to third on Tobin's single to the same place, Johnny taking second on the throw in. Smith scored as Peck was retiring Severeid. Billings batted in place of Bayne and walked. There was no more damage, as Gerber hoisted to Lewis.

Burwell succeeded Bayne as the Brownie hurler in the fifth. Meusel bounded a single off Burwell's hand. Hannah fouled to Severeid and Shawkey hit into a double play.

Sisler doubled in the fifth, with one gone, and went to third on Jacobson's single to left. Ward got Williams's high fly and Lewis caught Smith's rocket.

After Ward hoisted to Jacobson in the sixth Pipp singled to left and Ruth walked. Pratt lifted to Tobin and when Lewis singled Pipp scored and Babe went to third, Lewis taking second on the throw in. Peck rolled in front of the plate and Severeid tossed him out.

Meusel singled to centre in the seventh, but was out when he was hit by Hannah's grounder. Shawkey singled to left, pushing Truck to second. Ward forced Shawkey and not a run was harvested on the three hits as Pipp asked to Jacobson.

"Let him hit it!" yelled the crowd when Ruth came to the bat in the eighth. Burwell got two balls and three strikes on him and then shot one over and Babe was called out on strikes.

Pratt singled to centre and went to second on Lewis's safe rap to left. Peck fanned and Meusel rolled out to first.

Ruth got one fin on Williams's long drive in the eighth, but couldn't hold the ball and it went for a double. Pratt got Smith's high one in short right field. Tobin flied to Ruth. Severeid got a pass Jimmy Austin, batting in place of Burwell, forced Severeid.

CARDINALS BEAT PHILLIES.

St. Louis Again Wins from Philadelphia by Score of 5 to 1.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—The St. Louis Cardinals made it two straight from Philadelphia today by winning, 5 to 1, the local tally being helped around by an error. Doak wrenched his back in the fifth, and North, his successor, had his left hand split by a line drive from Williams's bat, but threw Williams out at first and finished the game, allowing Philadelphia only one hit. Curves and Bingles

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—It was a picnic for the Yanks in more ways than one. In the sixth inning the players were served with ice cream on the bench.

Don Connelly, an outfielder from Tulsa, Okla., reported to the Yanks today. Tulsa has just won the Western League pennant.

The Yanks won seven games and lost five on the trip. Shawkey won three, Mays two and Collins and Thormahlen one each.

The Yanks took the season's series from the Browns, twelve games to ten.

Carl Mays wasn't around for the St. Louis fans to boo, so they turned their fire on their own pitchers, and howled for Manager Burke to take out Deberry when the Yanks began to hit him.

The ninth inning was pitched by a new tosser, named Boesler, and he let Hannah, Shawkey and Ward down in order.

Bob Meusel, who has been sick for the last three days, was in the game again today and got a couple of singles.

The Yankee players are all steamed up over the prospects of a city series with the well-known Giants. "Lead us to it," say they.

GIANTS WIN FINAL GAME FROM REDS

Toney Has Better of Duel with Napier and Champions Are Defeated by 1 to 0.

DAZZLING PLAYS ARE MADE

Both Pitchers Are Backed Sturdily by Their Mates and Contest Is Over in a Hurry.

The Cincinnati Reds—a name which will be recognized by students of 1919 baseball history—made their final appearance of this season yesterday afternoon at the Polo Grounds, and the fans treated the affair as a mere incident instead of an event. Only a scant 5,000 or so turned out to watch the world's champions and the Giants, both so recently pennant contenders, resume their tussle for second place, and they saw the visitors accept nine successive ciphers as the innings progressed, while the home players oozed one run over the plate and took all the laurels there were.

If a fresh importation from the cricket creases of Merry England or the lacrosse fields of Canada had drifted up to the Brush Stadium yesterday and had been informed that he was watching a game with few hits therein he would have thought he was being jolly well spoofed. As a matter of fact, everybody on both teams got his club on the ball almost every time he stepped to the plate, but there was some one waiting for the soaring or bounding cloth, no matter where it went. The result was a quickly played game, with scoring held to the absolute minimum necessary for a decision.

Toney Outpitches Napier.

Despite the resounding and continuous smack of bat on ball, the affray was a duel between Bud Napier, discovered recently by the Reds in the bullrushes of Freeport, La., and the robust Frederick Toney. The latter carried off the major portion of the honors, for the champions connected with his shoots for only three safe drives, but Napier, who allowed half a dozen hits, was not far behind him. Both twirlers leaned right back upon the support of their comrades with the utmost confidence, and their faith was justified in each case.

Toney was particularly fortunate in this respect, the Giants moving behind him like an almost flawless fielding machine, although there was an occasional bit of corrugated work. Bancroft contributed a gem in the second when he nailed Duncan's drive to short left, taking it on the dead run. King made a great running catch of Duncan's long fly in the fifth. The scintillant jewel, however, was turned in by young Larry Doyle in the fourth, when, with Jake Daubert on second by virtue of a clean two-bagger, he ran almost to the stands to clutch Groh's high foul fly and shot the ball perfectly to Frisch to slay Daubert trying to advance after the catch. This play seemed to crush the budding hopes of the Reds, and from then on they were as meek as lambs.

In the 1920 series between the Reds, erstwhile lords of the diamond for the whole earth and the Milky Way, and the men of McGraw the New York athletes emerge easy victors, having won nine games of the twenty-two played. Out in Cincinnati they think the Giants did it on purpose, and they blame the Manhattan gang for taking the pennant away from Redland Field.

Game Settled in Seventh.

After six scoreless sessions in yesterday's imbroglio, the issue was finally settled in favor of the local coterie in the seventh, when Napier gave the only base on balls which he perpetrated in the entire combat, to Ross Young, who completed the circuit on Frank Frisch's single and George Kelly's infield out. Thereafter, as heretofore, clever pitching and sharp fielding made scoring out of the question for either side.

In the opening session, after Larry Doyle had attended neatly to Rath's grounder, Jake Daubert, who benefited by one of the two passes issued by Toney. After Burns had taken Groh's fly, Smith caught Daubert stealing on a sharp throw to Bancroft. The Giants' shortstop was inadvertently spiked by Daubert in making the play, but insisted on staying in the game after his injury was dressed.

Ross Young cracked a single to left with two out in the Giants' half of the first, but Frank Frisch filed to Neale for the third.

Roush beat out a slow bounder to Doyle for one of the few Cincinnati hits when the second period began. Bancroft went into short left field for a fine catch of Duncan's high fly. Neale filed to Burns. Roush was caught off first and run down, Toney to Kelly to Bancroft.

There were again two gone when the Giants got their second hit in this same inning. This time it was Larry Doyle who slammed a single to centre. He got no further than first for Smith grounded to Daubert.

In the third both teams were easy, but in the fourth the visitors threatened, for Daubert opened with a tremendous whale to right centre, which King's sharp fielding held to a double. Doyle's stunning play, detailed above, and Burns's nab of Roush's fly averted danger.

Frisch's Blow Is Wasted.

Frank Frisch singled to right in the Giants' portion of the fourth with one out, but Kelly hit into a double play engineered by Crane, Rath and Daubert.

One-two-three for both contenders was the story in the fifth and likewise for the Reds in the sixth. Burns beat out a slow bunt past the box for a single in the Giants' half of the sixth, but Bancroft flied to Neale for the third time and Burns perished in the effort to steal second.

In the opening half of the crucial seventh, after Jake Daubert had whiffed vainly at Toney's slants and Doyle had disposed of Heinie Groh, Roush flogged the ball to left for two bases. That was his limit, however, for Bancroft pulled a great stop on Duncan's thrash through the box and threw him out.

The lone run of the game trickled over in the latter half of this session. Young walked. Frisch singled to right, putting Young on third. Kelly was out on a slow roller, Rath to Daubert, Young scoring and Frisch reaching second. King popped to Rath in short centre. Rath threw out Doyle.

Save for Burns's single to left with two gone in the eighth, that was all there was to it. However, the fans went away happy, and the Reds had the joy of knowing they had obeyed the injunction, "Always leave 'em smiling when you say 'Good-bye.'"

SOX BAT OUT 18 HITS, DRUBBING ATHLETICS

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Bagging eighteen hits off three pitchers, the Chicago White Sox today won their sixth game in a row in the American League pennant race, defeating Philadelphia in the third and final game of the series, 9 to 2.

The veteran Eddie Cicotte displayed better control against the Athletics than in any of the games he pitched recently. Although touched for eleven hits, Cicotte managed to keep them scattered and was given spectacular support. Felsch made a sparkling one-handed catch while on the run of Dugan's line drive, robbing him of a triple.

The Sox continued their heavy hitting, each member of the team getting one or more hits. Risberg again got four hits in four times up, including a triple. Weaver made three, including a triple and a double, and drew a pass.

JACK JOHNSON IN RING.

Former Champion Boxes Three Bouts of Three Rounds Each.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Sept. 21.—Jack Johnson, former world's heavyweight champion, now serving sentence for violation of the Mann act, made his first appearance in the ring at the Federal Penitentiary here today when he boxed three bouts of three rounds each with three other inmates. Johnson appeared to be in good condition.

The bouts were staged for the benefit of D. S. Dickerson, Superintendent of Federal Prisons, who has known Johnson for several years.

INDIANS HAVE EASY TIME WITH RED SOX

Pound Three Pitchers and Register Seventh Straight Victory—Score Is 12-1.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21.—The Cleveland Indians batted three Boston pitchers at will today and won the last game of the season from the Red Sox, 12 to 1. It was the Indians' seventh consecutive victory, and they will enter the series with the Chicago White Sox Thursday, with a lead in the American League pennant race of one and a half games. Tomorrow is an off day for both teams.

Sam Jones, "ace" of the Boston pitchers, was the first to feel the effects of the Indians' bats. He was driven from the box in the third inning, when Cleveland bunched three singles and three doubles. Harper, who replaced him, lasted less than two innings. Hoyt went in to pitch in the fifth, and, although hit hard, finished the game.

Smith led in the attack with a single, a double and a home run, which accounted for six runs. In addition to excelling at the bat, he distinguished himself in the field, making several spectacular running catches of hard-hit balls.

Coveleskie was effective throughout, Boston failing to bunch hits, except in the seventh, when doubles by Vitt and Schang, scored the Red Sox's only run of the game.

Manager Speaker replaced O'Neill, Sewell and Johnston with Nunamaker, Lunte and Burns, respectively, in the seventh inning, when victory was almost certain. Coveleskie retired in favor of Morton in the eighth inning to give the latter a workout, and he held the Red Sox scoreless.

PILGRIM CAPTURES ROAMER HANDICAP

BOHEMIAN LEADS JUVENILES

Takes Five-Furlong Sprint by Narrow Margin — Tom McTaggart First in Woodmere Handicap.

J. E. Widener's three-year-old gelding, Pilgrim, which has but recently come to the top of his form, scored another success at Aqueduct yesterday when he won the Roamer Handicap at a mile in a contest that was fought out to the last stride. Under skillful handling by Jockey Mooney, Pilgrim got home a little more than half a length in front of Johnny Dundee's War Mask, while the Redstone Stable's Neddam, making his first appearance of the year, was third and lapped on the second horse. Not much further back were Lord Brighton, the favorite, and Royce Rools, which made up the balance of the field.

This was not only the feature event of the most attractive card that has been offered for several days, but it was also the best contest of the day. The first three horses were so closely bunched all through the final furlong that it was not until they were almost at the wire that the winner could be determined.

Pilgrim had the advantage of a light impost, with but 102 pounds to carry, and this probably helped him in the final stages of the test, just as the top weight of 124 pounds was largely responsible for the defeat of S. C. Hildreth's Lord Brighton. However, Pilgrim had to display both speed and courage, for he had none the best of the racing luck in the early part. He was knocked back right after the start, and it was not until he found an opening on the rail turning into the stretch that he became a serious factor.

Lord Brighton, with the clever rider, Buddy Ensor, in the saddle, was made a 6-to-5 favorite, but Pilgrim was probably the heaviest played horse in the race, as he was backed from 4 to 1 to 3 to 1 and at times was quoted even lower.

Neddam Shows Early Speed.

Neddam and Lord Brighton popped to the front as the barrier went up, with the former leading, and set so fast a pace that they soon drew away from the others. Neddam displayed fine speed for six furlongs, but, as it was his first appearance as a three-year-old, he evidently needed a race to be at his best for a test at the distance. As the horses reached the first turn Pilgrim was pinched off and Mooney was forced to drop back with him, but the rider remained on the rail and waited for a chance to sneak through.

His chance came at the turn into the stretch, when the others went wide enough to leave an opening for him. Mooney shot through with Pilgrim and was soon at the side of Neddam. The latter raced only a few strides with his challenger, when he weakened and dropped out of it, and War Mask came up to dispute the issue. Lord Brighton and Royce Rools had already ceased to be contenders and the contest developed into a two-horse race through the stretch, with Neddam still trying to keep up.

War Mask got his head in front at the sixteenth pole and appeared for a moment to be the winner, but Pilgrim responded to hard urging, and, moving up steadily, finally carried the head and outgeneraled War Mask in the final strides, winning by nearly a length.

Victory for The Bohemian.

A. K. Macomber's The Bohemian, which early in the season was regarded as one of the best two-year-olds, scored a victory in the last race at five furlongs, but not one calculated to add much to the prestige of the youngster. Dropped into the cheapest company he has thus far contended with, The Bohemian got up in the last few strides to win by a head from the Oneck Stable's Frigate, with J. E. Davis's Queereck third.

The Woodmere Handicap at six furlongs was won by P. T. Chinn's Tom McTaggart, which took the measure of the fleet Arnold and Pickwick among others. Tom McTaggart has been running at greater distances, but he proved a good sprinter in this event, and, following the pace of Arnold into the stretch, caught the latter when he tired and had a length to spare at the end.

Eastern Shore Stakes May Decide Two-Year-Old Title

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 21.—It seems possible that the two-year-old championship will be definitely settled here Saturday in the running of the $10,000 Eastern Shore Stakes, a six-furlong dash, for which the real contenders for the title have been named. Among these are James W. McClelland's Leonardo II., winner of the Hopeful, and Harry Payne Whitney's Tryster, winner of numerous stakes. Neither of the two has yet been defeated. If these two start and one of them is returned the winner the race will be generally accepted as having decided the championship.

FERN HANDLEY IS LEXINGTON WINNER

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 21.—The Paris Handicap, a six-furlong dash, which was the feature of the racing here this afternoon, had only four starters, but resulted in a good contest, and was won by Fern Handley, which paid $16.80 to holders of $2 mutuel tickets. Kiku was second and Ginger third. Burke put up a hustling ride on the winner. Twin, which was well supported, had speed for part of the distance, but tired in the stretch run.

There was a disqualification in the fourth race, a five-and-a-half-furlong dash for two-year-old fillies. Millersburg finished first, but was disqualified for a foul alleged to have occurred in the stretch, and the race was given to Auntie May, with Last Rose second and Kate Fraley third.

FOREMAN HAS TWO WINNERS

Columbine and Dancing Maid First at Havre de Grace.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 21.—The colors of G. W. Foreman were twice brought home in front here today when his Columbine won the Parr's Ridge Purse, the feature of the card, and his Dancing Maid scored an easy victory in the opening dash for two-year-olds.

The feature event was a test at a mile and seventy yards. Columbine was rated behind the leaders until reaching the stretch, when she was given to the outside and drew away to win by two and a half lengths from Chasseur, which had set the pace all the way. Siren Maid was third, having been a keen factor from the start.

Dancing Maid came from behind to take the five and a half furlong sprint for juveniles. She was away slowly, but gained steadily, and in the stretch caught the leaders and won by five lengths. Black Top was the early pacemaker, but tired badly in the final furlong and just saved second place by half a length from Lough Maiden.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For two-year-olds; claiming; purse $1,500. Dancing Maid 102 (Oneto), $5.10, $3.20, first; Black Top, 110 (Heupel), $8.80, $4.60, second; Lough Maiden 107 (Batwell), $4, third. Time—1:08 2-5. Pimlico Billy Reedy, Fernwood, Kineth and Gladys ala ran.

NEDDA TROTS FAST HEAT AT COLUMBUS

Her 2:03¼ Is Best Mark of Season on Grand Circuit—Sister Bertha a Winner.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 21.—Two new season records were made here at today's session of Grand Circuit racing. Nedda, in the Capital City trot, which she won in straight heats, trotted the second heat in 2:03¼, a new season's trotting record for a horse of any age. Arion Guy did the second heat of the three-year-old horse review trot in 2:05¼, the fastest mile trotted this year by a colt of that age.

The three-year-old trot, the Horse Review Futurity, with a purse of $6,000, was a stirring battle, thirteen coming to the post. Although this was a two in three heat event, it took four grueling miles before Sister Bertha defeated Voltage and Arion Guy, other heat winners, the latter also being the favorite. Breaks cost Arion Guy the race. Sister Bertha improved as the battle advanced, and was able to trot a fourth heat in 2:07¾.

Nedda won in straight heats in the Capital City trot. Peter Coley won second money, but it was Charley Rex that made her step the fast mile. He stayed on the trot and carried Nedda to the half in 1:01½, but he faltered in the stretch, and Nedda won.

In the 2:14 trot, the M. and M. Stake, purse $5,000, Peter Manning was barred in the betting and won handily. Alexander B., in the final heat, by finishing second, won $409.80 on a $2 mutuel ticket.

But two heats were finished in the 2:07 pace before darkness, and the final heat went over until tomorrow. Esther R. won the two heats completed.

The summaries:

HORSE OWNERS TO MEET.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 21.—"I never even dreamed that any track in Canada would offer such a purse," said Commander J. K. L. Ross today when discussing developments concerning the proposed $50,000 race at Windsor, Canada. Ross left today for Maryland to meet Trainer H. Bedwell, and will go with him to New York on Thursday to have a conference with the other owners.

Manager Orpen of the Windsor track has arranged this conference for Thursday evening. W. S. Kilmer has wired Orpen that he will be delighted to have his horse race either Man o' War or Sir Barton. This points to these horses and Exterminator meeting at the Windsor track, probably next month.

TO SELL RACING STABLE.

Vanderbilt Horses to Go at Auction If Unsold by Oct. 10.

Copyright, 1920, by Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, Sepa 21.—A cablegram was received today by Frutzey Leroy, the late William K. Vanderbilt's secretary, who is handling the Vanderbilt racing stable, announcing Mrs. Vanderbilt's decision to sell the string of thoroughbreds and the training and breeding quarters at auction unless a purchaser is found before Oct. 10.

Lack of funds by Mrs. Vanderbilt and lack of interest in racing by her two sons are responsible for the sale of the best known American racing stable in France.

MRS. BRECK WINS IN SCARSDALE GOLF

Captures First-Round Match and Is Favorite for Final Honors in Links Tourney.

After winning the qualifying round with a 94, and also capturing the special prize for low gross, Mrs. C. W. Breck of Siwanoy won her first-round match yesterday on the links of the Scarsdale Golf and Country Club, and is a favorite for final honors this afternoon. More than fifty metropolitan linkswomen entered this two-day novelty, four divisions of eights qualifying yesterday morning at eighteen holes and all completing the first round of match play at nine holes in the afternoon. The semi-final round will be finished this morning, also at nine holes, and the final will be played this afternoon.

This tournament carries particular importance for several reasons. It is held in lieu of the usual five-day tourney, which Sleepy Hollow conducted last Fall, in preparation for the women's national championship, and it will give an indication of the strength of the New York contingent which will journey to Cleveland next month for the assault on Miss Alexa Stirling's crown.

In the first round of match play two totally unexpected results were the defeat of such metropolitan headliners as Mrs. S. A. Herzog of Fairview and Mrs. F. E. Du Bois of Baltusrol. Both are low-handicap players. Mrs. E. S. Bayer of Leal defeated Mrs. Herzog by 3 and 2 in nine holes, and Mrs. J. J. Thompson of Siwanoy had a margin of 2 up over Mrs. Du Bois at the end.

Out	6	5	3	4	6	5	5	5	5—44
In	5	6	6	7	7	5	5	6	4—50—94

Three were tied for the low net prize offered on the basis of the qualifying scores, with the following totals: Mrs. Thompson, 90, 7—92; Mrs. Mayer, 99, 7—92, and Mrs. Bernard Tim of Hollywood, 101, 9—92. On the play-off, Mrs. Thompson had a winning nine-hole total of 49.

Results of the match play in the first eight follow:

Mrs. J. J. Thompson, Siwanoy, defeated Mrs. F. E. Du Bois, Baltusrol, 2 up; Miss Margaret Wolff, Morningside, defeated Mrs. A. MacDonald, Cherry Valley, 1 up; Mrs. C. W. Breck, Siwanoy, defeated Mrs. Bernard Tram, Hollywood, 2 up; Mrs. E. S. Bayer, Leal, defeated Mrs. S. A. Herzog, Fairview, 3 and 2. The qualifying scores follow, gross totals counting:

First Eight.

HAGEN LEADS PRO GOLFERS

Breaks Course Record at Bellevue, in Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Walter Hagen led a field of fifty professional golfers in the first day's play of a 72-hole match at the Bellevue Country Club here today. Hagen completed the afternoon 18-hole round in 71, one under par, and a new record for the course.

LEWIS READY FOR O'DOWD.

English Boxer In Shape to Meet Former Middleweight Champion.

Contrary to general opinion, Mike O'Dowd will have little or no physical advantages over Ted Kid Lewis when the pair meet in their twelve-round bout at the Jersey City ball park tomorrow evening. According to the very latest measurements of the two boxers, they are about evenly matched.

In the matter of ages they are the same, each being 25 years old. O'Dowd will enter the ring weighing 158 pounds, while Lewis tipped the scales at 135 pounds yesterday. O'Dowd is 5 feet 9 inches in height, while Lewis is 5 feet 8 inches. Each has a reach of 69 inches. O'Dowd has a quarter-inch advantage in thickness of neck and an inch in chest, normal and expanded; thigh and calf. Their ankles are the same thickness while O'Dowd's biceps are half an inch thicker than his prospective adversary's. Lewis has the advantage in ring experience and speed. Ted has scored forty-four knockouts against O'Dowd's twenty-five. Lewis began fighting in 1910, while O'Dowd was not heard of until 1913.

Willie Jackson, the man who knocked out Johnny Dundee, has also trained hard for his bout with Ned Fitzgerald, the Australian, which will be the semi-final to the star bout tomorrow. Fitzgerald is a sensational fighter, but he is something of a dark horse, and Doc Bagley, Jackson's manager, will not allow his man to take any chance of going up against Fitz without being prepared to fight the battle of his life.

Frankie Burns of Jersey City is another star who will meet a topnotcher when he tackles Charley Beecher in the first star bout of the night. Jimmy Sullivan and Joe Stacey will meet in the first bout on the card.

KYNASTON VICTOR IN HOBOKEN TENNIS

Defeats Moore in Well-Played Match—Hammett Advances Through Two Rounds.

Percy L. Kynaston won his fourth-round match yesterday afternoon from George G. Moore, the 7th Regiment player, in one of the most hotly contested encounters of the entire week in the clay court tennis tournament of the Hoboken Tennis Club at Castle Point, across the river. The set scores tell the story. Kynaston won by 8—6, 4—6, 6—4. Every point was fought to the limit and the victory went to the man who was willing to take the longer chances on hitting the lines. Moore played excellent tennis and had Kynaston bothered all the time. But the Nassau and Queens County champion rushed the net at every opportunity and at all hazards and managed, to get away with the finishing shots in the final games. It was a close squeak.

Alfred D. Hammett, the chop-stroke expert of the University Heights Club, won two matches and advanced to the round before the semi-finals. Hammett defeated Kenneth Fischer decisively by scores of 6—2, 6—1 and then won a harder match from James Waldern in three sets scoring 4—6, 6—2, 6—1. The uptown man sliced and chopped in even more effective style than usual and was steadiness itself. It seemed as though it were impossible to place the ball so that Hammett could not make a get on it. His ability at keeping the ball in play under all circumstances finally wore down both of his opponents.

A third-round match of exceptional interest was that between the veterans, Alexander Iler and Valentine Havens. Iler won, 7—5, 9—11, 6—4, but both men were practically ready to drop when the final games were played. It came to a matter of endurance and Iler had the final punch. He will meet Dr. William Rosenbaum in the fourth round, the latter having advanced by reason of defaults.

Play was continued in the women's singles also. Mrs. Alfreda McMillan gained a well-earned victory over Miss Florence Sheldon in a match that was surprising in the decisiveness of the scores, 6—2, 6—3. Mrs. Ernest Wiener made the transition from turf to clay courts in excellent style, continuing the excellent pace she set for herself in the national tournament at Philadelphia by defeating Mrs. Stephen Brubans in straight sets, 6—3, 6—1. Mrs. E. V. Lynch also displayed the fine form that characterized her play at Philadelphia in her easy victory over Miss Hazel Newhouse, 6—1, 6—1. Mrs. Davis B. Mills was another prominent player who advanced to the fourth round.

The summaries:

Men's Singles—Third Round—Alexander Iler defeated Valentine B. Havens, 7—5, 9—11, 6—4.

Fourth Round—Percy L. Kynaston defeated George G. Moore, 8—6, 4—6, 6—4; Alfred D. Hammett defeated K. D. Fischer, 6—1, 6—2; Edward Oelsner defeated C. Farmulief, 6—2, 6—1.

Fifth Round—Alfred D. Hammett defeated James Welden, 4—6, 6—2, 6—1.

Women's Singles—Second Round — Mrs. Alfreda McMillan defeated Miss Florence Sheldon, 6—2, 6—2; Miss Agnes Huttinson defeated Mrs. V. Woodhouse, 6—3, 6—0.

Third Round—Mrs. Ernest Wiener defeated Mrs. S. B. Brubans, 6—3, 6—1; Mrs. Davis B. Mills defeated Miss Hutchinson, 6—2, 6—1; Mrs. E. V. Lynch defeated Miss Hazel Newhouse, 6—1, 6—1.

LYNCH TO BOX SHARKEY.

West Side Rivals Are Matched for Bout in Madison Square Garden.

The next boxing show at Madison Square Garden will be held Sept. 28. Promoter Tex Rickard last night announced the completion of arrangements for a pair of bantamweight bouts, in which four of the leading contenders for Pete Herman's championship will participate, in two fifteen-round bouts to a decision under the auspices of the Madison Square Garden Sportsmen's Club.

ARMY POLO TEAM DEFEATS ROCKAWAY

Wins Match in Junior Championship Tournament at Westbury by 9 Goals to 5.

MAKES EFFECTIVE DEBUT

Military Organization Does Some Hard Riding and Excellent Shooting—Takes Lead Early in Game.

The army made its début in national polo championship competition yesterday, when a quartet representing West Point met a Rockaway four in the junior championship tournament now in progress on the Meadow Brook Club's international field at Westbury, L. I., and Uncle Sam's warrior were the victors by a score of 9 goals to 5.

It was a hard fought scrap on the emerald field for the full eight chukkers, and the gallery, largely made up of army officers and their families as well as a number of wounded soldiers from Governors Island and an army band, spent a most enjoyable afternoon watching the game that afforded numberless brilliant plays, most of them being to the credit of the army. There was one change in the pre-arranged lineup of the Rockaway team, occasioned by the illness of E. C. Cowdin. Morgan Belmont played in his place.

The army took the lead in the first period, and then Rockaway proceeded to close the gap, tying the score at the end of the third chukker, after which the sons of Mars got busy and slowly but surely opened up the lead again. Dr. Blackwell of Rockaway and Major A. H. Wilson of West Point each scored four goals for their respective teams, while Major J. K. Brown tallied three and Major L. Brown had three to his credit. The offensive game of the army, together with the hard riding of the officers, was responsible for the final score, and the victory was a popular one.

So strong was the offensive of the army, even from the start, that, within twenty seconds from the start of play, Major Wilson put the first ball between the bars for his team, and then, three minutes later, with a clever drive from way to one side, he scored the second goal, which was followed by one by Dr. Blackwell, and the first period ended with the score 2 to 1 in favor of the army. About one minute after the second chukker had started Major Wilson's pony fell, throwing the rider, but as the pony scrambled to his feet it was seen that the Major was up. A foul was called against the army, but no goal resulted from the free drive. The foul was for crossing.

Clever Backhand Drive.

Then Major Wilson drove another goal and Hazard tallied one on a clever backhand drive, for Rockaway before the period ended. In the third period one goal was all that was scored and that was by Dr. Blackwell in a free drive on a foul by the army. The period ended with Captain Brewer just missing a goal for the army and the score was 5 to 3.

Major J. K. Brown scored the first goal, from a scrimmage, for the army in the fourth, and Major Wilson followed it up with a clean goal, shot from a very considerable distance while Major J. K. Brown added another by driving one home from a difficult angle, but notwithstanding the lead the army had, all the players continued to play hard polo.

There was no scoring in the fifth period, but it was not without its interesting and even thrilling features. Dr. Blackwell had a good chance to score, but drove far wide of the goal; Belmont drove the ball the entire length of the field in a series of fine plays and then missed the goal, and Major L. Brown made a drive for a goal, but missed it when the ball hit the goal post and bounced back.

In the sixth chukker the ball shot out of a scrimmage and landed right in front of Rockaway's goal, whereupon Major L. Brown drove it home to another count. The sensational feature of the seventh period was the falling of Bacon's pony, landing on the player's leg, but he continued playing. Dr. Blackwell drove the first goal home in that chukker and it was a long shot from near centre field that he scored with. A foul was called against West Point for hitting across a pony's forelegs, following a score by Major J. K. Brown.

Dr. Blackwell Adds Another.

In the final period Dr. Blackwell added another to his credit and then, on a foul by Rockaway, for crossing by Blackwell, Major L. Brown scored the final goal of the game and the game ended with West Point having 9 goals to its credit, while Rockaway had 5. While the ponies had numbers on the saddle cloths, still the players could not be identified by these numbers at all times, as they did not match up and the advantage of carrying them was offset.

The Cooperstown junior quartet meets the Bryn Mawr Foxhunters today on the practice field of the Meadow Brook Club and no admission will be charged. All are welcome and, as one enthusiast said: "All who are present will see a real game, full of thrills." Tomorrow Bryn Mawr will meet the West Point four on the International field and, while admission will be charged, the game is sure to be hard fought, judging from the showing made by both the teams in the preliminary games.

The lineup:

ARMY GETS LIGHT WORK.

Football Men Allowed an Easy Day Without Scrimmage.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 21.—The Army took things easy in its gridiron drill today. So strenuous has been the workouts of the last few days that the coaches called a halt on the rough work and merely put the men through a couple of hours' light drill this afternoon. Groups of backs and ends ran signals and practiced forward passes. The linemen were drilled in charging, dummy scrimmaging and in going down under kicks. There was no real scrimmages.

The men are beginning to fight for positions. Strobecker, a plebe, is attracting attention, and is giving Greene, last year's Varsity pivot man, a run for the position. The new-comer is big and husky, passes well and is fast. Stewart, a tackle, is one of the first to get on the injured list. He paced the side lines today with an injured shoulder, but is expected back in a day or two.

Dempsey-Brennan Bout Barred in Massachusetts

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—The State Boxing Commission again today refused to authorize a bout in which Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, was to be one of the contenders. Members of the commission said that Dempsey would be allowed to fight in this State only against a logical contender for his title. The proposed bout which was turned down today was one between Bill Brennan and Dempsey, which was intended to be transferred here after the New York Boxing Commission refused to issue a license for it within its jurisdiction at the present time.

I. S. C. MEMBERS TO DECIDE ON BOUTS

Arrangements for Carpentier-Levinsksy Meeting Are Still in Abeyance.

The 1,740 founder members of the International Sporting Club will decide whether the organization will conduct the light heavyweight championship bout between Georges Carpentier, European title holder, and Battling Levinsky, veteran American boxer, in conjunction with The Arena, at the Jersey City Baseball Park, Oct. 12, or whether the bout should be postponed until the time is propitious to conduct it in this city under the Walker law at an indoor arena.

Managing Director William A. Gavin of the I. S. C. yesterday disclosed this decision of the organization. The verdict was reached following the contradictory reports which have been circulated since the Boxing Commission put its stamp of disapproval on the match, on the ground that the sport had not had a sufficient trial here to warrant such an important ring meeting. Reports have been circulated to the effect that the match had been practically assured for Jersey City, but in view of the dissatisfaction which resulted with the conduct of the I. S. C.'s bout between Harry Wills and Fred Fulton at Newark, the club officials have decided to progress slowly and carefully with regard to the present contest.

The decision to let the founder members of the I. S. C. decide the question is in line with the policy instituted by the organization when it started its active career. The members solved the first promotional problem which confronted the club officials when they voted 4 to 1 in favor of the Carpentier-Levinsky contest over a proposed bout between Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, and Bill Brennan, Chicago contender for the title. The Carpentier-Levinsky clash was accordingly scheduled for Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Oct. 12, but, after plans had been made, the Boxing Commission prohibited the bout on the ground that it might militate against the best interest of boxing, particularly in view of the short trial the sport has had. At the same time the Boxing Commission put its foot down on the proposed meeting between Dempsey and Brennan, which was in process of negotiation for Madison Square Garden.

It is understood Managing Director Gavin and Matchmaker Tex O'Rourke, of the I. S. C. have open minds on the disposition to be made of the Carpentier-Levinsky scrap. Both are prepared to follow the dictates of the club's founder members. Director Gavin is known to be seriously considering sending the bout across the Hudson, confident that the objectionable features which attended the Wills-Fulton bout will be conspicuously absent under the management of President Jack Frost, of The Arena. At the same time, however, the I. S. C. officials have not entirely discarded a plan to defer conducting the bout until November, presumably after election, when it would be possible to conduct the important ring clash in The Arena which the officials have secured.

The result of the vote should be known by tomorrow night and the club will make its plans accordingly.

Following is the statement which the I. S. C. issued in connection with the vote:

"The directors have decided to canvass the 1,740 founder members of the International Sporting Club, and ask them to vote on the question of whether the Carpentier-Levinsky match should be postponed until such time as the consent of the boxing authorities in this State is received or whether it should be held in New Jersey on Oct. 12, the date originally set, in the event of its being found possible to hold it in that State. Voting papers have been mailed and it should be possible to arrive at a decision as to the wishes of the majority of the members by Thursday night."

DOBIE PICKS FOUR ELEVENS

Cornell Coach Groups Men in Preparing for First Game.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Although Gilmour Dobie professes extreme skepticism over the prospects for the development of a formidable football team at Cornell this Fall, the squad of seventy-five men, now well on its second week of work under the former Annapolis coach, is making satisfactory progress, according to word coming out of the barred inclosure at Schoellkopf Field today. Dobie has now developed the squad to a point where he has selected four teams, and he is making frequent transfers of players from one to the other. Short scrimmages are also in order almost every afternoon.

A tentative backfield is emerging which is likely to play in the first game. It includes Mayer and Davies, half backs on last year's 'Varsity team, and Carey, quarter back and captain of last year's freshman eleven. Carey is a good kicker and passer. Cornell has lacked a successful quarter back since Charley Barrett left college in 1916. Dobie apparently has not made up his mind whom he will play at full back now that Captain Shuler has definitely determined not to return to college. Dunleavy has been slightly injured, but on the whole the squad is coming through the preliminary work in reasonably good shape physically.

RUTGERS PERFECTS PASS.

Scarlet Eleven May Seek to Beat Ursinus by Aerial Route.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 21.—Forward passing work was started by Rutgers football squad here today in practice for the Ursinus game Saturday. With the opening of college the squad has been increased to seventy men, but there is a noticeable lack of veterans. There is a wealth of good backfield material among the new men but the line does not look so strong as had been hoped. The Ursinus game is expected to be a test for the rookies.

STEVENS IN SCRIMMAGE.

Coach Durborow Puts First String Men Through Hard Drill.

Coach Durborow put the Stevens Tech first string men through their first scrimmage yesterday. Teams A and B worked for nearly three-quarters of an hour. Coach Harris, the new addition to the staff, was on hand and helped Durborow try out his men at the different positions. The line came in for most of the attention. All the positions except one of the ends can be filled by letter men with experience, and the coach is looking around for a running mate to Egger for the wings. Manager Barker is still trying to fill an open date on the schedule—Nov. 13.

COLUMBIA GETS ARTHUR BRICKLEY

Brother of Harvard's Famous Drop Kicker to Take His Collegiate Training Here.

One of the headliners in the prep school football ranks made his appearance at Columbia yesterday in the person of Arthur Brickley, youngest brother of the famous Charlie. After completing his registration earlier in the day the youngest of the Brickley family, who made his gridiron reputation last year with the Worcester Academy eleven, donned a uniform and worked out with the 'Varsity eleven. He has registered in Extension Teaching, but will not play with the freshman team this Fall, although he will practice regularly with the Blue and White squad.

Accompanying the young star when he reported to Coach Buck O'Neill was Charlie Brickley, who was instrumental in having his brother enter Columbia. The former Harvard star is in business in New York City and preferred to have his brother near him rather than at a college more distant. The reason for this move was made apparent yesterday when the Harvard drop kicker, after securing the permission of Coach O'Neill, picked up a pair of footballs and took Arthur to one end of the gridiron, where he put him through a fifteen-minute drill in drop kicking. The younger Brickley, in the opinion of O'Neill and other football observers, was last year the best of the prep school drop kickers, and it is this talent that Charlie Brickley wants to develop under his own expert tutelage.

Charlie Will Visit South Field.

It was said yesterday that Arthur's drop kicking instruction this Fall will be entirely under the direction of his noted brother. As frequently as possible the former Crimson back will visit South Field and illustrate the intricate knack of booting the pigskin between the uprights. He limited the instruction yesterday to a few short kicks within the 15-yard line, designed to illustrate how to hold and drop the ball before the kick. While doing so, however, he showed that there was still a lot of ability remaining in his right foot. It is the evident hope of Charlie to make his brother, if possible, a worthy successor to himself in the front rank of college drop kickers. After beginning at the 15-yard line the younger Brickley gradually lengthened the distance until he had reached about the 30-yard mark. He showed remarkable ability at this distance and missed only a negligible number of his tries.

The longest signal drill of the year, in preparation for the first scrimmage this afternoon, was the feature of yesterday's workout. Coach O'Neill kept the first 'Varsity drilling without a letup until 6 o'clock. The absence of Meyers, tackle, because of an injured ankle, resulted in the substitution of Brodil at the line position. Allen, in the backfield, was displaced by Eccles, but the rest of the lineup was the same as in Monday's practice. The forward pass again came in for a great amount of attention, Quarter Back Harris being on the throwing end.

Injured List Increases.

The list of disabled 'Varsity players received two more additions yesterday. In addition to Tackle Meyers, whose ankle is out of kilter, Captain Jack Kienninger was unable to put on a uniform on account of a painful injury to his right shoulder. The mishap occurred in Monday's line scrimmage, but it was not until yesterday that the Columbia leader discovered that a cartilage in his right shoulder had been torn. It will be four or five days before he will be fit for action. Frank Canapary also was absent with a bad cold and Modarelli and Appelbaum, the other members of the casualty list, also were on the sidelines.

White bags, placed at intervals in front of the line, were used by O'Neill in a long drill of the backs and linemen in making holes. Four of the bags were set up, and through the gaps thus created the linemen first charged, followed by the interference and the man carrying the ball. This method of instruction in signal drills was new to South Field and was watched with great interest by the small crowd in the stands. O'Neill again barred South Field both to the general public and to the students, and only those with special passes were admitted. This rule will probably be followed closely in the workouts directly before the games, although exceptions may be made at times for the student body.

N. Y. U. LEARNS SIGNALS.

Coaches Demonstrate Plays at the Training Table After Drill.

New York University's football squad went through its usual daily practice yesterday afternoon under the guidance of Coach Gargan. The afternoon session started with a work-out on the tackling dummy and then the linemen had a long line scrimmage, with Doctor Cusack in charge. While the forwards were doing this, Coach Gargan took the backs in hand and drilled them in handling forward passes. Today or tomorrow Gargan will be ready to put the different elevens together for a scrimmage game.

At the training table, which is an innovation at N. Y. U. this year, the coaches gave the men a talk and after the meal held a blackboard lecture. Here the men were shown the plays to be used this season and were taught the signals.

HALLORAN MAKING GOOD.

Former Boston Star Seems Sure of Berth on Fordham Eleven.

The work of molding Fordham's football aspirants into a 'Varsity eleven is progressing rapidly. Coach Joe Dumoe put his charges through a series of snappy signal drills at Fordham Field yesterday afternoon that kept the players on their toes throughout the practice. The opening of classes at the Bronx institution has brought the number of candidates above forty.

The only candidate who seems to be sure of a regular berth at present is Halloran, the former Boston College star. Halloran, who is a fullback, seems to be a good line plunger as well as a shifty open field runner. Joe Williams, who was practicing with the Maroon eleven last Thursday and Friday, but who has not appeared since, is reported to have returned to Lafayette, where he played last season. Although Fordham will miss Williams, Dumoe should have little difficulty in filling his position from the material on hand.

HESS PLAYS WELL IN LINE.

Penn State Captain Pleases Bezdek at Guard.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 21.—Captain Hess is beginning to show the wisdom of Coach Hugo Bezdek's shift which sent him from the backfield into the line, for after being on the side lines for almost a week the big ex-full back looked very good at guard on the 'Varsity today. Hess was slow in rounding into condition, so Bezdek rested him last week, and today he fairly tore the scrub line apart. With the Blue and White Captain holding down the opposite guard to Dick Rauch, Bezdek has but one remaining berth to fill—right tackle—and he has Schuster, Baer, Logue and Farley to pick from.

Dad Engle, star tackle on the 1911 and 1912 teams, dropped into town today, and he immediately volunteered to help Coach Harlow with the linemen. Harlow and Engle were considered to be the greatest pair of tackles ever turned out at Penn State. Joe Lightner was again at his place in the 'Varsity backfield this afternoon, and it looks as though the Marysville boys will start the Muhlenburg game on Saturday.

YALE 'VARSITY SCORES.

Ellis Make 2 Touchdowns Against Scrubs and Second Team.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 21.—Yale's 'Varsity eleven hurled its heavy artillery against first the scrubs and then the second 'Varsity this afternoon. When the smoke lifted the 'Varsity had gone over the top for two touchdowns against Dr. Bull's reserves and once against the 'Varsity seconds.

Head Coach Tad Jones kept Fred Webb and Ben Jordan ploughing furrows through the opposing centres and each was treated to a touchdown. MacAldrich took the ball across for the third. Dicky Dilworth was laid off for a day's outing and Ray Munger went to right end, Calhoun, of the second team last year, going to left.

Captain Callahan again gave way to Billy Galvin at centre, and Thorne Murphy was allowed to run the 'Varsity for the first time this season. His form as a field general closely approaches that of Fido Kempton of the regulars. During the latter part of the practice Paul Crane, Jack French and Howard Campbell were tried at halfback. Murphy's drop kicking in practice, following the scrimmage, was clever. George Mosely, end of "Cupid" Black's eleven, joined the end rush coaches.

CENTRE LOST TO W. AND J.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 21.—The first serious accident of the year in W. and J. football practice occurred today, when Graham, a promising candidate for centre, hailing from Martin's Ferry, Ohio, sustained the fracture of a leg bone in a scrimmage and was placed on the shelf for the remainder of the season. Graham was playing centre on the second eleven against the 'Varsity. He was carried from the field and given immediate surgical attention. The fracture, while a simple one, is enough to keep him on crutches for weeks, with no hope that he will be of any value to the team. The injury to the Martin's Ferry candidate is regretted particularly, for the reason that the snapperback position is proving one of the hardest on the team to fill and Head Coach Morrow needed all the men he had. Graham was making an exceptionally good bid for the position. He is big and husky and came here with a great high school reputation.

Morrow will be forced now to depend entirely on Loucks, former end, who has been worked at centre several times; Sterck, the former Pittsburgh boy, who is a worthy successor to himself in the front rank of college drop kickers. After beginning at the 15-yard line the younger Brickley gradually lengthened the distance until he had reached about the 30-yard mark. He showed remarkable ability at this distance and missed only a negligible number of his tries.

The longest signal drill of the year, in preparation for the first scrimmage this afternoon, was the feature of yesterday's workout. Coach O'Neill kept the first 'Varsity drilling without a letup until 6 o'clock. It will be four or five days before he will be fit for action. Frank Canapary also was absent with a bad cold and Modarelli and Appelbaum, the other members of the casualty list, also were on the sidelines.

White bags, placed at intervals in front of the line, were used by O'Neill in a long drill of the backs and linemen in making holes. Four of the bags were set up, and through the gaps thus created the linemen first charged, followed by the interference and the man carrying the ball. This method of instruction in signal drills was new to South Field and was watched with great interest by the small crowd in the stands. O'Neill again barred South Field both to the general public and to the students, and only those with special passes were admitted. This rule will probably be followed closely in the workouts directly before the games, although exceptions may be made at times for the student body.

N. Y. U. LEARNS SIGNALS.

Coaches Demonstrate Plays at the Training Table After Drill.

New York University's football squad went through its usual daily practice yesterday afternoon under the guidance of Coach Gargan. The afternoon session started with a work-out on the tackling dummy and then the linemen had a long line scrimmage, with Doctor Cusack in charge. While the forwards were doing this, Coach Gargan took the backs in hand and drilled them in handling forward passes. Today or tomorrow Gargan will be ready to put the different elevens together for a scrimmage game.

At the training table, which is an innovation at N. Y. U. this year, the coaches gave the men a talk and after the meal held a blackboard lecture. Here the men were shown the plays to be used this season and were taught the signals.

HALLORAN MAKING GOOD.

The work of molding Fordham's football aspirants into a 'Varsity eleven is progressing rapidly. Coach Joe Dumoe put his charges through a series of snappy signal drills at Fordham Field yesterday afternoon that kept the players on their toes throughout the practice. The opening of classes at the Bronx institution has brought the number of candidates above forty.

The only candidate who seems to be sure of a regular berth at present is Halloran, the former Boston College star. Halloran, who is a fullback, seems to be a good line plunger as well as a shifty open field runner. Joe Williams, who was practicing with the Maroon eleven last Thursday and Friday, but who has not appeared since, is reported to have returned to Lafayette, where he played last season. Although Fordham will miss Williams, Dumoe should have little difficulty in filling his position from the material on hand.

HESS PLAYS WELL IN LINE.

Penn State Captain Pleases Bezdek at Guard.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 21.—Captain Hess is beginning to show the wisdom of Coach Hugo Bezdek's shift which sent him from the backfield into the line, for after being on the side lines for almost a week the big ex-full back looked very good at guard on the 'Varsity today. Hess was slow in rounding into condition, so Bezdek rested him last week, and today he fairly tore the scrub line apart. With the Blue and White Captain holding down the opposite guard to Dick Rauch, Bezdek has but one remaining berth to fill—right tackle—and he has Schuster, Baer, Logue and Farley to pick from.

Dad Engle, star tackle on the 1911 and 1912 teams, dropped into town today, and he immediately volunteered to help Coach Harlow with the linemen. Harlow and Engle were considered to be the greatest pair of tackles ever turned out at Penn State. Joe Lightner was again at his place in the 'Varsity backfield this afternoon, and it looks as though the Marysville boys will start the Muhlenburg game on Saturday.

TIGER SCRIMMAGING TO START SATURDAY

Princeton's Elevens to Have First Taste of Real Football This Week.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 21.—Coach Roper announced today that the first football scrimmage of the year will take place next Saturday.

Three members of Monday's first eleven, Captain Mike Callahan, Shad Davis and Rutan, were missing from Princeton's signal drill at University Field this afternoon, as they were busy taking examinations. Jones, who played end on the freshman team last Fall, took the place of Davis, Bob Hooper went in for Rutan at tackle on the 'Varsity and Scureman was at centre. The latter seems to have entirely recovered from the broken leg which he received a year ago.

The back field remained intact, Lourie directing the team at quarter back, with Murrey and Wittmer as half backs, and Joe Scheerer at full back. Thomas and Dickinson were the 'Varsity guards, with Keck at one of the tackles and Raymond on right end. Apparently Roper plans to continue Thomas at guard rather than at his old centre position, for he is grooming several new candidates as understudies for Captain Callahan. Howard Opie, half back on the freshman team three years ago, was at this place on the scrub today.

The signal drill lasted about half an hour and followed a long period of dummy tackling practice. Earlier in the afternoon the ends and backs practiced covering punts, two wingmen going down the field uder each kick, which was taken by a quarter back and an interfering half back. The linemen spent their time shooting the bucking machine.

HARVARD 'VARSITY SCORES.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 21.—Harvard's 'Varsity players had their first taste of real football today when, after the usual preliminaries, the crimson-jerseyed first-string men enjoyed their opening scrimmage with the scrubs.

The 'Varsity scored three touchdowns and a safety in the three-quarters of an hour's play. Keith Kane completed a forward pass across the scrubs' goal line, Churchill of last year's freshmen team raced around the second team's left wing for 75 yards and a touchdown, and the third score was made by the 'Varsity's reinforcements, who scored on a long batch of steady line plays. The safety resulted from the scrubs' centre throwing the ball over his kickers' heads and across his own goal line.

Coach Fisher's first array included only one man who did not play in the Yale, Princeton or Oregon games last season. This was Jim Tolbert, the husky Oklahoma tackle. The 'Varsity line was Kane and Macomber, ends; Tolbert and Faxon, tackles; Woods and Brown, guards; Havemeyer, centre; Johnson, quarter, and Horween, Hamilton and Humphrey in the running back field.

Dick Wigglesworth, Fisher's offensive coach last Fall, was on the field. He will be on the field from time to time, and will serve steadily in an advisory capacity.

Talcott Wins Tennis Final.

Special to The New York Times.

SEABIGHT, N. J., Sept. 21.—Hooker Talcott, former Harvard collegian, defeated Ted Banks, formerly of Yale, on the courts of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club in the final round of the club singles today, by scores of 6—1, 6—2, 6—3. Talcott thus qualified to play Holcombe Ward, former international player, for the club championship in the challenge round, which is scheduled to be played next Sunday afternoon.

Buying Blindly May Cost You a 23% Saving On Your Auto Insurance

HIS car almost hit a man. He immediately bought some insurance—without any idea of what such protection should cost.

But by buying without investigation, he failed to get a big saving he was entitled to.

Last year, every Liberty Mutual policyholder received, at policy termination, a 30% cash refund on his premium—a saving of at least 23% over stock-company cost. The Liberty Mutual's cash refunds have always been 30% of the automobile premium.

Buy your insurance at actual protection cost, in this strong mutual company, with its record for full and prompt settlements. Find out now what such protection should cost you. Mail the coupon—no obligation.

Lexington
MINUTE MAN SIX

Champion of the Highway

wins first and second places in free-for-all Pike's Peak Hill Climb, defeating following cars:

Packard	Hudson	Paige	Haynes
Cadillac	Fiat	Oldsmobile	Chevrolet
Marmon	Chalmers	Dorris	Essex
National	Velie	Templar	And Others

All contesting cars were specially designed for hill-climbing with the exception of the two Lexington entries. These were stock chassis.

THE race was run over a 14 mile 10% grade course in the marvelous time of 22 minutes 25 2-5 seconds, necessitating an average speed of nearly 40 miles an hour. The two winning Lexington cars at times exceeded the high speed of 60 miles an hour even while winding their way on tortuous curves and through blinding snow and sleet to victory.

The Pike's Peak Hill Climbing Contest is the supreme power competition in the Automotive World. The splendid victory of the Lexington may unquestionably be attributed, in considerable measure, to the Moore Multiple Exhaust and the Lexi-Gasifier, two exclusive Lexington features, the invention of John C. Moore, Chief Engineer of the Lexington Motor Company, manufacturers, a combination that has taken the "guess out of guessoline."

THE LEAGUE VERY MUCH ALIVE.

Both Mr. BECK and Senator HARDING spoke in very hard luck on Monday. For the latter it was one of the days when he talks against the League of Nations, which he proceeded to describe—at least in one part of it—as a "stupendous fraud." Mr. BECK was more specific. Just back from Europe, he had found there a "lack of interest" in the League. "European publicists have little faith in the possibilities of the League for the maintenance of peace." In short, the League has "ceased to be a practical factor in Europe." Unluckily, the cables from Europe were at the very moment bringing news of two of the greatest results yet achieved by the League of Nations. One was the reference to its arbitration of the critical dispute between Sweden and Finland concerning the Aland Islands. The other was still more important. It was the agreement of Poland and Lithuania to suspend hostilities and submit their boundary and other controversies to the judgment of the League. If this is not "practical," what is?

The whole gamut of depreciation and abuse of the League has been run by inflamed partisans in this country. It has been declared a failure and a folly in every known term of scorn. Mr. BECK'S most moderate phrase used of it is that it has been shown to be "utterly incapable of preventing war." But now it has done even more than that. It has stopped a war actually begun. Lithuanian troops had been in collision with Polish armies. Blood had been shed. Fierce national hatreds had been aroused. Yet the existence of the League of Nations was a constant reminder to the combatants that a more excellent way than war is now open to them. Their leaders met with the League Council at Paris, agreed to refer their quarrels to it, and, in a touching scene, shook hands and pledged themselves to abide by a peaceful decision. And this was the work of a League that had ceased to be a practical factor, was a stupendous fraud, and really nothing but a corpse awaiting decent burial!

If the League is dead, it is, like the Irishman, not conscious of being so. It is going steadily ahead with its organization and its activities. And it is waiting confidently for the day when the United States will join and do this nation's honorable and necessary part. Europe has no doubt been mystified and pained by America's holding back. But European eyes are now more opened to the cause. They see the trail of politics over it all. They perceive that a good deal of the professed animosity of the Republican Party to the League is to be explained as partisan manœuvring and election rhetoric. Moreover, European statesmen are receiving, publicly or privately, assurances from Republicans of standing that, in the end, their party will swing to the League as gracefully as may be. One of these men is ex-Governor HADLEY of Missouri. Writing in a recent issue of The New Europe, he shows that the policy of expansion and of American influence abroad has been historically that of the Republican Party. The present apparent abandonment of it is easily explicable. It has largely a partisan origin—intense hostility to President WILSON and a clever taking advantage of his mishandling of the Treaty and the Covenant. But this is only a passing and electoral phenomenon, argues ex-Governor HADLEY, and he sends the distinct message to European nations that they may surely reckon upon America coming into the League under Republican auspices as soon as may be after the Presidential election.

One thing is certain. Were it not for party feeling in this country, made unreasoning and bitter by the campaign, Americans would be universally acclaiming that moving spectacle of peace at Paris. It is in line with our long national tradition. It is of the very substance of our national aspirations. Yet in presence of it most Republicans feel compelled to stand today hesitant and tongue-tied. They dare not praise the stopping of a war by the League lest they should seem to give any credit to a party which they are fighting and to a President whom they hate. They fear to lose an election "issue" if they were to applaud this great work of the League, as their hearts would prompt them to do. This they must know to be both ungenerous and unmanly; and one day they will be ashamed of it. But whether they speak out in approval or remain silent in mortification, they cannot be blind to the fact that the League of Nations is moving on to its assigned tasks, the symbol of a people's hope, the crowning of a world's desire.

HIDDEN SCOUNDRELS.

Senator HARDING, with magnificent courage, continues to declare that he is for "America first." It will be noted that he does not shrink from avowing this in the face of a frowning world. He looked the correspondent of The London Morning Post square in the eye and said to him: "You "have my consent to inform the English public that, much as I should "like to put British interests above "American, I shall never, never do "it." No such defiant message can have gone to London since the days of Jefferson Brick. But Mr. HARDING still owes one explanation to his fellow-countrymen. If he is uniquely patriotic in standing for America first, there must be traitorous scoundrels who would like their country to be last, or at best half way down the list. Who are these miserable beings? Senator HARDING must know. Otherwise he would not take such pains to assert that no consideration on earth could tempt him to be of their company. But so long as he permits the wretches to remain in hiding he causes the indignation of Americans to be repressed, for lack of a definite object. And even in Marion they know that one emotion repressed may run into another—indignation, for example, into amusement.

THE AMERICANS IN HAITI.

If Senator HARDING should be elected President, he would inherit the Haitian problem. He has lately made an intemperate attack upon the American administration in the Black Republic, charging, among other things, that thousands of the Haitians have been killed by American marines. On Jan. 16 of the present year an attack was made in the early morning by Cacos, outlaws from the northern forests, upon Port au Prince, and 176 of them were killed by the American defenders of the capital. The facts were published in New York in the middle of February. It was not pleasant work for the marines, but a lesson was taught the Haitian banditti, who were probably the tools of cowardly politicians in Port au Prince. It is not to be denied that a considerable number of Cacos have been killed in the policing of the island, but to talk of the slaughter of thousands of Haitians is to be hysterical. Americans are not in Haiti to exterminate the people, of whom there are 2,500,000, but to pacify the country, develop its valuable resources, construct public improvements, and set up an orderly, efficient and responsible Government. What the United States did for Cuba it is endeavoring to do for Haiti. The most striking passage in Secretary COLBY'S defense of the American administration is this:

> The work which the United States undertook to do is nearing completion, and upon its completion this Government hopes to withdraw and leave the administration of the island to the unaided efforts of the Haitian people.

It is doubtful if the withdrawal can be made before March 4, 1921, for, although as many as 430 Cacos have marched into Port au Prince at one time to accept amnesty, there are said to be at least 3,000 of the outlaws still at large in the interior. The incoming American President will have to continue the pacification of Haiti, the building up of its industries, the instruction of its people in self-government. If a Republican Administration had been in office when the British, French and Germans were demanding early in 1915 that the Haitian Government pay its arrears of debt and that their nationals be protected, Port au Prince would have been occupied and the customs taken over under an agreement with officials who could be held to a strict responsibility. The same kind of compact the Wilson Administration made with President DARTIGUENAVE'S Government would have been made by a Republican Administration compelled by the course of events to land marines at the capital. On July 28, 1915, President SAM had shot 160 prominent citizens and had been butchered himself by an enraged populace. The next day Rear Admiral W. B. CAPERTON entered the harbor with his squadron, landed a force of marines to restore order, and took charge of affairs pending an election, which was supervised by him. The agreement or treaty signed on Sept. 15 provided a protectorate for the salvation of Haiti.

Since the Americans took over the country a constabulary of 2,500 natives has been organized, hundreds of miles of good roads have been built, Port au Prince has been cleaned up and modernized, and work has been made for thousands of people who had always lived from hand to mouth and in squalor. Everywhere public improvements are well advanced. There have been mistakes, no doubt, and excesses may have been committed by men dressed in a little brief authority. But an honest and creditable work has been done by the American administrators for the welfare of the Haitians, in spite of the opposition of others besides the Cacos. An account of stewardship will have to be made. Hasty and violent criticism at the present time may be attributed to partisanship aiming at a political advantage.

SENATOR JOHNSON COMES IN.

After several weeks of prolonged and ostentatious meditation spent in looking down the bay, Senator HIRAM JOHNSON has returned to the world and the reservation. He has relieved his constitution from the effects of an unusual abstention from speech. Evidently he doesn't want to be isolated, cut off from the Republican Party, however much he loves isolation for the United States. If the Republican Party wins, he wants it to be under some obligation to him. He has sulked long enough for his dignity. Now he speaks, and Marion doubtless listens with a full sense of Mr. JOHNSON'S political business sense and the exact amount of gratitude it merits. As befits a big statesman, Mr. JOHNSON finds "three big reasons" why the Republican Party is going to win:

First, because of the widespread dissatisfaction of the country with the Democratic Administration; second, because of acute hostility to President WILSON, and, greater than either of the two, America's opposition to the League of Nations.

Mr. JOHNSON is ordinarily no friend of unity, but a tribune of the people might well stick to simplicity. His three reasons are one reason, "acute hostility" to Mr. WILSON. Mr. JOHNSON, like so many of the other Republican grandees of the Senate, is anthropomorphic in his political ideas. The Administration, the League of Nations, are only manifestations and embodiments of the Hated One. So the Republicans are trying to defeat a man who is not running for President. It is a novel and noble policy.

Having planted his firm feet on the essential Republican platform and displayed his orthodoxy, Mr. JOHNSON, smiling, puts the question by when he is asked to reveal his thoughts about Senator HARDING'S plan or sketch of an international court. "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof," he says scripturally. The same text was repeated by his compeer, Senator BORAH, when he shook the dust of Washington off his feet for a season. Not only is the League of Nations an "evil," but even any vague proposed substitute is "evil." "HARDING has already scrapped the League," Mr. JOHNSON says, with a frankness that must be painful to worthy Republicans who, like Mr. TAFT, cling to both the scrap and the scrapper. The first thing to do is to beat the League "at the election beyond redemption." Then "everybody will be glad to do "anything short of involving us in "European controversies and difficulties which do not concern us, in "order to promote peace and prevent "war."

That is, Mr. JOHNSON, as a bitter-ender, will support bitter-ender Mr. HARDING. He will remain a Republican in good and regular standing. If the Republicans win, he will proceed to promote peace and prevent war by making the fur fly. A porcupinish sort of ally, but welcome and necessary to the Republicans. Somebody asked POULETT THOMPSON what were the politics of Lord GREY, of the Reform bill. "He is for CHARLES, Lord GREY," was the answer. Mr. JOHNSON'S interview shows that he is for JOHNSON a good deal more than for HARDING.

MONEY FOR HOUSING.

The essence of the housing situation is financial. If mortgages cannot be placed, it matters little whether labor and materials are expensive and the supply fitful; no adequate building can be looked for. In the last year, owing to the demolition of tenements to prepare for business structures, the available supply has actually decreased by 271 homes. So long as landlords are subject, as for the present, they must be subject, to stringent regulations summarily applied by the courts, private capital will not enter the field. With mortgage money supplied by the State, however, even at a rate of interest which would once have been high, construction should promptly begin and steadily increase in volume. Difficulties will doubtless remain, but they can be and will be surmounted.

Governor SMITH has suggested that bonds of the State Land Bank be made a legal investment for State and local sinking funds, and a bill to this end has been prepared by Senator LOCKWOOD'S Housing Committee. That should dispose of the major difficulty. Building can proceed on money advanced by the State. The bill exempting new structures from local taxation for a period approximating a decade is an emergency measure, and as such is probably justified. One of the minor obstacles to new building has been the fear that, with a return to more nearly normal prices for labor and materials, investments made now will ultimately yield an inadequate return. The fear is doubtless exaggerated; yet a crisis exists and it is well to make any reasonable concession to overcome it. Already the impossibility of housing workmen is diverting industry to other centres. As Governor SMITH says: "No community "can expect to achieve an industrial "growth if it is unable to house its "working population properly." What is more, the situation is inflicting widespread hardship. "Families have "been broken up and dispersed, or "crowded and huddled into the homes "of relatives, until the health, welfare and morality of the community "is seriously threatened."

Taken as a whole, the bills prepared by the Housing Committee are sane and practical. No vestige remains of the scheme to plunge the community into municipal housing. In Europe such schemes have generally resulted in the appearance of armies of officials and the disappearance of vast sums of public money—with a minimum of actual apartments ill administered. There is no ground for a belief that the result of political management would differ for the better here.

THE OBSTINATE TURK.

Some weeks ago it was hoped that MUSTAPHA KEMAL and his Turkish Nationalists, chastened by their defeats at the hands of the Greeks and by the approach of Winter, might be brought back into harmony with the Sultan and his well-controlled Government at Constantinople by some few concessions which would save the Nationalist face. But MUSTAPHA KEMAL and his party are stubborn. The compromise has failed and three Ministers have resigned from the Turkish Cabinet.

At the same time the Princes of the imperial house announce that they may take it upon themselves before long to renounce their allegiance to the Sultan and turn Nationalist themselves. The Sultan and the Grand Vizier head what is in effect a Government of prisoners. The living part of Turkish Nationalism is undoubtedly out with KEMAL in the mountains. Greek victories have shown that this movement is not the formidable thing that it seemed last Spring, but it still seems to hold the interest of those Turks who cannot admit that their day is done. The Greek offensive has now been suspended while French and Italian missions go inland to try to patch up a compromise, but there will probably have to be more fighting before the last remnants of the descendants of MURAD and SULEIMAN are forced to recognition of facts which a proud and once powerful people will find it hard to accept.

FIGHTING FOR GALICIA.

A new Polish offensive in Eastern Galicia has recovered the towns of Tarnopol and Brody, and apparently has carried the line forward to the old Austro-Russian frontier. It was Polish insistence on holding large forces to defend this province—where the Ruthenians, who make up the majority of the population, do not take very enthusiastically to Polish rule—that was largely responsible for the collapse which endangered Warsaw. The Polish northern armies were routed, the capital itself was all but taken, while strong forces of the best Polish troops were held in the south to protect Lemberg.

General WEYGAND, apparently, refused to take command until he was empowered to shift the Polish armies wherever he thought necessary. When he assumed control he promptly moved troops from Galicia to the north, and this reinforcement contributed greatly to the defeat of the Russians. The loss of Lemberg would have been serious, but the loss of Warsaw might have been fatal. Now the Poles are advancing again in the south, while Russian armies mass behind the Niemen for a new attack on the northern front. If the Poles have again committed the blunder of concentrating too heavily in a secondary theatre, the fortunes of the campaign may change once more.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Description as Basis of Judgment.

Everybody who read during the World War the letters sent back from near the western front by PHILIP GIBBS—and that certainly includes all readers of THE TIMES—is well aware that as a descriptive writer he was at least the equal, and perhaps the superior, of the best of the other correspondents engaged in that important service. His articles were marked by a notable height and warmth of emotion, as well as by an almost reverential appreciation of the heroism displayed by the men who were risking and giving their lives in the noblest of causes, and the articles had, besides, a literary quality, an elegance, as well as a force and lucidity of diction, which was remarkable in itself and was made the more remarkable by the difficulties, discomforts and dangers of the physical conditions in which, usually, they were prepared.

The privilege of writing "Sir" before his name was earned far better than it sometimes is, and he can wear the honorific proudly as recognition of real benefits conferred for which reward as definite cannot easily be conferred in any other way.

That Sir PHILIP can so write what he sees as to enable others to see it, and this to a remarkable degree, is unquestionable. This gift or power, however, does not include, necessarily, that of interpreting correctly or judging justly the things seen, and that the two do not go together in his case was made lamentably evident when he wrote, after the war, a book the essential element of which may be—and, alas! must be—summarized as denunciation of the officers at allied military headquarters for sending other men to die where those officers did not go themselves.

As criticism of the conduct of a campaign, that is, of course, something which the friends of Sir PHILIP GIBBS would not care to characterize in the terms that would be applied to almost any other man than he. Quite enough is said when attention is called to the strange proceeding.

A Previous Mistake Is Paralleled.

Since the war ended Sir PHILIP GIBBS has spent much of his time in traveling through many of the countries that engaged in the great conflict. Again he has written articles that, as descriptions, have all the merits of his letters as an observer of armies and battles, but again—and sooner than before, because military restraints are now lacking—he is revealing that to describe is one thing, to judge and interpret is another.

As shown by the article printed in THE TIMES yesterday, Sir PHILIP views the European situation as one almost hopeless, and he ascribes the terrors, the horrors, of that situation, not to those who brought it about in a mad and ruthless attempt to dominate the world, but to the failure of the victors to make the sort of peace for which they claimed to be fighting!

That peace, by the way, was frequently and confidently prophesied by Sir PHILIP himself while the war was in progress, and something of his present despair might be explained, unkindly, as a result of the prophet's resentment at having been proved wrong. That, however, would be untrue as well as unkind. It is not resentment but sincerest grief that Sir PHILIP feels, and even now he has not lost his faith in the ideals not long ago professed by all the Allies. Honestly sought, he still believes that they would redeem and save the world.

The question of their immediate attainability he seemingly does not consider, and hence his impatience with the men who realize as well as exemplify human imperfections and presumably are doing the best they can with the material at their command.

Sash Weights and the Dead Horse.

In reading day by day of what the various officials are doing to solve the mystery of the Wall Street explosion and to bring to justice the perpetrators of that monstrous crime, attention is more apt to fix itself on what seem to be the wastings of time and effort than on the wise and promising utilizations of them. That, presumably, is due to the fact that as yet no progress at all is known to have been made by the authorities except in the way of proving that a few people did not commit the dreadful deed.

This is work that must be done in such a case, and it is far from humiliating to find that a false clue has been followed or that a hypothesis has to be abandoned.

An instance in point was the discovery of a shop where a recent attempt to buy sash weights had been made. That, rightly, was deemed important, but when it was learned that the would-be buyer of the weights wanted those weighing nine pounds and would take none lighter or heavier it was obvious that his need was innocent. There is at least one instance of an opposite sort—opposite in that a clue was not followed with a sufficiency either of care or of persistence. Almost from the moment of the explosion it was, or should have been, clear to every investigator that the dead horse lying on the Wall Street pavement was the clue of clues—a thing at once certainly connected in a vital way with the explosion and almost certainly leading by a practicable path to the man or men who planned and executed the destruction.

Yet by somebody's amazing act the destruction of that most valuable piece of evidence already has been permitted, before the exhaustion of its possibilities had more than begun!

He May Be Mad, but He Was Right.

At least one thing has been said by the man FISCHER since his return to New York that proves, not sanity, indeed, but the practical shrewdness that the insane sometimes show. To the questioners who asked him why, if he could get information "out of the air," he did not ascertain thus who caused the Wall Street explosion, he replied: "A hunch cannot be forced."

Many a psychical researcher, so called, when put in a like embarrassing dilemma, evades both its horns in just that way. "The spirits" must have the conditions that suit them or they will not "communicate." Usually, if not always, the conditions that suit are those that facilitate deception—that make real investigation impossible.

FISCHER, mad as he is, knows that if pinned down to a definite point the air has no messages for him. But it is distinctly surprising that he calls his mystical knowledge a "hunch." The language of his kind aims at solemnity and scorns the colloquial. It delights in such pleasing—and empty—pleonasms as "mental telepathy," though that, so far as it is anything, really is well described by the word FISCHER used.

A Dante Celebration.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The lovers of Italy were glad to read Professor Breazeale's timely letter in today's issue of THE TIMES. Italy and England are already preparing a program to celebrate the six hundredth anniversary of Dante's death in 1921.

All Dante scholars in America are hoping that our country will do its full share in the worldwide honoring of the supreme poet. The Dante League of America, founded in 1917 for a popular propaganda for the study of Dante, has already received communications from different colleges stating what they intend doing toward celebrating the Dante anniversary next year. As soon as the league has heard from the principal colleges and universities in the United States a list of their Dante activities will be published by the league. We have just closed a series of Dante meeting classes, which were held Tuesday evenings at the National Arts Club all through the Summer, where our regular meetings will be continued.

In the meanwhile the league would welcome any inquiries regarding its work. Any one desiring to become a member of this society can communicate direct with me at our headquarters.

MacSwiney and Dr. Tanner.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. Tanner lived for forty days without food and advocated the procedure as a therapeutic recourse. He believed, or at least said, that people would be better off for a fast of this sort once in a while. Dr. Tanner drank water during the period of his fast. If MacSwiney is sincere in wishing to die as a martyr, he might hasten the process by cutting out the water. Certain skeptics suggested that some tablets of concentrated food might have been slipped past the tongue of Dr. Tanner. I doubt that, because he apparently had no great cause at stake and merely wished to impose an idea upon a somewhat refractory audience.

LITHUANIA AND POLAND.

Conflicting Territorial Claims in the Present Crisis.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article of Sept. 17, "The Peace Conference at Riga," does Lithuania some injustice in attributing to her sympathy with the Soviet Government and imperialistic tendencies similar to those of Poland.

Accusations of pro-Germanism and pro-Bolshevism against Lithuania coming from Poland can be understood on the principle of "He who is not for me is against me" (and consequently must be in league with my enemies). But Americans should be able to take a more detached viewpoint. Lithuanian resistance to Bolshevist propaganda and Bolshevist military encroachment is quite well known to those who have been watching the Lithuanian situation for the last two years. At the time of the Russian advance on Poland the Lithuanian Government obstinately opposed inordinate demands of the Soviet military authorities for railroad equipment and ammunition, and not long ago an incipient Bolshevist uprising in Kovno was sharply suppressed by the Lithuanian Government.

THE TIMES says that "Lithuania's desire to secure all the territory that was ever Lithuanian seems to be as strong as the aspiration of Poland to recover the frontiers of 1772." A little rhetorical exaggeration is permitted in an editorial article for the sake of vigorous expressiveness, but the statement quoted abuses the license. The territory taken by Russia at the partition of 1772 was historically Lithuanian territory, while ethnographically it was White Russian. Lithuania is not asking for this territory. Neither is she asking Poland for the ancient Palatinate of Polleyia, south of the Bobr, which was always hers before the union of Lublin. She asks only what was hers at the time of the partition of 1795—territory which is ethnographically Lithuanian, except on its fringes, and which even there is inhabited by a majority of non-Polish peoples who are more than content to become Lithuanian citizens.

To couple Lithuania and Poland as alike desirous of expanding their territories beyond legitimate claims not only contradicts the facts but ignores the striking and fundamental difference which has always existed between the racial characters of the two peoples, and which is now reflected in the policies of their respective Governments. Polish imperialism, the child of Slavic volatility and enthusiasm by irresponsible French romanticism, is as far removed as possible from the slow, steady, cautious Lithuanian nature and from the shrewd, conservative, balancing policy of those Lithuanian Princes who sat on the throne of Poland in the days of her greatness. In the probable adoption of a similar policy by the new Lithuanian Republic lies the best hope of its continuance.

If Lithuania has seen her opportunity in Poland's necessity, she has only played the game of international politics as it has been taught her by older nations. It may be true that both Germany and Russia are sources of potential danger to the new Lithuanian State. Every large State is a danger to the small States on its borders in these days. But the immediate danger must be met and overcome first, and for Lithuania that danger is from Poland.

Non-Partisan Reporting.

From The New York Evening Post.

It is not in accordance with the spirit of independence and fair play which we associate particularly with the Far Western States that their leading newspapers should allow their political opinions to affect their reporting of political happenings. Just how much space they should give to Governor Cox's utterances in the Coast region it is for them to determine. But to deny to those utterances a prominence somewhat like that which they would give to Senator Harding's speeches under similar circumstances is to revert to a journalistic custom now almost obsolete. * * *

Most newspapers pride themselves nowadays on the objectivity of their news columns. The ideal at which they aim is that of making it impossible for a reader to ascertain their opinions except where opinions are properly to be sought—on the editorial page. The classic instance of the triumph of the news instinct over editorial desires occurred on election night four years ago, when THE TIMES and The World conceded the election of Hughes, whom they had done their best to defeat. The premature nature of the announcement could not be charged to a wish to "claim" victory in advance. It was due to the natural wish to tell the truth first. This is a far cry from the old days of insisting that your candidate had won until the day before his opponent was to be inaugurated. Coast newspapers will harm the cause they favor by their partial suppression of important political events that do not fall in with their opinions. Their course will suggest that they are afraid to give Cox the same hearing they would give Harding. This is neither good journalism nor good politics.

Keeping Cider Within the Law.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Prior to the passage of the Food and Drugs act in 1906 the Federal Government, through Dr. Harvey W. Wiley of the Department of Agriculture, spent much time and money to demonstrate the harmfulness of food preservatives; and Dr. Wiley's rulings under the law were against the use of such chemicals as salicylic acid in foods. But now the Treasury Department, in connection with its rulings to enforce the Volstead act, has, so I understand, ordered that salicylic acid or benzoate of soda be added to every barrel of cider which is not to be converted into vinegar. Simple sterilization does not seem to be provided for, probably because sterilized cider might later on ferment, develop more than one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol and, ipso facto, make its possessor a lawbreaker.

Meanwhile the enormous increase in the demand for sugar, the assiduous collection of wild grapes, elderberries and choke cherries and the open display in the stores of bottles, bottle caps and other implements of the craft point to a wide development in the industry of making homemade "hooch."

THE CONQUERORS.

Spawn of the gutters and cellars,
Men who just couldn't be straight,
Come from the rat-holes of Europe,
To poison our brothers with hate.
Things with the mind of an infant,
But the lust of a beast to destroy,
Have blasted their slugs of salvation,
To the heart of a messenger boy.

Brains that are alien strangers
To a thought that is noble and pure,
Souls that are sickly and slimy,
Are making their damnation sure.
Fiends from the cursed of all ages
Now boldly their banner unfurl;
Proudly they flaunt their redemption,
On the corpse of a typewriter girl!

Somewhere there sinks in the darkness
Assassins whose pitiful shell
Hides a poisonous teaching of envy
From a fellow complainant in hell.
The miserable fools in their madness
To conquer "the Street" and its work,
Have to mangle and tear up the body
Of a poor, inoffensive young clerk.

BOYS' MILITARY TRAINING.

Governor's Proclamation Commands Youths to Enroll Tomorrow.

A proclamation issued by the State Military Commission and signed by Governor Alfred E. Smith ordering the enrollment of all youths more than 16 and less than 19 years old for military training, as provided by the recent State law, has been received in this city. The order requires the enrollment of all eligible youths at their nearest schoolhouse tomorrow. The proclamation reads:

"Executive Chamber, Albany.

"Whereas the military law of the State of New York requires all boys of 16, 17 and 18 years of age to take special training as the Military Training Commission of the State may prescribe;

"And whereas there is a great need that every young man shall recognize and acknowledge his responsibility to the State in time of peace as well as in time of war and prepare himself to meet his future duty as a citizen by learning to co-operate with the forces of law and order; by learning the lessons of health and hygiene and acquiring a manly carriage; by learning the habit of discipline to obey properly constituted authorities and to exercise over his own mind and body proper self control; by recognizing as emphasized in this course the importance of vocational training; by actual association with the entire boyhood of the State to destroy class distinction and prejudice and build up a wholesome, happy and confident faith in the purposes of the State and the brotherhood of its people; by developing the qualities of trained leadership evolved in drills, exercises and ordered games;

"And whereas the Military Training Commissioner is required to issue to each boy complying with the law in order that he may legally attend or be employed a certificate showing that such a boy is enrolled for military training;

"I, Alfred E. Smith, Governor of the State of New York, do hereby designate Thursday, Sept. 23, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 9 o'clock P. M., as the time when all boys who are now 16 years of age or will become 16 years of age prior to Oct. 1, 1920, and those who are 16 years old or over and have not yet reached their nineteenth birthday, shall appear in person at the nearest public schoolhouse to enroll and be credited with compliance with the military law of the State.

"(Signed) ALFRED E. SMITH,
"Governor."

DRYS IGNORE PARTY LINES.

Fight Wet Republican and Democratic Nominees for Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of America, who announced in a speech before the National Legislative Conference of the drys last Tuesday that the league would make a fight against the election of certain candidates for the Senate and House, issued a statement tonight in which he listed some of the alleged wet candidates who will be opposed in the Congressional campaign.

"Both in the primaries and the elections," said the statement, "if the candidates on both of the dominant party tickets are favorable we take no hand in the fight as an organization. Where one candidate is wet and one dry, we urge the prohibition voters to support the dry candidate. Where there are two dry candidates and one wet candidate, and by splitting the vote the wet candidate would win, we urge our friends to concentrate on the candidate who has the best chance to win.

"At the beginning of this Congressional fight eleven wet candidates in about 300 Congressional districts. Most of them had, of course, no chance to win. By the time the primaries are all over we predict that there will be no serious contests in more than thirty or forty Congressional districts.

"Some of the outstanding fights for the election of present Congressmen against wet candidates are as follows:

"Mr. Neely of the First District in West Virginia, opposed by a wet Republican, and Judge Bowers in the Second District in West Virginia opposed by a wet Democrat.

"In Indiana the present Congressman, Luring of the District and Dunbar of the Third and Benham of the Fourth are opposed by wet candidates.

"In Pennsylvania, in the Twentieth District, Mr. Brooks, a wet Republican, is opposed by Mr. Hawkins, a dry Democrat. Mr. Porter, a wet Republican, is being opposed in the Twenty-ninth District by Mr. Shafer, a dry Democrat. In the Twenty-fifth District both the Republican and Democratic candidates are wet and the present Congressman, Mr. Shreve, a dry Republican, is backed by prohibitionists on an Independent and Prohibition Party ticket.

"In Ohio, Congressman Ricketts of the Eleventh District and Congressman Thompson of the Fifth District are being opposed by wet Democrats, Underwood and Bronson.

"In Maryland, Zillman of the Sixth District and Andrews of the First District are opposed by wet candidates.

"In Indiana Senator Watson is being opposed by Tom Taggart, a wet Democrat. The dry forces will urge temperance people to vote for Senator Watson because of his support of the Federal prohibition code.

"Dry forces are making much of the statements of William G. McAdoo, William H. Taft, Prohibition Commissioner John Cramer, William J. Bryan and others that a modification of the Volstead act as proposed by the wet candidates would make the Eighteenth Amendment non-enforceable—a laughing stock."

DUTCH MODIFY VISE RULES.

Follow French Example In Relaxing Passport Regulations.

Following the example set by the French Government on Saturday in easing up the passport regulations, now that the tourist season is over, the Dutch Consul announced yesterday that visés could be given to travelers upon application at the Consulate without the tedious formality of cabling or writing to The Hague for permission.

Although Holland did not take part in the war, travelers going to that country from America or Europe have been put to great delay and trouble to get their passports visèed. Applicants had to cable or telegraph for permission through the Consul, and it was sometimes two weeks before the reply was received. In Holland they had to report to the Chief of Police in each city on arrival and departure with their card of identity, which sometimes occupied half a day, as there was usually a crowd waiting.

England, Italy and Switzerland modified the traveling restrictions some time ago, and also the United States, which charges higher fees than any country in Europe. It costs $10 for a visé and $8 head tax additional for an alien.

URGE NEW DRUG LAWS.

Retailers Complain of Red Tape in Liquor and Narcotic Regulations.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—Plans for eliminating the "red tape" which, it was declared, was entailed in handling alcohol and narcotics were considered at the opening business session of the twenty-second annual convention of the National Association of Retail Druggists here today.

In filling a prescription for whisky, it was pointed out, a druggist was required to sign his name forty-two times and alcohol can only be obtained sixty days after application is made. The regulations governing the sale of narcotics were so complicated and change so rapidly, it was asserted, that druggists never know when they are complying with the law.

INQUIRY INTO FUNDS WILL REOPEN TODAY

Kenyon Committee, Meeting in Washington, Will Investigate Government Publications.

COX PROPAGANDA CHARGED

Senator Reed Says He Will Propose Bill Limiting Funds to $500,000 and Contributions to $100.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Investigation of alleged political propaganda through publications conducted by the different Government bureaus will form one of the new aspects of the inquiry by the Senate Sub-Committee on Campaign Funds which will resume its hearings here tomorrow, Senator Kenyon announced today. Another question that will be investigated is the charge that Federal office holders have been assessed for political purposes.

Senator Kenyon said that the committee had been informed of numerous instances where alleged political propaganda was being conducted at Government expense through Cabinet officers and others. The sending of political speeches through the mails in "franked" envelopes by Cabinet officers, and the use of any Federal employes to prepare these speeches, will be features of the so-called propaganda inquiry.

One of the worst offenders in this direction is alleged to be the Bureau of Education. The Kenyon committee has received copies of a publication issued by this bureau entitled "School Life," which contains editorials that appear to commend Governor Cox to educators, it was asserted by Senator Kenyon.

Several Federal bureau officials have been subpoenaed to appear before the committee this week, including Dr. Philander P. Claxton, Commissioner of Education.

Another matter to come before the committee, which will probably conclude its sessions at the end of this week, will be any activity of the liquor interests in the campaign. While the committee has no evidence that such interests have actually expended money, letters purporting to have emanated from the National Liquor Dealers' Association of America have appeared indicating that the organization is exerting what influence it can in the national campaign, especially in the Congressional elections. George T. Carroll of Elizabeth, N. J., has been summoned to testify as to what the organization is doing in the national campaign.

William Boyce Thompson, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Republican National Committee, and William Barnes of New York will be heard tomorrow along with Edward Stokes and Charles McDonald, Chairmen, respectively, of the Republican and the Democratic State Committees of New Jersey.

Senator Reed of Missouri, arrived today and announced that he intended to present a bill next session to limit campaign expenses of the national committees to $500,000 and subscriptions to $100. He said he considered that large campaign funds lead indirectly to fraud and corruption and that the people of the country were opposed to having their national elections being made even suggestive of fraud.

WILL NOT DISPLACE RODMAN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Secretary Daniels today authorized a flat denial of the report that Admiral Hugh Rodman is to be displaced as Commander in Chief of the Pacific Fleet.

"There is no foundation for that report," said Secretary Daniels. "There has been no thought of displacing Admiral Rodman. As a matter of fact the Navy Department is now making plans for joint manoeuvres of the Atlantic and Pacific Fleets. The fleet on the west coast commanded by Admiral Rodman and the Atlantic Fleet commanded by Admiral Wilson will go to Panama waters for these joint manoeuvres in January."

Secretary Daniels announced that Rear Admiral Charles F. Hughes, who has been in command of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, had been detached and assigned to duty with Division 4 of the Atlantic Fleet, to relieve Rear Admiral Andrew Long, now in command. Admiral Hughes's flagship will be the Kansas.

It is intended that some of the ships of this division will soon visit Bermuda at the request of the British Government to take part in

DR. GEO. NASMYTH, SOCIOLOGIST, DEAD

OHIOAN A FEVER VICTIM

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 21.—Dr. George Nasmyth, widely known American sociologist and internationalist, died of typhoid fever here Monday. He was born in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1882. His home was in Ithaca, N. Y.

Dr. Nasmyth had long been active in sociological work and in international activities for the furtherance of world amity, and took a leading part in organizing the conference of the World Alliance for Promoting International Friendship Through the Churches, held at The Hague last Fall. He was the author of many treatises on social and international questions.

Dr. Nasmyth was a son of William Henry and Emma Isabel Nasmyth. He entered Cornell University in 1903 and won the Browning Essay Prize, the University and the New York State Scholarship. He graduated in 1906 and was appointed later a member of the university faculty. Dr. Nasmyth pursued his studies successively at the Universities of Berlin, Heidelberg and Munich.

In 1905 he made his first trip to Europe and explored eight countries on a bicycle and on foot. In this way he acquired first hand information of European peoples and international relations. He founded student clubs for promoting friendly relations and studying international questions. At the International Student Congress in Rome in 1911 he was elected President of the Corda Fratres, the international federation of students of which the Cosmopolitan Clubs form the American branch.

In recognition of his international work among the universities he was elected one of the Directors of the World Peace Foundation in 1909.

Dr. Nasmyth was Secretary of the Commission of the Price of 1917 Wheat Crop, and he also was head of the administrative division of the Fuel Administration. He went abroad in 1919 as press representative at the Paris Peace Conference and a delegate to the Interallied and Neutral Conference of Co-operative Societies at Paris.

He was the founder and a member of the Administrative Committee and lecturer on economics of the Trade Union College, under the auspices of the Boston Central Labor Union. He was a member of the Society of Friends.

FOR IMPERIAL PREFERENCE.

British Chambers of Commerce Also Discuss Empire Bank.

TORONTO, Canada, Sept. 21.—After a spirited discussion on the question of free trade versus protection, the Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire today passed a resolution in favor of "imperial preference" by a vote of 83 to 21.

John F. Darling of London urged establishment of an "empire bank" whose function would be to act as "the banker of governments and banks," with a central office in London. In this connection he advocated the general issue of "comparatively short term bills of exchange" against goods in transit as a method of standardizing currency.

"If we can so arrange the Empire's exchange that it will become in effect a united economic whole," he said, "endeavoring as far as possible to supply its wants and on balance to repay the debt to the United States, the advantages to all parts of the British Empire will be considerable."

FRENCH EXPORTS INCREASE.

More Than Double, to Date, Those of First Eight Months of 1919.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—The Ministry of Finance announced officially today that French imports for the first eight months of this year amounted to 24,561,195,000 francs. In the same period last year the imports were 21,743,346,000 francs.

French exports for the first eight months were 14,406,138,000 francs. In the same period last year they were 5,743,218,000 francs. The greatest increase among the exports was in manufactured goods, of which the volume was 9,226,052,000 francs in the first eight months of the year, as against 5,043,548,000 francs in the same period last year.

Locust Plague Afflicts Spain.

MADRID, Sept. 20.—Agricultural offices in various parts of Spain have been ordered by the Minister of Public Works to take measures to combat the plague of locusts. Many farmers, however, decline to assist, declaring that their lands are not infested. It is said that they take this stand because they believe the measures taken by the authorities will be injurious to crops. The locust plague has recently spread rapidly and has reached the vicinity of Madrid.

ENGAGEMENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Hart of New Haven, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Maria Tillman Hart, to David L. Bacon, youngest son of the late Rev. Leonard W. Bacon of Norwich, Conn. Mr. Bacon is a graduate of Yale University, class of 1916, and is now a member of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Langley Field, Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. James Addison of Garden City, L. I., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Anne Addison, to Lieutenant Willis Ratcliffe Taylor, Air Service, U. S. A. Miss Addison was graduated from the Cathedral School of St. Mary in Garden City. Her father is the Controller of the National City Bank of this city. Lieutenant Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Ratcliffe Taylor of Sacramento, Cal.

Mrs. William Clinton Bates of Cambridge, Mass., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helen Langdon Bates, to Franklin Lockwood Moe, son of Franklin John Miller Moe of Flushing, L. I.

Miss Kindleberger Weds Capt. Kirby

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The marriage of Miss Pauline Kindleberger and Captain Maxwell Kirby, U. S. A., took place this afternoon in St. John's Church, Lafayette Square, and was followed by a small reception at Rauscher's. The bride was escorted by her father, David M. Kindleberger, and had as her only attendant Mrs. Patrick Jay Hurley of Tulsa, Okla. The Rev. E. S. Dunlop, assistant rector of the church, officiated. Captain Michael F. Davis, U. S. A., was best man, and, like the bridegroom, wore a service uniform. The ushers, brother officers of the bridegroom, in uniform, were Captains Clayton Bissell, John C. Kennedy and Henry Abbey, Jr., and Lieutenant Clyde C. Way.

BETROTHED TO PRINCE.

Miss Clarissa Curtis to Wed Michel Cantacuzene, Harvard Student.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Curtis of Beacon Street and Nahant announced yesterday the engagement of their daughter, Clarissa, to Prince Michel Cantacuzene, Count Speransky, the great grandson of President Grant, grandson of Major General Frederick D. Grant and son of Major General Prince and Princess Cantacuzene (Julia Dent Grant) formerly of Russia.

Prince Cantacuzene is a student at Harvard. His parents are now living in New York, having escaped from Russia during the revolution. His mother, the daughter of Major General Frederick D. Grant and Mrs. Grant (Ida M. Honore), is a writer of interesting facts concerning the Russian people, the life in that country and the recent revolution. She has also written some pleasing reminiscences of her grandfather, President Grant, and Mrs. Grant.

No date is given for the wedding.

Taylor-Skinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Avery W. Skinner of Albany and Mexico, N. Y., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Charlotte Huntington Skinner, to Willard Gifford Taylor of Mexico, N. Y., which took place last Sunday.

Mrs. Taylor is a graduate of Vassar College, class of '19, and has for the last year been associated with Dr. Luckiesh, Director of Applied Science in the Nela Research Laboratory. Her father is Director of the Examinations and Inspections Division of the State Department of Education at Albany. Mr. Taylor was for two years a member of the S. S. U-622 attached to the French army. He is a graduate of Columbia University. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left for Corvallis, Ore., where they will spend their honeymoon.

Thomas W. Shields.

Thomas W. Shields, Brooklyn artist, who lived alone with his paintings in the house at 137 Clinton Avenue, died on Monday in St. Peter's Hospital of pneumonia. He was born in Scotland 70 years ago and studied in the Beau Arts School in Paris under Gerome for nearly six years. He also studied abroad under Carolus Duran and other noted art teachers. Mr. Shields was the painter of the picture "Mozart's Last Requiem," which hung for a long time in the Brooklyn Institute Museum. This painting was somewhat like Munkacsy's painting of the same subject in the Metropolitan Museum, and Mr. Shields had claimed that the Russian had copied his idea. He was unmarried.

CLOTHIER PREDICTS BIG DROP IN PRICES

FIGHT AGAINST HIGH COST

Head of National Association Says American Is Best Dressed Man in the World.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Good news was brought to Chicago today by the 2,000 delegates to the annual convention of the Retail Clothiers' Association of America.

Men's clothes are slated for a drop in price of 33 1-3 per cent. or more next Spring. In some instances the slashing of woolen prices will be even greater, according to Fred Votland of Topeka, National Director of the association.

"There is bound to be a decided reduction in prices by Spring if the American public keeps up the plan which it has instituted against the high cost of living," he said. "That is, not to buy the higher-priced woolens. These are not being bought now and are accumulating in the warehouses. When this surplus reaches a certain figure prices are bound to drop.

"The war kept the price of woolens up for the last four years. Our soldiers had to have woolen clothing, and their clothes could not be worked over into new garments because of the coolies and other vermin. There was something else that the war did, too. Our 2,000,000 soldiers who were over there and saw the styles in England and in France, especially, where they cut clothes with an axe and threw them on with a pitchfork, have returned with a new appreciation of American clothes. They're now satisfied with the home market, and the importation of men's clothes from abroad is something that has been thrown into the discard. In fact, there is a big demand for American-made clothes in the European markets today.

"The American is the best-dressed man in the world, but there is no such thing as ultra style in America today. The Spring styles will be 100 per cent. logical. The clothiers will not go in so much for style as providing good, comfortable clothing. Suits that are now costing $45 may be had then for $40. Those that bring $75 will be sold for $60, and the $120 suits of today will be bought for $75.

"But the reduction of clothing prices cannot be forced. It must be a gradual return to normal. The overall craze that swept the country amounted to nothing. Clothing prices were not affected, and the only thing accomplished was the raising of prices of overalls for the workingman."

LONDON WOOL PRICES FALL.

Merinos Off as Much as 20%, and Poor Demand at That.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—At the wool auction sales today 10,100 bales were offered. There was a large attendance, but a poor demand.

The finest merinos were 10 per cent. and others from 15 to 20 per cent. lower. Fine crossbreds and mediums were from 5 to 10 per cent. down. Coarse wools were weak and were withdrawn.

36 RHODES SCHOLARS SAIL.

Aquitania Has 458 in First Cabin, 542 in Second and Third.

Among the first cabin passengers sailing yesterday for Southampton on the Cunarder Aquitania were thirty-six American students who have won Rhodes scholarships at Oxford University.

Thirty-two of the number were chosen from individual States, while the remaining four were selected for their scholastic merit. On Monday night the alumni of Oxford University gave them a dinner at the Harvard Club, and a delegation went to the pier at the foot of West Fourteenth Street yesterday to give the departing students a sendoff.

Others on board were Lord and Lady Beaverbrook, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Aldred, Miss Jane Aldred, Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Cassels of Philadelphia, Major J. A. Coats, head of the firm of thread manufacturers at Paisley, Scotland; Professor E. G. Coker, Captain E. U. S. Crankshaw, Ole Hanson, former Mayor of Seattle; Rear Admiral A. P. Niblack, United States Naval Attaché in London, and Mrs. Niblack; Arthur B. Lané, Secretary of the United States Embassy in London; R. L. Nosworthy, commercial attaché of the British Embassy at Washington; Francis Peabody, Miss Alicia Dupont, Sir Herbert Robson, and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney. In addition to 458 first class passengers, the Aquitania carried 272 second and 270 third class passengers.

SCOUT FUND PUBLICITY.

Jersey Republicans Declare State Law Is Faulty.

Contributors to the $300,000 campaign fund being raised in New Jersey by the Republican Ways and Means Committee need not fear publicity, even though the election law in that State provides that candidates for office must file a report, showing the names of donors of campaign subscriptions, the amount given in each case and the way the fund was expended, according to the opinion expressed yesterday by Harold Braddock, director of the New Jersey drive for a Republican fund.

Although the New Jersey law provides for the filing of such reports on the Friday or Saturday preceding a primary or general election, the Republican fund raisers profess to have discovered a loophole in the fact that no such report is required apparently of party committees. It is contended by them that the campaign manager of each candidate will comply with the law by reporting that he received certain amounts from the State Committee or the County Committee, as they say there is nothing in the law to compel a campaign manager to go further than the person from whom he received the money.

"There is an increasing reticence among business men about having their political affiliations publicly announced," said Mr. Braddock. "Employers are loath to have their employes know they are aiding one party as against another and the same applies to employes. If they feel a desire to contribute to a political campaign, they would prefer that their employes should not know the interest they are taking. I do not believe there is any legal provision that these names be given out."

So far $102,000 of the $300,000 which is expected to be raised by New Jersey Republicans had been obtained, it was announced.

Hold Head of Armenian Ship Concern.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—Armeniag Shehverdian, President of the Armenian Steamship Corporation, was arrested here today, charged with making false statements relative to the financial condition of the corporation in advertisements published in an Armenian newspaper. He furnished $2,000 bonds for a hearing later.

Ohio County Containing Akron Gains.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The following population figures were announced today by the Census Bureau: Summit County, Ohio, containing Akron, 286,065, an increase of 177,812, or 164.3 per cent. Taylor, Texas, 5,985, an increase of 651, or 12.3 per cent. The population of Cherryvale, Kan., will be announced tomorrow.

SAYS DANCE BAN HITS FARM.

Mrs. Obendorfer Blames Methodists for Young Leaving Home.

The ban on dances by the Methodist and Baptist churches have driven young persons from the farms and small towns to the large cities in search of amusement, Mrs. Marx E. Obendorfer of Chicago, told a group of New York dancing teachers last night at the Chalif Normal School of Dancing, 163 West Fifty-seventh Street. Mrs. Obendorfer, who is national Chairman on music of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, is leading a crusade to abolish suggestive dances and songs and advocates legislation by Congress to bar obscene songs from the mails and all interstate commerce.

"The United States Steel Corporation survey proved that the chief reason for young people leaving the farms has been the comparative attractiveness of the 'jazz' and cheap dance places in the city," she said. "They will not stay on the farms or go back unless some form of amusement is provided.

"If ministers would aim their fire at the rotten dancing, instead of decrying all dancing," she declared, "conditions would be better. In Chicago young white men and women from good families have been frequenting negro dance halls because of the negroes' known dancing ability. Churches must not merely denounce conditions which we all deplore, but they must co-operate to improve them.

"Parents do not realize the words now being sung by young people as they dance. The nation is being demoralized by cheap, vulgar songs. Publishers are trying to make a jazz and ragtime nation out of the United States. Something is wrong when dance tunes must be called by suggestive names in order to sell them."

Mrs. Obendorfer said that the General Federation of Women's Clubs would gladly co-operate with the Association of Dancing Masters to eliminate suggestive dancing and for better dance music.

CHALLENGES COX'S CLAIMS.

Republicans Deny Newberry Was on Foreign Relations Committee.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Two assertions made by Governor Cox in speaking to California voters yesterday, were challenged in a statement issued tonight by the Republican National Committee.

"We desire to call attention," the statement said, "to obvious misstatements of Governor Cox in Southern California speeches on Monday, reported in press dispatches as follows:

"'If Newberry had not sat in the Senate we would have had the League of Nations. If he had not been put on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by Henry Cabot Lodge the Senate would have ratified the League with helpful and not emasculating reservations.'

"Senator Newberry is not on the Foreign Relations Committee and never has been.

"Governor Cox is reported as saying that he had advocated a tariff on lemons when he was a member of Congress in 1909. Examination of The Congressional Record during two terms Governor Cox served fails to reveal that he ever uttered a word about tariff on lemons or citrus fruits on the floor of the House."

WHY LESS TEA IS IMPORTED.

Federal Examiner Says Surplus Was Accumulated in the War.

The reduction in the quantity of tea imported into the United States this year is not due to a falling off in the consumption of tea as has been reported, says George F. Mitchell, Supervising Tea Examiner of the United States Bureau of Chemistry, but to the surplus supply brought in during the war and to the high cost in the tea producing countries.

The quantity imported during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1920, was less than that brought in during each of the three preceding fiscal years, but was slightly more than the normal annual importations before the war. The degree of purity of the tea imported last year was the highest on record.

The large importations during the war were due, according to Mr. Mitchell, to the fear on the part of tea importers that an embargo would be placed on tea in order to conserve shipping space, or that a duty would be placed on it to raise war revenue. The likelihood of either or both of these factors entering the situation induced the importers to bring in large quantities of tea while it was possible to do so and without the payment of duty. A surplus supply of tea was thus accumulated.

The high cost of exchange in many of the tea producing countries, together with increased costs for labor, and a shortage of the crop in some countries, has greatly increased the price that importers have to pay for tea. During the last year when large supplies were in the hands of dealers the importers hesitated to bring in additional tea at a higher price than would probably have to be paid later. There is no indication, however, that less tea is being consumed now than in former years. It is highly probable, in fact, that more tea is being consumed since the advent of prohibition.

Notwithstanding that large quantities were carried over from previous years, the importations during the year closed June 30, 1920, were slightly larger than the importations during 1913, 1914, or 1915, though less than the abnormal importations during the war. The degree of purity of the tea offered for importation is shown by the fact that in the last two years only one small shipment was rejected because of artificial coloring and facing.

The Tea Inspection Service was transferred from the Treasury Department to the Department of Agriculture on July 1, 1920. The Supervising Tea Examiner and all his staff were at the same time transferred. The inspection in the Department of Agriculture is therefore to be done by the same men who did it for the Treasury Department. The Inspection Service was transferred to the Department of Agriculture for the reason that tea is subject both to the tea inspection law and to the pure food law. Since the pure food law is enforced by the Department of Agriculture it was believed that the tea inspection work could better be done under the supervision of that department.

PLAN "PARLOR MEETINGS."

Republicans Take Steps to Interest Women in Campaign.

"Parlor meetings" such as marked the campaign for the Republican nomination for President will be used to interest women in support of the Republican national ticket. This became known yesterday when Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore, Regional Director of women's organizations in the East for the Republican National Committee, announced the appointment of Mrs. Laura Dayton Fessenden of Chicago as Chairman of the Committee on Parlor Meetings.

Mrs. Fessenden, who is a member of the Chicago Women's Club, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Colonial Dames, the Antiquarian Society and the Fortnightly Club of Chicago, will meet New York City women next Monday afternoon as a speaker at the weekly forum of the Republican Women's State Executive Committee at the Hotel Vanderbilt. She will speak in Buffalo on Sept. 25, in Yonkers on Sept. 28 and in Herkimer on Sept. 29.

Mrs. Fessenden, who was said at Republican headquarters to have come East to arrange for parlor meetings in every city visited, has already sent out thousands of letters to prospective hostesses, each of which is stamped "I am a Harding Republican."

Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr, a writer, returned yesterday from a speaking trip through West Virginia for the Republican National Committee and reported the women of that State strong for Senator Harding. Mrs. Dorr will speak in New Jersey during the week of Sept. 27 under the auspices of the Women's Republican Club of that State.

EXPECTS DRIFT TO COX

But Spargo Sees Harding Ahead Now—Finds British Labor Cautious

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—If the Presidential election took place tomorrow, Harding would be chosen, John Spargo declared to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent today, but as things are he is inclined to bet on Cox. The Democratic candidate, he believes, is wearing better and is putting up a more aggressive and effective campaign.

Spargo, as a result of talks with many labor leaders in the few days he has been here, is sceptical of a coal strike occurring. He finds labor circles despondent rather than desperate and in no mood to take the responsibility of a great crisis. Then, too, the trade unionists are divided, many doubting the justice of the miners' case and still more being apprehensive lest the entire cause of trade unionism be endangered in the eyes of the nation. Finally, the women are utterly opposed to a strike and when have frankly told Spargo that they fear what their wives would say if they went out.

Spargo has also found British labor proving cold toward Russia. Labor approves the allied declaration for non-recognition of the Soviet Government and such revelations as Mrs. Snowden's about Russian conditions have given much food for thought. Finally, none of the leaders, as far as Spargo has observed, is disposed to take the famous "Council of Acton" seriously.

ORGANIZE ITALIAN WOMEN.

Republicans Seek Their Support for Harding and Coolidge.

Steps for the organization of Italian women throughout the country in support of Harding and Coolidge were taken yesterday at the convention of the Italian-American Republican League, permanent organization of which was effected the preceding day. Nicholas Selvaggi, secretary, estimated that there are 52,000 male Italian voters in New York City, 200,000 in New York State and 500,000 in the country, which the League hopes to get to vote the Republican national ticket. It said that by organization of the Italian women it was hoped to add at least 300,000 votes to this number. Organization of the women will be started immediately in New York City.

At the morning session in Aeolian Hall, Miss Julia Rogers of Minnesota addressed the convention on organization of women. A message in Italian commending the purposes of the League was received from United States Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois.

General C. Herbert De Fosse of California, in a speech to the convention, said that only the election of a Republican President could save the United States from being swept into the muddled affairs of Europe.

At the afternoon session it was decided that conventions of the League should be held every two years. Chicago was selected as the place for the 1922 convention.

Democrats Have Spent $200,000.

Wilbur Marsh, Treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, yesterday voluntarily forwarded to the Senate committee investigating campaign expenditures, of which Senator Kenyon is Chairman, a statement showing the receipts and disbursements of the Democratic National Committee to date. The statement shows that $200,000 has been received in campaign contributions and that $200,000 has been expended.

Theophilus Olena.

Theophilus Olena, an old-time banker and for four terms President of the Board of Aldermen of the old City of Brooklyn, died yesterday at his home, 179 St. John's Place, Brooklyn, in his eighty-eighth year. Mr. Olena was born at Grand Isle, Vt., of French descent, the family name being originally Oligny. In 1864, with Frank E. Craig as his partner, he formed the firm of Olena & Craig, importers of wines and liquors. Mr. Olena was a former Vice-President of the Brooklyn City Savings Bank and was one of the organizers of the Sprague National Bank, later merged with the Mechanics Bank.

Dr. Eric Doolittle.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—Dr. Eric Doolittle, distinguished astronomer, died today. He was director of the Flower Observatory of the University of Pennsylvania and was regarded as an authority on double stars.

Dr. Doolittle was born in Indiana in 1870 and was the son of Dr. Charles L. Doolittle, Emeritus Professor of Astronomy at Pennsylvania.

SAYS HE MENACED NEWTON.

Collector of Port's Secretary Accuses Customs Employe.

Accused of having threatened to kill Byron R. Newton, Collector of the Port, Roberto Gascoigne, 72 East 127th Street, an employe of the Collector's office, was sent to Bellevue Hospital for ten days for observation by Magistrate Harris in the Tombs Police Court yesterday. Gascoigne was arrested on a warrant sworn to by Minton Fluhrer, secretary to Collector Newton.

Mr. Fluhrer said Gascoigne came into Mr. Newton's office on Sept. 13 and threatened to kill him. He said Gascoigne had been in the employ of the Collector's office in 1903 and 1904, was then dropped and was reinstated by Collector Newton about a year ago. During the period he was out of employment, Gascoigne had sent many letters and postal cards to the Collector, some demanding reinstatement and others announcing his candidacy for President of the United States. He said Gascoigne seemed to be under the impression that he had been unfairly treated in the sugar refinery investigation.

Gascoigne told the Magistrate that he wished to do his work properly, said he had wished to get back into the Collector's office and said his announcement of his candidacy for President was a "joke." He said he believed Collector Newton should be removed from office, but said he liked him personally.

TWO SHOT BY BANDITS IN HOLDUP ATTEMPT

WOUNDED MEN MAY DIE

Detective Di Gilio, Caught in the Raid, Believes Men Were of Winfield Robber Gang.

Two men were wounded, probably fatally, in an attempted holdup in a saloon kept by Tony di Gilio at West Avenue and Seventh Street, Long Island City, last night. More than a dozen men, including di Gilio's son, James di Gilio, a detective attached to the Hunters Point Police Station, were in the place, and there was a rush for the cover of the bar when the shooting began. The holdup men, who were six in number, drove up to the saloon in a large touring car and escaped in it after the shooting.

The men wounded were Pasquale Gricco of 48 Fifth Street, who was shot through the breast, and Frank Mirro of 88 Fourth Street, who was shot through the right arm and right side. Both were taken to St. John's Hospital, where it was said that they would probably die.

According to Detective di Gilio, five of the six men entered the saloon suddenly, leaving one outside with the automobile. Two of the intruders drew revolvers and ordered all inside to throw up their hands. An incautious movement on the part of one of the customers frightened one of the holdup men, who began firing, apparently in the belief that an attempt at resistance would be made. He was said to have fired five shots, only two of which took effect.

The holdup men fled immediately without trying to steal any money or valuables. Detective di Gilio, who had a good view of them, said he believed they were the same gang who robbed a store at Winfield, L. I., on Saturday night.

SLAIN IN SALOON REAR ROOM

Brooklyn Man Mysteriously Shot While at Table with Five Others.

While sitting in the rear room of the saloon of Charles Ruppert, at Jay and Front Streets, Brooklyn, last night, Dan Gillen, 28 years old, of 128 Prospect Street, was shot and killed.

Gillen was at the table with five other men. The proprietor told the police he heard two or three shots. Gillen was found lying on the floor with a bullet wound in the neck and another on the forefinger. He was dead when an ambulance surgeon arrived from the Brooklyn Hospital. The police found no pistol and are mystified over the shooting.

CROWDS TRY TO BOARD SHIP

Captain of Delayed Craft Turns Hose on Greeters.

Since the new regulations have been holding liners with immigrants from southern Europe several hours at Quarantine, relatives and friends in New York awaiting the arrival of the voyagers have chartered motor launches at Staten Island and gone off to welcome the newcomers.

This practice has increased to such an extent that yesterday the harbor police were called upon to disperse a flotilla of boats filled with excitable foreigners that surrounded the transport Thomas, filled with immigrants from Naples and Trieste. These visitors had swarmed alongside the ship and clambered up ropes to shout to their friends on board in spite of the orders of the Captain, who finally had the hose turned upon them. That did not stop the annoyance and the Captain signaled for the police. The immigrants have to remain on the Thomas because of the lack of accommodation at Ellis Island.

BOUCICAULT FUND TIED UP.

Receiver Appointed for Property of Playwright's Granddaughter.

Because Miss Renee Boucicault, granddaughter of Dion Boucicault, actor and playwright, has gone to London for an indefinite stay and no property can be found here to satisfy a judgment for $1,484 obtained in January by Max L. Freeman on a note, City Court Justice Meyer yesterday appointed Louis H. Moos receiver of her property.

Frederick C. Leubuscher, one of the trustees of a $100,000 fund left to Miss Boucicault, told the court that because of the many debts contracted by her the fund has been tied up by a Supreme Court order. He said she went to London in August and that he had no idea when she intended to return.

POSTAL BANKS AID INDUSTRY

Hymel Davis Tells Senate Committee They Increase Labor Stability.

Expansion of postal savings bank facilities will do as much as any other one thing toward helping solve the great industrial problems of the country, according to Hymel Davis, Commissioner of Conciliation of the U. S. Department of Labor, who testified yesterday before the Senate Committee on Reconstruction, which is holding a series of meetings at 29 West Thirty-ninth Street.

Among the economic benefits to the country from such expansion mentioned by Mr. Davis were increased stability of labor, as men with savings funds will not strike for insufficient cause, and a reduction of labor turnover, as men with savings will not roam about the country so much and will take an interest in owning their own homes.

Isolated mining camps lack convenient banking facilities, he added, and men object to large employers controlling other banks, alleging that they are thus making more profit out of their savings than they pay in interest.

FOCH PLANS VISIT HERE.

Supreme Knight of K. of C. Tells of Marshal's Promise—No Date Set.

Marshal Foch reaffirms his desire to visit the United States in a cable received yesterday by Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty of the Knights of Columbus, who has just returned from Europe.

"I wish to express my most cordial thanks," the Marshal cabled, "for the aid and example given by the Knights of Columbus, and I sincerely hope to see your work in America with my own eyes."

Mr. Flaherty said Marshal Foch told him in Metz that he would positively come here, although he did not state a definite time.

BIG POLICE FORCE ENDS CHICAGO RIOT

Six Negroes and Three Whites Held as Ringleaders in the Uprising.

GUARD FOR NEGRO WORKERS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Chicago's South Side, agitated Monday night by race riots following the slaying of Thomas E. Barrett, a white man, by one of three negroes, had returned to normal tonight except for the fact that hundreds of additional police, thrown into the district to quell the disturbances, patrolled the streets of the "black belt."

One thousand policemen, acting with military effectiveness under the personal command of Chief Garrity, kept order in the district. An additional five hundred policemen were formed in companies at the Stock Yards Station, which is field headquarters, ready to respond instantly to an alarm.

Negro laborers in the stock yards were moved at the morning change of shift under guard. Saloons in the district were closed and locked.

Nine men, three of them white, were arrested during the day and the preceding night. These, the police say, were the trouble breeders. Three are charged with the death of Barrett. Another, John Smith, colored, is said to have confessed shooting Policeman George C. Wise on the night of Sept. 14. Wise is still fighting for his life in Michael Reese Hospital.

Eight men were beaten and one was slightly wounded during the height of the excitement, but the chief incident to cause the police trouble during the day was the burning of a stable belonging to Gus Katoganitz at 224 West Fifty-first Street, for which police officials blame rioters. The barn, two loads of lumber, two horses and two wagons were burned.

Alfred Davenport, a negro, was set upon and beaten today as he was leaving the stock yards at Forty-seventh Street. A mob of ten white men beat him so severely that he had to be removed to his home in an ambulance. Davenport is employed by Swift & Co.

Sam Hayes, one of three colored men found hiding in St. Gabriel's Church on Monday night, and rescued from the mob, is said to have confessed slaying Barrett. The police are making a thorough investigation. They have witnesses who say Barrett was at fault and others who declare the negroes acted without provocation.

LIMESTONE MEN ORGANIZED

Each Pays 1% of His Gross Business, Says Court House Witness.

Continuing his investigation of accusations that the limestone bids for the city's new court house were boosted to an inordinately high figure through a conspiracy of limestone contractors, Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield yesterday questioned James McLaren, President of the New York Cut Stone Contractors' Association, who shed considerable light on purposes of the association. Henry Hanlein, the successful bidder for the limestone contract, is a member of the Executive Committee of the association.

Mr. McLaren testified that the association included all of the limestone contractors in the city and metropolitan district, a total of forty-five. The contractors pay $300 to join and $160 a year. Each member, he said, was required to pay in 1 per cent. of his gross business, a fee that becomes due when contracts are signed. Under Mr. Hanlein's bid, he said, the association would receive about $15,000. The organization, he said, needed the 1 per cent. for the conduct of its business.

Mr. McLaren said he was a member of the International Cut Stone and Quarrymen's Association, the President of which is Charles Dickinson, who is also President of the Indiana Limestone Quarrymen's Association, which will supply the limestone for the new court house. The witness said the Department of Justice investigated the business of the association. When questioned concerning the expenses of the association, Mr. McLaren enumerated, among other items, contributions to the Red Cross and the purchase of Liberty bonds.

The hearing was adjourned until Oct. 1.

FRENCH CHAMBERS RELEASE DESCHANEL

ELECTION SET FOR SEPT. 25

HIS POLICY TO BE FORCEFUL

He Is Known to Favor the President's Active Collaboration with the Cabinet Ministers.

PARIS, Sept. 21 (Associated Press).—The resignation of Paul Deschanel as President of France, which he handed to Premier Millerand at Rambouillet last week, was read simultaneously in the Senate and Chamber of Deputies when those bodies reconvened today.

"My state of health," wrote M. Deschanel, in his letter, "no longer permits me to assume the high functions with which your confidence invested me upon the occasion of the session of the National Assembly on Jan. 17 last.

"The absolute obligation imposed upon me to take a complete rest makes it my duty to no longer delay announcing to you the decision I have been compelled to reach. It is infinitely painful, and it is with profound heart pangs that I renounce the noble post of which you deemed me worthy.

"The duty of the President of the republic involves at all times grave responsibilities. It demands activity and energy, free from all weakness, during the years when victorious France is called upon to reconstruct her domestic resources, meanwhile assuring abroad integral application of the treaty of peace so gloriously, but so dearly, gained.

"I have persevered even to the last extremity, but the hour is come when I fall in what I owe you in not resigning my functions into your hands. At the instant when I retire I dare express the hope that the representatives of the nation, whose patriotic unity was a powerful aid to victory, will maintain in peace their union for the greatness and prosperity of this adored France, to whose service I have devoted my life and who shall have my last thought.

"It will be the rôle and enviable privilege of my successor to glorify before the world within a few days the accomplishments of the republic, which, after having saved the national honor fifty years ago, has brought back under our flag Alsace and Lorraine.

"Sure of fulfilling a most imperious, as well as the cruelest of duties, I submit upon the desk of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies my resignation as President of the republic."

Tributes Paid to Deschanel.

After the message of M. Deschanel had been read to the Chamber of Deputies, Raoul Peret, President of the Chamber, gave voice to the regret of that body and of the country that the President had been obliged to relinquish his office, and extended to him the cordial good wishes of his former colleagues. Premier Millerand added his tribute, on behalf of the Government, to that of the presiding officer. Both speakers won hearty applause from the Chamber.

President Peret then read the decree convening the National Assembly for Sept. 25 to elect a new President, and the session was adjourned.

In the Senate Léon Bourgeois, its President, read the resignation message and eulogized M. Deschanel, whose resignation, the speaker remarked, was inspired by a lofty sentiment of duty, and he expressed the hope that the retiring President might soon recover the strength necessary to enable him again to render service to his country. M. Hôpiteau, the Minister of Justice, spoke similarly in the name of the Government, and after the reading of the decree for the National Assembly session the Senate also adjourned.

The leaders of the political groups in the Senate and Chamber decided this evening to hold a joint meeting in the Senate tomorrow to designate a candidate for the Presidency.

Revision of the French Constitution so as to give greater stability to the Government and enlarge the Electoral College which chooses the President will be attempted by Premier Millerand when he takes office as President, according to newspapers here. He would have the Electoral College include not only members of the two Houses of Parliament, but also delegates from local elected bodies and from great corporations.

Wants More Power for President.

M. Millerand also believes the President should be less of a figurehead than has been the rule in the past and that he should play a role of confident and cordial collaboration with the Government in office. In other words, his idea would be that the President should be like the head of a stock company, in which the Ministers would take the part of Directors and the Premier that of Managing Director. He is convinced, it is said, that this plan would assure great continuity and cohesion in the executive branch of the Government.

In his address outlining his program on entering his present office, M. Millerand said that it was not so much the disposition of the French constitutional system which aroused criticism as its application.

"The essential guarantee of liberty," he declared, "is a division of powers within the Government. Each department should be independent in its own sphere and should not impinge on territory of another. Tyranny may be defined as a union of all powers under one head, whether it be a person or an assembly. The responsibility of the executive power, which theoretically chooses and appoints, inevitably disappears the day when it merely ratifies decisions instead of freely choosing. These decisions are whispered in his ear under threats which are sometimes but thinly veiled. We must break with this system and give to each department entire authority according to its rights. The President of the Republic is today elected by 900 members of Parliament. Constitutionally, he is not the creature of Parliament, but is really the first representative of France.

"Serious reasons rule out the election of President by universal suffrage; but between that method and the method of today there is a gulf which can without danger be bridged, in my opinion, with great advantage by considerably enlarging the electoral college."

No Demonstration for Millerand.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—It would be impossible to imagine a Presidential boom stronger than that which carried Millerand to the acceptance of the Presidential candidacy against his own better judgment. Not even the Clemenceau boom at its top exceeded Millerand's in intensity and unanimity.

I went to the Chamber of Deputies to see the ovation for Millerand which had been predicted. It did not materialize. There was scarcely a handclap when he rose or when he finished his speech. After the adjournment I made some inquiries in the lobby, seeking an explanation of this interesting manifestation of the French temperament.

"Millerand had given his consent, and there was no longer any need of the ovation which would have been forthcoming but for the announcement that he would accept," said the political editor of a Paris daily.

Another explanation was that a pretty widespread feeling of reaction against any change in the Presidential functions had set in, and it was for this reason that Millerand, instead of mounting the tribune to make his remarks, had remained in his place on the Government benches rather than take the chance of some counter demonstration on the Left, where the opposition to investing the Presidential office with greater authority was strongest.

Another reason assigned for the Premier's avoiding conspicuousness was that the circumstances of the retirement of President Deschanel made any demonstration unseemly.

In spite of all explanations, it seems clear that Millerand is leaving an office in which he had French public opinion solidly behind him to take another regarding which there are very sharp differences of opinion.

Undoubtedly the Premier resolved his doubts regarding the change on the final ground that the Presidential office ought to be clothed with more authority. Whatever opposition this program encounters, he is expected to proceed to assume wider powers, even in advance of Constitutional changes. The President will no longer be a figurehead under Millerand's administration. He will put himself strongly behind the policy which as President of the Council he has vigorously carried out, but it is clear that a reform of the Presidential office somewhat along American lines will not be effected without powerful opposition.

ROME CELEBRATION FULL OF PATRIOTISM

ROME, Sept. 20.—All Italy joined today in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the proclamation of Rome as the capital of United Italy. The exercises for the most part took the form of gala processions during the afternoon and evening.

In this city the most impressive scene was at the Porta Pia, through which gate the Italian troops entered Rome after a short bombardment on Sept. 20, 1870. There 100,000 people of every class gathered and sang patriotic songs, cheered the King and the army and waved flags, among which were many belonging to cities redeemed by the great war. The ceremonies were official in nature and were followed by a monster procession, which was headed by bands and made brilliant by the national emblem and banners of associations and municipalities. Throngs massed along the route frantically cheered as the parade went by.

On the platform at Porta Pia was the Mayor of Rome, Sheriffs, Communal and Provincial Councilors and the Mayors of Zara, Metz, Strasbourg and other cities. Representatives of every corps of the Italian Army were also present. A patriotic speech was made by the Mayor, and telegrams of congratulation were sent to the King, evoking fresh outbursts of applause. The animated scenes of the day were repeated during the evening and later the crowds dispersed quietly. The day was without untoward incidents.

WRANGEL'S CAVALRY SEIZES PETROPAVLOVSK

Valuable Strategic Positions Won in Latest Drive—More Than 2,000 Prisoners.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 20 (Associated Press).—General Wrangel's latest cavalry drive against the Bolsheviki in South Russia has won him valuable strategic positions on the railway and resulted in the capture of more than 2,000 prisoners and quantities of supplies, it is reported in advices from the Crimea.

The South Russian cavalry, by a sudden dash, surprised the Bolsheviki and captured the railway junction of Petropavlovsk, with sections of the line in either direction, as well as the town of Oriakhov. The Wrangel forces are now menacing Alexandrovsk, on the Dnieper, about ninety miles inland from the Sea of Azov.

The Japanese Government now has an observer at Sebastopol, General Wrangel's headquarters.

General Makno, commanding the Peasant Minute Men, has entered into an agreement with Wrangel for co-operation. Makno is at present working in the rear of the Bolsheviki along the Dnieper River and cutting off their Kharkov supplies. His army is reported to number 30,000, now that harvesting has ended.

FIUME CABINET NAMED.

D'Annunzio Is Foreign Minister, Chief of State and Commander.

FIUME, Sept. 20 (Associated Press).—Gabriele d'Annunzio has appointed his Cabinet for the Provisional Government of the "Italian Regency of Quarnero." It consists of seven "rettori," or rectors, and d'Annunzio himself will act as Foreign Minister. This post, according to the Constitution, carries with it the title of Chief of State and at the same time d'Annunzio will retain his title of commander.

Each of the "rettori" will have the privilege of naming an "Under Secretary," who probably will be chosen from among the members of the former National Council. Elections will be held shortly in accordance with the Constitution to choose members of the two houses of Parliament. No positive date has been set for the election as yet.

The people are not enthusiastic over the poet's new move, but he is using all means to persuade the different factions to accept his proposal. The Legionaries insist on their right to choose a commander and will have nobody but d'Annunzio. The Constitution of the new State provides for a commander or dictator in times of extreme national danger to be chosen by both houses of Parliament.

D'Annunzio last night visited the four soldiers who are reported to be ill with the bubonic plague.

Ships and trains continue to come into and leave Fiume, but no persons are permitted to go out of the city except on grounds of the most urgent necessity.

Guernsey Bull Brings $25,000 At Record Sale in Bay State

NORTH EASTON, Mass., Sept. 21.—What were said to be record prices for Guernsey cattle were paid at an auction here today when F. Lothrop Ames sold fifty-one head at Langwater Farm for $146,125, an average of $2,865.

Sixteen cows sold for $88,525, an average of $5,533. Mr. Ames announced the private sale of Langwater Steadfast, a six-year-old bull, to George Cluett of Troy, N. Y., for $25,000.

EDUCATOR URGES BARRING JAPANESE

President Barrows of University of California Appeals for Eastern Sympathy.

SAYS WE MUST HOLD LAND

By CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, JR.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—An appeal from the west coast to the east was that which David Prescott Barrows, President of the University of California, delivered in an interview yesterday. President Barrows, whose record as an educator is a long one, asked that there should be given to his statements in regard to Western education and its bearing since the war proper meaning and all just criticism, because he wished that those pursuing education in the eastern part of the country could have a full picture of what the west coast is endeavoring to achieve.

"Our State is intensely interested in keeping the American citizen on the land," said President Barrows to me. "No nation can hold itself together unless it controls its own soil. Therefore we cannot allow our agricultural land to pass into the hands of aliens.

"We are trying to hold a large frontier out here, much larger than the Easterner will realize unless he has thoroughly visited the Pacific Coast. The doom of the United States is the possession of this region by Orientals, and we as educators realize that it must stop now.

"Japan believes she can divert the attention of the United States by underhand methods. By that I mean she realizes that the United States is the only nation she can oppose without getting a blow in the ribs. Japan is today, as she has done for the last ten years, occupying our attention in Asia while she pursues her foul methods in America. Even under a smoke screen of her offensives in Siberia she is trespassing on the sacred rights of China. The United States is indifferent to this menace.

"They say we are sensationalists, as we were at the time of the Chinese eruptions. We have no sympathy from others except those who have been here, have seen and understand how we are fast going to be conquered, but California sees and is united. This is not due to our own personal prejudice for California labor, but it embraces every class in the State and we are banded together in a determined league to force the exclusion of the yellow man from our boundaries.

"In this connection the University of California is trying to do its part by making life on the farm not only tolerable but inviting. We believe we can do this if we are attentive in instructing our students toward its merits. The University of California acts as an agent for the rest of the State in an attempt to raise its standard to that of a great protectorate for its own labor.

"We are now enlarging the university and will include in this year's course, for those who so desire, complete agricultural and farm mechanical training. We have at present enrolled in the university 9,955 students. Of those, 3,208 are freshmen who entered this year. For our agricultural classes we have over 1,500 of these freshmen voluntarily enrolled.

"Taking our college on the Eastern basis, excluding the agricultural end, we have the academic course such as Yale gives, a scientific course such as that of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and thirty-five special courses to be found in no other one college in the country. By this I mean we sustain research work for students as well as the most advanced practitioners.

"We have an astronomical observatory conceded by the best authorities to be one of the most important in the country. We have a college for studying biological vertebrae and another for complete courses in zoology. There is in San Francisco, and recently donated by the Hooper estate, an Institute of medical research. There are eleven colleges and three schools with a faculty of 700 to 800 within the college area.

"Forty per cent. of the enrolled number this year come from other States. Most of them are from Utah, Idaho, Arizona and further eastward. They are fast realizing that with such possibilities as we have to offer this university can give the knowledge for which they thirst.

"Returning to our agricultural designs in connection with a bigger and better California, I would add that the knowledge of those graduated from our temporary agricultural course last year increased the State's agricultural record over $200,000,000. We draw no line between students and faculty. We are one big family. Our university is an embodiment of all traditions since the days of '49. It is typically Californian.

"We have no rules for conduct. If some one infringes and steps too far, the case is taken before a student committee. All they do is for the good of the university and the offender must take his gravy.

"A sign at the crossroad points out that America must lead, and she cannot do so if we allow the yellow man to come further within our gates. And in order that America may lead we are training our youth to recognize the evils of that race, which we do not detest, but which we will not endure."

It is an interesting fact that the University of California still retains its obligatory military training for all freshmen. At present its infantry regiment is said to be the only one in the country today, whether regular, reserve or National Guard, which is recruited beyond a doubt to full war strength.

Dr. Barrows served in Siberia and elsewhere in Russia for two years as Major and observer and was decorated. He is one of the youngest college Presidents in the West, besides being President of the California State American Legion.

HOLLAND TO INCREASE ITS ACTIVE FORCES

Queen's Speech Says Outlook Is Uncertain and League Hopes Have Not Been Realized.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 21.—Queen Wilhelmina, at the opening of Parliament today, said the relations of the Netherlands with foreign countries had been maintained in a generally satisfactory manner. The situation in Europe, however, was uncertain, the Queen declared, and the prospects held out by the League of Nations with regard to the future relations of the various States had not yet been realized.

Under these circumstances, Wilhelmina added, measures for reinforcement of the active forces of Holland would be adopted, while the pressure of military service individually and financially would be lessened. The Queen announced a partial revision of the constitution.

Bubonic Plague Scare in Fiume.

FIUME, Sept. 21.—It is rumored that four cases of bubonic plague have been discovered in Fiume. The theatres have been closed and other local precautions have been taken, but steamers and trains are continuing to arrive and depart, and it is not thought probable that the cases will prove to be really of a bubonic nature.

Witness Tells How Bergdolls Played While Police Sought Them for Dodging Draft

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—Fishing, gunning and motoring trips enjoyed by Grover and Erwin Bergdoll when they were being sought by the military authorities for evading the draft, were described today by Fitzhugh Lee Creedon and Richard E. Shoedel, witnesses in the trial of Mrs. Emma Bergdoll, James E. Romig, Henry Schuh, Albert Mitchell and Charles E. Braun, charged in the United States District Court with conspiracy to aid the Bergdolls in evading military service.

Both Grover and Erwin were being sought by the police last January when the former was captured in his mother's home. The next day Government agents searched the home of Braun in Broomal, Pa., and as they entered the house Erwin slipped out a back door, Creedon testified. That night Braun met Erwin and drove him in an automobile to Baltimore, according to Creedon.

D. Clarence Gibboney was excused from testifying when he stated that he had been counsel for Romig since April, 1919.

W. Albert Alexander, a clerk in the United States Treasury, Washington, was called as a witness and told how Romig on Oct. 27 and Nov. 17, 1919, had $105,000 in paper currency converted into gold. This is the gold Grover is said to have buried in the Maryland hills. He said he was unable to identify a woman who accompanied Romig on Nov. 17, though "it might have been this lady," he said, pointing to Mrs. Bergdoll.

Erwin Bergdoll, who was brought from Fort Leavenworth, where he is serving a four-year sentence for evading the draft, was present at the trial today under guard. He was handcuffed to a non-commissioned officer and was also under the eye of Colonel J. C. Penn of the Adjutant General's office at Washington.

JAPANESE AWAIT AMERICAN ELECTION

RESENT CALIFORNIA'S STAND

Most Commentators Condemn It, but Inouye Criticises Action of Japanese Immigrants.

TOKIO, Sept. 21 (Associated Press).—Representative Japanese express the opinion that there is no hope of a permanent solution of the California problem until after the Presidential election in the United States. Through the medium of the press, however, they continue to put forward strong opposition to the proposed referendum in California designed to extend the present law excluding Japanese from land ownership in the State so as to forbid Japanese to hold lands by lease, and also to prevent Japanese holding land through ownership of alleged "dummy" corporations.

Among the writers is Viscount Takaakira Kato, former Foreign Minister, who says:

"That America, which constantly is advocating the cause of righteousness and humanity, should dare without giving proper reasons to deprive Japanese of the fruits of many years of painstaking labor, is an act we can never overlook. That America of all countries should resort to an act so cruel and inhuman is really inexplicable."

Viscount Kentaro Kaneko, President of the Japan-America Society of Tokio, announces in an interview published in the Japan Advertiser that if he goes to America in the interest of bettering relations between Japan and the United States, as suggested by members of the Cabinet, he will make the trip early next year.

"If California passes the proposed bill by the referendum," Viscount Kaneko says, "California will write an indelible impression on the minds of every male, woman and child in Japan. But I do not predict war will result if this action is taken. All the good the visit of Perry to Japan accomplished, and all the friendship that has grown up between the two nations in the last sixty-four years, will be wiped out in a single day."

Viscount Kaneko says that if Japan were approached in a reasonable way a positive and peaceful arrangement could be reached.

"Why doesn't California allow the question to be taken up through the diplomatic channels of the two Governments?" he asks.

Jinosuke Inouye, Governor of the Bank of Japan, writes that if the Japanese in America expect the same rights as Americans they should follow the manners and customs of the country and try to assimilate them. He said he believes the intelligent men of Japan should see to it that Japanese immigrants amend their ways where reform is advisable and refrain from unnecessarily wounding the feelings of Americans.

Count Okuma thinks the California situation only one aspect of a grave problem. Because of the difficulty of the mixing of Eastern and Western races, they say, Japan, as the first Oriental power, must assume the leadership and patiently seek the best means looking to a practical understanding.

The Yomiuri Shimbun says it learns that leading members of the House of Peers have decided to urge the Government to adopt a firm attitude in diplomatic dealings with America concerning the anti-Japanese agitation and thus meet the will of the nation.

One of the numerous political groups in the House of Peers, headed by Baron Yoshiro Sakatani, visited Viscount Uchida, the Foreign Minister, today to learn the latest developments. Viscount Uchida repeated what he recently told a delegation of the Kensei-kai, or Opposition Party. The Foreign Minister informed the Kensei-kai delegates that efforts to reach "a peaceful and satisfactory" settlement of the Japanese problem in California were being made by Roland S. Morris, United States Ambassador to Japan, and Bainbridge Colby, American Secretary of State. Baron Uchida said that Mr. Morris and Mr. Colby considered the question very important, both to Japan and the United States, and that President Wilson also was desirous of reaching a peaceful solution. Kijaro Shidehara, Japanese Ambassador in the United States, who was conducting the negotiations with Secretary Colby, firmly believed a settlement was in prospect. The Foreign Minister assured.

The Dopei-kai ("Equality and Justice") group has voted to invite Foreign Minister Uchida to express the views of the Government on the situation.

While the younger peers apparently are taking the lead, the Yomiuri Shimbun says the peers unanimously are attaching great importance to the California problem and are insisting that the question must be solved before any other diplomatic question confronting the empire.

Seven labor organizations have planned to exchange views on the California difficulty and cable their conclusions to Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, as the representative opinion of the Japanese laboring classes.

The Government continues its policy of preventing mass meetings.

TURKS BESIEGING ADANA AND TARSUS

American Relief Worker Counted 300 Headless Bodies in the Fields Around Adana.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 20 (Associated Press).—Turkish Nationalist forces in Southern Asia Minor are continuing their fight against French troops of occupation there. Ten thousand Turks and Arabs are besieging Adana and others are daily shelling Tarsus with old five-inch German guns, which are operated by German officers who have been stranded there since the armistice. Frequent attacks are being made on Mersina, an important seaport southwest of Adana, but have been repulsed by the fire from the guns of French battleships in the harbor.

Americans in Adana have limited food supplies, but distribute what they can to 2,000 persons daily. They have so far failed to get shipments from Mersina. French military officials are dealing diplomatically with the people, and are granting amnesty to former residents of Adana who wish to desert the Nationalists and return home.

Hand-to-hand fighting frequently occurs at Adana, the French Senegalese and also the Turks and Arabs cutting off the heads of the fallen to be sure they are dead. There is no report, however, of torture being inflicted. Philip L. Flora of Springfield, Mass., a worker with the American Committee for Relief in the Near East, who has arrived here, reports counting more than three hundred headless bodies on the fields near that city where engagements have been fought. The French have driven back the besiegers and have established their lines five miles to the west of the city, but the Turks and Arabs continue their assaults under the cover of vineyards and orange groves.

The French have succeeded in getting supplies into Tarsus from Mersina and have also cleared the plain between Adana and the sea. They are preparing for a Winter's siege, however, and are distributing food to the Turks, Arabs and Armenians inside the city. The harvest on the neighboring plains has been gathered by the French.

It is said that the Armenians involved the French in the hostilities by attacking, last June, the Arabs and Turks within the city and beating and murdering some of them. The French hanged forty Armenians for this act and disarmed the rest.

The Armenian city of Hadjin has sent a message that it is facing starvation and that a massacre is threatened unless the city is relieved. A corps of 1,000 Armenians has been formed at Adana to go to Hadjin, but has not moved because it lacks arms.

The reconstruction of the Turkish Cabinet has been begun by the Grand Vizier as a result of the resignation of Riza Effendi, High Councilor of State; Mustapha Sabri Effendi, Sheik-ul-Islam, and Djemal Bey, Minister of Commerce and Agriculture. Hope is expressed that the resignation of the entire Cabinet may be prevented by a reorganization.

The three Cabinet members resigned because they found it impossible to cooperate in enforcing the treaty between Turkey and the allied nations, or to arrange for a compromise with the Turkish Nationalists.

SWISS SOCIALISTS FIGHT FREEING LEAGUE OF TAX

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 21.—The State Council of the Republic and the Canton of Geneva decided by 62 votes to 22, the latter all Socialists, to free the League of Nations from transfer duties amounting to 700,000 francs connected with the purchase of a building for the use of the League offices. The Socialists opposed the measure, urging that they did not have confidence in the League of Nations.

Willemin, a distinguished Genevese member of the Parliament, pointed out that it was every where Bolsheviki and Militarists who opposed the League and that they did so because they feared the League might succeed in bringing about social peace or because they wished to continue fishing in troubled waters. M. Giggnoux, Secretary of the State Council, urged that the League of Nations must not be judged before it had even had time to set to work.

Addressing the Socialists, Gigguoux charged them with being an element of disorder. "That is why," he said, "you oppose the League of Nations, which has assumed the sacred task of working for peace and order."

The Socialists were reminded that when the question of Switzerland's joining the League was submitted to a referendum last May the only persons who voted against joining were Bolsheviki and militarists.

War's Highest Roll of Honor

The Congressional Medal of Honor is the most highly prized and most difficult to obtain among all military decorations for valor in the armies of the world. It was awarded by Congress to 78 men who participated in the great war. Of these winners of the Premier War Medal, 54 are living. An article in The New York Times Book Review and Magazine next Sunday tells their story. Thirty-four of them have accepted invitations to be present at the American Legion's Convention in Cleveland next week.

GULF PEOPLE FLEE BEFORE HURRICANE

Gale Sweeping Over Gulf of Mexico Veers in Course Toward Louisiana.

MAY REACH THERE TODAY

Texas Coast Also Is Threatened—Tides Rise Above Normal and Barometer Falls Quickly.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The tropical hurricane sweeping the Gulf of Mexico was reported in a bulletin issued at 10 o'clock tonight by the Weather Bureau to have turned its course from northwestward to northward and that winds of hurricane force would result. The bulletin said:

"Change to hurricane warning 9 P. M., Pensacola to New Orleans. Centre of hurricane moving northward toward coast, probably west of Mississippi River. Winds will increase and change to southeast and south by Wednesday morning, reaching hurricane force high tide. Emergency—advise all interests."

The first hurricane warning was issued by the Weather Bureau at 10 o'clock this morning, advising the Western Louisiana Coast area and districts on the Texas Coast from Port Arthur to Corpus Christi that the tropical storm in the Yucatan was advancing northwestward and was attended by "dangerous winds."

Report Storm Veering Northward.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21.—The tropical hurricane approaching the Gulf coast had veered slightly to the north early tonight, and the Weather Bureau here predicted that it would go inland on the Gulf coast further east than at first reported.

With the wind blowing a steady gale of twenty-five miles an hour later tonight, and coming in gusts of from fifty to sixty, merchants, storekeepers and people in outlying districts began preparations to meet the hurricane.

Plate-glass windows throughout the business section were reinforced, and wherever available metal shutters were placed over the windows. This was especially true in the old French quarter. Many signboards were blown over throughout the city, and in one section a couple of houses were unroofed by the force of the wind.

With the rising tide and growing winds residents and pleasure seekers along the shore of Lake Pontchartrain commenced flocking into the city. Driven by the increasing wind the water in Lake Pontchartrain began coming over the sea wall at West End and Spanish Fort. From the Mississippi coast resorts every train returning to the city was crowded with vacationists seeking safety from the approaching storm.

All the hotels of the city were filled to overflowing and refugees are camping in the Post Office, Custom House and other public buildings.

Awnings and signs have been twisted loose and were hurled through the downtown streets.

All shipping remained in the river today, following the warnings of the weather bureau. At Port Eads a large fleet is anchored behind the breakwater and jetties waiting for the storm to blow over. Several vessels which cleared Monday did not sail and some of those which did sail put back. Two large tankers from the North Atlantic route to Port Arthur also put into Port Eads for shelter.

At 10 o'clock last night the barometer at the Weather Bureau registered 29.00, a drop of nine points in three hours, and twenty points since 8 o'clock this morning. The wind velocity here was thirty miles from the northeast.

At Burwood, on the coast, at 7 o'clock the barometer stood at 29.62 and the wind from the northeast was blowing fifty-eight miles per hour. Since that time the Weather Bureau has been unable to communicate with the station at Burwood.

4,500 More Out of Galveston.

GALVESTON, Texas, Sept. 21.—An exodus of approximately 4,500 people, many of them out of town visitors, the shifting of all cars loaded with wheat and cotton to the mainland, the vacating of ground floors in the business district and the securing of all shipping in the harbor, marked this week's preparations today in anticipation of the West Indian hurricane supposed to be sweeping down upon the Texas coast.

While the barometer here early tonight remained motionless at 29.80 there was a gradual rise in the tide and an appreciable hurricane swell. A twenty-mile an hour northeast wind was blowing.

Every resident on the island has been warned of the approach of the storm. Brig. Gen. J. F. Wolters, co-operating with the local weather bureau, today dispatched motor cycle messengers of the Texas National Guard to get word to all persons living down the island. Many others were notified by telephone.

Camp Hutchings, where for more than three months National Guard troops on duty in connection with the dock strike here have been bivouacked, this morning was dismantled and the militia moved to Fort Crockett. This was done upon the invitation of Secretary of War Baker, General Wolters stated.

A cordon of military police was thrown around the interurban station early today and the order "women and children first" was given. Later, however, this order was modified to permit men to accompany their families. According to G. G. Morse, General Superintendent of the Galveston-Houston lines, passenger trains departing from the city were fixed to provide accommodations for the hundreds who sought to quit the city. In addition, automobiles carried many families across the causeway to Dickinson and other mainland cities.

To Move Residents Off Island.

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 21.—The Weather Bureau believed today that there is no possibility of the storm striking the coast with anything like full force before Wednesday.

Rising tides and variable wind of from fifteen to twenty-two miles were reported here. In forty-five minutes the barometer here dropped five points, from 29.92 at 1 P. M. to 29.87.

Tide reports this afternoon from Morgan's Point indicate a rise of a foot and a half above normal for that section of the bay near Houston. Advices received here from Brownsville gave that city the lowest barometer reading reported from Gulf points—29.84.

Railroads have announced that precautions have been taken to move people and equipment off the island on short notice.

Reports reaching oil companies here are that operations in some of the coastal fields have been stopped for the present, and that some companies are abandoning work temporarily.

Flee to High Lands.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Sept. 21.—The tide at Harbor Island, the local observation point, was reported two feet higher than mean low at 1 P. M. today and rising slowly. Winds were variable, although generally taking a northerly direction at the rate of about six miles an hour. The barometer reading was 29.84.

There has been a general movement of residents today to the high bluff back of the water front, the movement in many instances including the removal of merchandise stocks from stores situated in the area swept by the storm last September.

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 21.—Fear that two steamers engaged in the fruit trade might have encountered the hurricane reported near the Yucatan Channel was expressed here today in marine circles.

The steamer Vera left Mobile on Sept. 17 and the H. F. Dimick the following day, both bound for Honduras, their usual route carrying them through the Yucatan Channel, where the storm centre is said to be located.

Coolidge Has Not Bought a Suit In 18 Months, Shoes in 2 Years

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—Governor Coolidge, asserting the need for thrift said today that he had not bought a suit of clothes in eighteen months, and that it was two years since he bought a pair of shoes.

"There are some indications," he said, "that Americans are beginning to understand thrift, and that the law of supply and demand is working again. That will be a benefit to us all. We can see it working out in the great woolen industry of Massachusetts."

Governor Coolidge was addressing the National Association of Life Underwriters at the opening of their annual meeting. He characterized the insurance men as "emissaries of thrift, which we need very much at present."

POLES MEET REDS TO DISCUSS PEACE

DISARMAMENT BIG ISSUE

RIGA, Sept. 21 (Associated Press).—Captain Evan E. Young, the American Commissioner in the Baltic States, and Colonel Holladay, the American Military Attaché, attended the opening this afternoon of the Russo-Polish peace conference as guests of the Latvian Government. They sat in a special box, in which were also the French and Italian Commissioners and the German Chargé d'Affaires.

The gray day shed a dull light through the cathedral-like windows of Black Head House, where M. Meirmwitch, Lettish Minister of Foreign Affairs, welcomed the delegates. Catherine the Great, in gorgeous military uniform, riding astride a white stallion, looked down upon the little groups of men in drab attire, bent upon settling the dismemberment of the great Russian Empire. Nicholas II. and several other Czars, as well as Charles XI. and Charles XII. of Sweden, also watched the proceedings from heavy gold frames lining the assembly room of the ancient merchants' guild which laid the business foundation for Riga, formerly Russia's second Baltic port.

Some of the Bolsheviki objected originally to conducting the negotiations among the pictures of imperialistic rulers, but cool-headed associates silenced the protests and the decorations of the historic room remained untouched. St. Maurice, the Moorish patron saint of the guild, appears everywhere in the decorations. Coal-black statues of the Moor, clad only in a loin cloth, stand all about the building. His curly head, bound with a red sash and ornamented with great gold earrings, is woven into the drapery, and an allegorical picture representing the Moor conferring his blessing upon Riga and establishing her commercial greatness is the central panel of the ceiling frescoes in the conference hall.

Welcoming the delegates, M. Meirmwitch expressed his belief that peace would soon crown the labors of the conference—"a peace which will be a solid peace based on the principles of justice and true democracy."

"Only these principles," he added, "can effect and maintain peace. It can never be lasting unless based upon respect for the free national rights of Governments."

M. Dombski, head of the Polish delegation, expressed heartiest appreciation of Latvia's hospitality, saying: "Even if peace is not effected, the Polish delegation will always remain under great obligations to Latvia."

M. Joffe, the Russian Soviet leader, responded, saying that he was confident peace would be arranged.

A short adjournment was then taken to inspect the credentials of the delegations and to ascertain whether they were credited with plenipotentiary powers.

The indicated refusal of Soviet Russia to disarm, as the Poles are expected to demand, seems likely to be the chief stumbling block to peace. The Bolshevist delegation, it is forecast, will insist that Poland must disarm with the exception of a small defensive force, as Poland would be at peace with the world when she signed an armistice with the Moscow Government, the Soviet representatives point out.

The Bolsheviki, however, insist that they are at war with General Wrangel, France and the United States, which makes it imperative, they declare, that they maintain a war footing. Great Britain is omitted from this classification by the Russians, as it appears they no longer consider themselves as at war with her.

The presence of the American torpedoboat destroyer Broome in the harbor of Riga has caused the Soviet delegates to make some inquiries from the Latvian Government. The Soviet representatives suggested that the peace treaty with Latvia forbade the use of territorial waters by ships of countries fighting Soviet Russia, but as no war actually has been declared between the United States and Soviet Russia the Latvian officials explained that the hospitality of Latvian ports had been offered to the American ships in the Baltic and also to British warships.

There are two British torpedoboat destroyers and cruisers in the harbor and one Polish warship.

STRIP JEWS AT WORSHIP.

LONDON, Sept. 21 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The Lithuanian delegation in this city today made public an official report of a pogrom alleged to have been committed by Polish soldiers in Seiny, near the Polish-Lithuanian border.

The excesses, the report says, lasted four days, during which twenty-five shops and 150 houses were plundered, twenty-two women mistreated and a number of men subjected to abusive measures.

PLAN BALKAN BLOC.

VIENNA, Sept. 21.—A conference of all the Premiers of the Balkan States will be held at Bucharest in October upon the return of M. Stambuliwsky, the Bulgarian Premier, who is now in Belgrade, according to reports in diplomatic circles.

It is intended to discuss questions in connection with tentative Greco-Rumanian, Bulgarian and Jugoslav agreements, with the ultimate object of a Balkan bloc.

NATIONS WATCH DRY TEST, SAYS GEDDES

Ambassador Tells Anti-Alcoholism Congress His Government Is Intensely Interested.

DANIELS CITES LEAGUE RULE

Suppression of Liquor Traffic in Mandate Territory Recognition of Its Evils, He Says.

DELEGATES ARE WELCOMED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Prohibition in the United States has attracted the attention of the world, Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador, declared in addressing the opening session today of the Fifteenth International Congress Against Alcoholism. In support of his assertion, Sir Auckland told the Congress that detailed reports of its proceedings had been requested by his home Government and that the governments of other nations were undertaking studies of the sociological and economic effects of total abstinence.

Practically all of the European nations and a number of the South American republics were represented at the opening session, which was held in the Pan-American Building. After greetings had been extended by Assistant Secretary of State Merle Smith and Director General Rowe of the Pan-American Union, replies were made by the heads of the various foreign delegations.

Sir Auckland Geddes made his statement relative to the attention being paid by other nations to prohibition in the United States in responding for Canada, Australia and several other British dominions on the roll call of the nations. The Ambassador said three departments of his Government were "intensely interested" in the work of the Congress and named them as the Home Office, the Board of Trade and the Ministry of Health.

Daniels Cites League Provision.

In an address Secretary Josephus Daniels declared that Article XXII. of the covenant of the League of Nations "sets the seal of condemnation" upon the evils of the slave trade, opium and liquor traffics by forbidding them in mandate territories under the League of Nations.

Secretary Daniels was credited in an afternoon publication with having interpreted the League covenant as operating for a dry universe. Upon his return to the Navy Department late this afternoon Mr. Daniels denied that he had indulged in any such broad construction of the League covenant. He then gave out the text of a part of his address, which reads:

"While no League of Nations could have voice in the domestic affairs of member-nations this declaration in Article XXII. has the significance of international appreciation that the three specific things they promise to prohibit in mandatory countries are evils that the world should prevent. If they are evils in Central Africa those which continue are likewise evils in Central Europe and in Central America and everywhere in the world. Article XXII. therefore, becomes the basis for good men everywhere to agitate in their own country to prevent arms falling into the hands of persons either weak of will power or with evil purpose, to prevent the traffic in liquor or in human beings. The promise to mandatory peoples will thus become a beacon to light the way for reforms in older and stronger nations."

GIRL SUICIDE PROVES OLIVE THOMAS' CHUM

BEGAN CAREERS TOGETHER

The mystery surrounding the identity of the girl who died last Thursday in Bellevue Hospital, a suicide from drinking veronal, was dispelled yesterday when Mrs. Paul T. Black of McKee's Rocks, Pa., identified the body at the Morgue as that of her sister, Miss Anna Daly, a cloak model and a chum of Olive Thomas, "movie" star, who died several weeks ago in Paris, also a poison victim.

Last Thursday Miss Daly was removed from the Hotel Seville, Thirty-first Street and Fourth Avenue, to Bellevue Hospital. She was admitted to the institution as "Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson," the name she had written in the hotel register. All efforts to rouse the girl to tell who she was failed, and she sank steadily without regaining consciousness.

That night Miss Betty Martin, a member of the Ziegfeld Follies, now playing in Chicago, returned to her apartment at the Hotel Monterey, Broadway and Ninety-fourth Street, and found a note from Miss Daly, with whom she shared the rooms. It read:

"He doesn't love me any more. I can't stand it any longer, and Olive is dead."

Miss Martin immediately notified the police. Detective Jacob Feudner was sent up to interview the Follies chorus girl. While Miss Martin was giving the detective a description of her missing chum Feudner noticed a story about the Hotel Seville suicide and, comparing the published description with the description of Miss Daly supplied by her friend, decided to investigate along that line.

Miss Martin had left with the Follies company for Chicago, but Feudner managed to obtain entrance to the apartment of the two girls and found the address of the sister, Mrs. Black. She was notified to come here to see whether she could identify the body.

Monday night, while Mrs. Black was on her way to this city, a man who said that he was Everett Lehdinen of 58 East 123d Street, called at the Morgue. He sought permission to view the body, saying that he thought that it might be that of his niece, Miss Elizabeth Anderson of Chicago. After he had admitted that he had not seen his niece for about two years, the police refused his request and he left.

Mrs. Black went to the Morgue yesterday afternoon, and after a glance at the small form broke down and said that it was her younger sister. She declared that in 1912 Anna and Olive Thomas, then the wife of Bernard Kruah, were employed together in a Pittsburgh department store. Both girls had gone to the same school and were inseparable friends. In 1913 they decided to visit New York together and after their vacation thought they would come here and get on the stage. Miss Daly's beauty was as striking as that of the motion picture star.

A few weeks after their determination to try their fortunes here they were living in a small furnished room in West Forty-eighth Street. Olive Thomas was earning small sums posing for photographers, while Anna was seeking a position as model. Finally, Olive Thomas's good looks began to attract attention; she went to the "Follies" and her meteoric career began, a rise to wealth and fame which ended the other day in Paris.

Miss Daly never obtained her chance on the stage. She continued to work as model, now and then posing for artists. Despite their different paths, the girls continued fast friends and were frequent correspondents. The news of the death of Miss Thomas was a severe shock to Miss Daly, friends said last night in declaring that melancholia induced by grief might have played a larger part in her act than her note about some unknown man would indicate.

Beyond the fact that the man mentioned in the girl's note was "a New Yorker now in Chicago," efforts to establish his identity were fruitless last night.

NEBRASKA HAS PLEBISCITE.

Records Very Light Vote on Constitutional Amendments.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 21.—Early returns in the special election on the new Constitution held throughout Nebraska today indicate a very light vote. In some precincts in Omaha up to noon not a single vote had been cast. When the polls closed at 9 o'clock tonight less than 10,000 votes had been cast out of a possible 55,000.

The election was on adoption of a suffrage amendment and an amendment authorizing the State Legislature to create an industrial board to deal with all questions of a public nature.

Early returns indicate that the suffrage amendment passed. The amendment authorizing an Industrial Board was fought by union labor and practically every member of a union in the State voted against the proposition. Many of the big employers of labor also fought the measure.

Returns from the cities are against the amendment, while the vote in the small towns and country precincts is in favor of it. The result will not be known until Wednesday.

FIND POLICEMAN IS THIEF.

Patrolmen and Boathouse Employe Convicted of Looting Freight Car.

Patrolman Patrick White of the West 100th Street Station and William Smith, an employe of the Bloomingdale Boathouse, at 101st Street and North River, were convicted of grand larceny yesterday by a jury in Judge William B. Shepperd's part of the United States District Court. They were charged with the theft of eight bolts of cloth from a New York Central freight car on April 7. Detectives John A. Fabers and Joseph P. Boyle, who were guarding trains on the railroad, testified that they saw the policeman and Smith take the cloth, which was valued at several thousand dollars, from the freight car and carry it to the boathouse. White and Smith declared that they had caught thieves trying to rob the car and that the robbers ran away leaving the cloth, which White took to the boathouse for safekeeping.

At a previous trial of the case the jury disagreed. The verdict at the second trial was not reached until after twenty-four hours' deliberation.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Belle Bennett, an actress well known on the Coast, made her first New York appearance last night in the leading feminine role of "Happy-Go-Lucky" at the Booth.

Tolstoi's "Kreutzer Sonata" will be produced at the Jewish Art Theatre on Saturday night with Rudolph Schildkraut in the leading role.

The cast of Frank Craven's comedy, "The First Year," which John Golden is producing, will include Mr. Craven, Tim Murphy, William Sampson, Roberta Arnold, Maude Granger, Lester Chambers, Lolia Bennet, Hale Norcross and Mignonette Kalmond.

William Faversham will be seen for the first time in "The Prince and the Pauper" in Montreal next Monday night. The cast will include Ruth Findlay, Edmund Gurney, Cecil Yapp, Mary Rehan and others.

The opening of "The Mirage" at the new Times Square Theatre, announced for next Monday, has been postponed to the following Thursday.

'RIGOLETTO' AT MANHATTAN

Vincente Ballester Sings Title Role and Lydia Lipkowska, Gilda.

With "Rigoletto," the second opera of the early season, the San Carlo Company is well started on its year. Mr. Gallo has gathered together a number of excellent artists, and, for the four weeks in New York, at least, a large and willing chorus. In Vincente Ballester, who sang the title role last night, Mr. Gallo has a splendid singer. He is especially able at bel canto; his smooth, ingratiating voice is never troubled; he phrases with an eye to the long, even line. At the end of the third act Mr. Ballester was accorded something in the nature of an ovation; the gallery got upon its feet and hollered.

Lydia Lipkowska, the Gilda, was obliged to repeat her aria, "Caro Nome," which she sang in a fresh, agile, but somewhat childish voice. Giuseppe Corallo—or Agostini—(Corallo on the program, Agostini in the lobby), was the Duke. Mr. Corallo is slender and amiable. His voice is harsh; at first disquieting it presently seems agreeable, almost exciting, in fact. He sings in a peculiar style of his own; the voice is whipped and bullied. The words come tumbling out half as fast again as the music. He should be an interesting Lohengrin.

Next week's operas, announced yesterday, will be as follows: Monday, "La Bohème," with Anna Fitziu; Tuesday, "Cavalleria Rusticana," with Alice Gentle, and "Pagliacci," with Vincente Ballester; Wednesday matinée, "Tales of Hoffmann"; Wednesday night, "Faust," with Marguerite Namara; Thursday, "La Forza del Destino," with Bettina Freeman; Friday night, "La Traviata"; Saturday matinée, "Carmen"; Saturday night, "Aida," with Marie Rappold.

LAMBS LOSE GIANT PASSES.

Jed Prouty, actor and member of The Lambs, admitted last night that season passes to the Polo Grounds given to him and several other members of the actors' organization had been taken up when presented in the last few days at the press stand gate.

Prouty declared no explanation was offered, and therefore he was not in a position to state whether or not the passes were taken up because of the recent expulsion of John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, from the Lambs Club. Prouty said that he spoke to Magistrate Francis X. McQuade, Treasurer of the New York National League Baseball Club, who also is a member of the Lambs Club, about the matter, and that he expressed surprise. When he was questioned about the matter at the Polo Grounds yesterday McGraw declared he did not want to discuss it, and added that it was a matter of an entirely personal nature.

HAITIAN POLICY ATTACKED.

United States Accused of Abolishing Legislature and Withholding Pay.

James Waldon Johnson, Secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, of 70 Fifth Avenue, in a statement issued last night attacked the policy of the United States Government in its occupation of Haiti.

Mr. Johnson asserted that serious skirmishes have occurred this year between Marines and Haitians, that the Americans have abolished by force the Haitian legislative body and that the pay of the Haitian President and other officials was withheld because the Haitian Government refused to sign an agreement turning over the National Bank of Haiti to the National City Bank of New York.

Mr. Johnson denies Secretary Colby's assertion that "complete tranquility exists throughout the republic of Haiti." He charges that a clause prohibiting the import and export of foreign money by Haiti except as deemed necessary by the "financial adviser" to Haiti was inserted by unknown parties in the agreement reached at Washington last February between the Haitian Minister and the "financial adviser." "Not only has the Haitian Government refused to ratify this agreement," says the statement, "but every important American firm doing business in Haiti protested against it to the Haitian Secretary of Finance."

TRAVELERS DECLARE WAR ON RAIL FARE

CHAIN OF HOTELS PROPOSED

Convention Discusses $50,000,000 Corporation to Assure Drummers a Square Deal.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 21.—The International Federation of Commercial Travelers Organizations, at the closing session of its annual convention today at the St. Charles Hotel, outlined plans for a concerted drive for a 2¾-cent mileage rate, instead of the present rate of 3 6-10 cents a mile.

The convention, which represents a membership of 510,000 and seventeen distinct associations, drafted an amendment to the Esch-Cummins act, which it hopes Congress will approve. The amendment would make it mandatory that railroads sell mileage books at the prescribed rate. Such books would contain coupons for 3,000 and 5,000 miles. In an accompanying resolution the big body contends that there would be a profit in the reduced rate to the railroads.

The convention appointed a legislative committee which is empowered to enlist legal counsel in all the important cities, who will be charged with settling disputes that arise between commercial travelers and with hotels and with railroads. At present, it was argued, if baggage is lost the drummer has no time to wait and to bring suit, if one is found necessary. The same condition arises in controversies with hotel charges. These attorneys will act for the men and settle claims.

The convention discussed a $50,000,000 corporation to lease, buy and build hotels in all the important cities of the country, the project to be exclusively undertaken by the traveling men themselves. The proposition was advanced by W. W. Hinkley of Chicago, who reported that the commercial traveling man today was not receiving a square deal from the hotels. The project was placed in the hands of a committee.

French Lick, Ind., was selected for the 1921 convention. H. E. Fox of Des Moines, Iowa, was elected President of the association, and W. H. Butts of Omaha, Neb., Vice President.

THREATENS BOSTON MAYOR.

Note, Third Sent in Year, Says He Will Get "Medicine" Next.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—A letter scrawled in red ink and warning Mayor Peters that "you will get your medicine next," was received by the Mayor today. He treated it as a joke, but said he would turn it over to the police tomorrow.

This is the third threatening letter received by Mayor Peters within a year.

Olga Nielsen, Tragedienne, Here.

Mme. Olga Nielsen, a Danish tragedienne, who is more than sixty years old, arrived yesterday from Copenhagen on the Scandinavian-American liner Hellig Olav, accompanied by Christopher Gottschalk, a Danish tenor, and Waldemar Willumsen, a pianist. She will make a tour of the United States until Christmas and give readings of Shakespearean plays and "Camille."

Howlett Comes to Act Shakespeare.

Arthur Stanley Howlett, an English actor and grandson of the late General Sir Arthur Howlett, arrived yesterday on the American liner St. Paul to arrange to appear here in Shakespearean rôles. Mr. Howlett has recently been playing in "Julius Caesar" with Lillian Braithwaite in London.

For Every One In New York Who Ever Had a Mother

That is the size of the huge audience for whom William Fox has produced the sweetest, dearest mother story ever brought from the world's greatest literature to the motion picture screen.

The first great drama-poem ever adapted successfully to the screen. So real, so human, so filled with smiles and tears that it will carry millions of men and women back to those childhood days when they snuggled up close to the warm mother heart and were enveloped in a mother's loving arms.

Every daily newspaper in Greater New York, voicing the opinions of six million persons, has praised William Fox's overwhelming presentation of Will Carleton's drama-divine.

Favorable Outlook For Railroad and Hydro-Electric Bonds

The outlook for bonds of the above types appears particularly bright. The railroads, through the recent advance in freight and passenger rates, should ultimately increase their net revenues materially. Hydro-electric companies, because of their independence from coal, and their low operating costs, should become more and more essential to industries dependent upon cheap power, and their bonds should show a corresponding increase in intrinsic value. In our circular, "Conservative Investments," we mention a number of attractive railroad and hydro-electric bonds to yield from about 6% to 7½%.

A FUNDAMENTAL, and we believe permanent change in public opinion toward the Railroads is marked by the passage of the Esch-Cummins Bill and the announcement of large freight and passenger rate increases. Our confidence in the safety of well-secured railroad bonds has been restored.

Central Leather Co.'s Passed Dividend Weakens Stocks—Liberty Bonds Rise.

Stocks responded yesterday through a movement toward lower price levels to several rather pointed developments in the industrial field. The passing of the Central Leather Company's quarterly dividend on the common stock stood foremost in events which drew fire from the bears and may have assisted in bringing about some liquidation of manufacturing company shares. The decision of the Ford Motor Company to reduce prices more than 20 per cent. on various sorts of its automobiles, together with the reduction of the dividend of a prominent automobile parts manufacturing concern, attracted fresh attention to the readjustment going on in the motor car trade. Some definite figures on cancellations of steel intended for automobile making was a collateral influence to direct pressure against the motor stocks. These, together with rubber company shares, were depressed 1 to 4 points and at the end of the business day recessions in excess of a point were rather widely scattered through the industrial stock list. The rails receded fractionally, although their tone was one of firmness much of the time. Call money lent at 7 per cent. and time funds were quiet at the 8 per cent. basis of the previous day.

The leather, automobile and tire trades had been known to be in an unsettled condition, caused by a slackened demand at a time when manufacturers were heavily supplied with high-priced materials. Yet the actual passing of the Central Leather disbursement after three years of fairly liberal extra dividends was more than had been looked for at the Directors' meeting. Likewise, Mr. Ford's short-cut to pre-war prices, or close to those prevailing then, was unwelcome to holders of auto company shares who had believed prevailing high costs would militate against anything except gradual reduction of selling prices. Matter of considerable economic interest is attached to these two occurrences. In the Ford Company's statement it was frankly admitted that losses would be entailed in the working up of high-priced steel into finished goods to be sold at a sharp reduction. The leather company stated that the leather and shoe trades were so far depressed that earnings did not warrant a continuation of payments to share owners, while it was deemed expedient to conserve cash. There is no doubt but that corporations engaged in some other lines are finding themselves in a situation similar to these companies, and while the liquidation of stocks during the last six months has gone far toward discounting altered aspects of business and profits, it is reasonable to assume that the specific results of decreased activity of production and sales will be disclosed in several directions before the stage is set for a new era in industry.

Railroad stocks moved as though they were affected primarily in a sentimental way by the setback of the industrials. Also, they were affected by a continuation of Monday's profit-taking sales. In the moderate rally which occurred in the final hour of trading, it was noted that the rails were quick to show a stable front. Several of the more active issues left off with fractional gains. Railroad bonds were firm and Liberty bonds, evidently reflecting the easing tendency of time-money rates, were stronger than they had been for some time past. The new French Government 8 per cent. issue, selling on a "when issued" basis, eased off to 101⅜, compared with 102 the day before.

The declining movement in the foreign exchanges, notably sterling and francs, which began the day before, was continued yesterday. Sterling sight drafts declined 4¼ cents, carrying the rate to a level more than 7 cents under the maximum quotation of last week's bulge. The exchange market is reported as decidedly "thin," making possible wide movements under the force of speculation.

CENTRAL LEATHER PASSES DIVIDEND

STOCK DROPS THREE POINTS

Holders of Common Shares Have Received So Far This Year 4½ Per Cent.

The Directors of the Central Leather Company yesterday passed the quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. on the common stock which is customarily declared at this time. The action was not unexpected in Wall Street. There were rumors Monday afternoon that a cut in the dividend was contemplated and this had a wide circulation, so much so, in fact, that the shares reacted in the stock market on a fairly heavy volume of selling. This rumor, however, only contemplated a reduced dividend, and the passing of the dividend was therefore a bit out of line with predictions. There was further heavy selling of the shares following the announcement, the stock dropping 3 points on the day's turnover.

Central Leather has been paying a quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. on the common stock since February, 1917, this being in conjunction with extras of 4 per cent. in 1917, 2 per cent. in 1918 and 4 per cent. in 1920. The common stockholders thus far this year have received 4½ per cent. The stock sold down to 47 yesterday, as compared with a high of 123 in 1916, and 116½ in 1919. The high for this year was 104⅝, and the closing price yesterday was the low.

After yesterday's meeting of the Directors the following statement was issued:

"The Board of Directors of the Central Leather Company, in view of the continued depression in the leather and conserving cash resources of the company, have deemed it inadvisable to declare the usual quarterly dividend on the common stock."

That all was not well with the leather industry has been known for a long time. Prices for hides have been declining and the market has been disrupted, suffering perhaps more than any other industry in the readjustment which has been going on. With the start of the war Central Leather and some of the other companies began making large profits. Central Leather's business, for instance, expanded from $60,000,000 in 1914 to $118,059,000 last year. In 1915 earnings on the common stock amounted to 10.82 per cent. In 1916 the amount applicable to the common was equal to 33.14 per cent.; in 1917 it was 30.42 per cent.; in 1918 the percentage was 10.44, and in 1919 the earnings on the common were 30.12 per cent.

The condition of the leather market has impaired earnings with a great many companies engaged in the leather industry. The fall in prices in not a few cases has impaired heavy inventories, and the outlook, according to trade publications, is not very much improved, there being only a limited demand for leather since the shoe and allied industries are inactive. In the case of Central Leather the item of inventory in the 1919 balance sheet is placed at $74,937,824, as compared with $63,380,771 in the preceding year. In 1915 the same item amounted to $44,107,750. Inventory consists of leather in stores, lumber and other finished products, as well as hides and leather, raw and in process.

Arthur T. Lynch was elected a Director of the Central Leather Company yesterday to succeed the late Frank H. Platt. Theodore R. Hoyt was also elected to the board to succeed the late W. S. Hoyt, who was formerly President of the company.

CANADA'S TRADE GROWING.

August Imports Increase $43,000,000, but Exports Fall Off.

The total external trade of Canada reported for the month of August was $258,085,400 as compared with $202,232,978 for the corresponding month in 1919. Imports were valued at $124,318,014 and exports at $113,767,395. Imports show an increase of about $43,000,000 over August, 1919, but exports declined approximately $8,000,000.

The total trade of Canada for the first eight months of the year was $1,707,020,566, or at the rate of $215,877,570 a month. Exports for the period were valued at $775,556,485 and of total imports $931,464,081.

COMMISSION APPROVES CENTRAL'S BOND ISSUE

Finds 3.5 Per Cent. Paid Morgan & Co. Liberal and Will Watch Future Flotations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Commissions charged in floating bond issues will be carefully scrutinized by the Interstate Commerce Commission, that body announced today, in approving an underwriting commission of about 3½ per cent. charged on distributing a $50,000,000 bond issue by the New York Central J. P. Morgan & Co. floated the bond issue.

While the examiner, W. A. Colston, characterized the commission as "liberal," he said he did not believe that approval should be withheld. The commission's warning that bond issues would be carefully inspected did not apply to the present transaction. Morgan & Co. did not retain the entire 3½ per cent. commission, but less than one-half of 1 per cent., it was testified. The banking house organized a committee of 400 to sell the bonds and most of the commission went to them.

Mr. Colston says in his report to the Interstate Commerce Commission:

"We realize that under the conditions prevailing in the financial world the applicant probably could not have obtained the advantage of open competition; but this fact merely emphasizes the necessity of our considering in this and all similar cases the terms of sale which we are asked to approve.

"In the present instance, in view of the small financial risk and the apparent ease with which the subscriptions were obtained, we think the discount at which the bonds were sold was liberal. The evidence, however, is not sufficient to justify a conclusion that the cost of floating the issue was such that we ought, under all the circumstances, to withhold approval of the terms and conditions set forth in applicant's petition.

"The subject matter is plainly one deserving of attention, and it is desirable that carriers intending to present applications for the approval of security issues should appreciate that the proposed terms and conditions will be the subject of our careful consideration.

"We find that the proposed issue of bonds by the New York Central are for a lawful object, within the corporate purpose of the company and compatable with the public interest which is consistent with the proper performance of service to the public as a common carrier and which will not impair its ability to perform that service."

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Time Money.

The time money market seems to concern everybody except those who might be expected to figure as lenders and those who ought, to be conventional, to be borrowing. These two classes, never too numerous and constantly diminishing, are not concerned at all. With the drop in quoted rates the borrowers have shrunk exceedingly, and now the lenders, who might have been counted on the fingers of one hand a short time ago, are even fewer. One trouble is that lending money at 8 per cent. or at any rate above 6 per cent., for that matter, is usurious and has to be done, when it is done at all, guardedly. Now that the rate threatens to fall under 8 per cent. for actual business, some of the few who were willing to lend at higher figures think the diminished profit not worth the trouble and are looking elsewhere for investment. In this respect, the call money market, and more especially the commercial paper market, offer more attractive inducements.

New Financing Rumored.

It is no difficult matter to hear of new financing which, according to rumor, is to run into the hundreds of millions. And, doubtless, a good deal will come along. The investment market is pretty well cleaned out of choice bonds just at present and the continuance of the deadlock over rates for the fifteen-year railroad equipments is making the floating supply smaller every succeeding day. This has been a boon to the industrials and it would not be the least surprising to hear of some fairly substantial offerings within the next few days. Of course, the offerings will have to be "good" if they are to be well taken, but that part of it may safely be left to the bankers who will make the offerings. Even though the market may be barren of good issues, the established market still calls for high rates of yield and fairly long terms of maturity.

French Trade.

French trade figures continue to show an agreeable expansion in mercantile exports and not much expansion in imports. The trend during 1919 was pretty much the opposite, but since the first of this year real progress in righting the situation has been made. For instance, French imports for the eight months to August totaled 24,561,195,000 francs, compared with 21,743,346,000 francs in the same months of 1919, but exports for those months this year were 14,406,438,000 francs, against only 5,743,218,000 francs in the first eight months of last year. Thus, the debit balance on trade movements this year to date is only 10,154,757,000 francs, compared with 16,000,128,000 francs a year ago.

Distribution.

The big local banking institutions were not the only ones to accomplish a splendid distribution of the recent $100,000,000 French Government bond offering. Robert Garrett & Sons of Baltimore have reported to the syndicate managers that their average sales were $2,332, which is more than $1,000 less than the average sale for one of the big New York distributers. The Baltimore firm, furthermore, says that this sum is close to its general average on new offerings and compares well with the average sales of other Southern distributing bankers.

Prices Turn Downward.

The stock market moved to lower levels yesterday, the bears attacking the list throughout the day. During the early trading the short selling did not make much progress toward causing a reaction but later news developments were of a character to furnish the bears with ammunition for new raids. There was no precipitate decline, no panicky selling, but prices eased off steadily and just when a rally was on, word of the passing of the dividend on Central Leather, cut the upturn short. Word from Chicago in the late afternoon told of a cut in the price of Ford automobiles and this was taken by some to mean that demand for machines was dwindling to the point where it was necessary to go out after business in a price cutting campaign. The auto stocks did not suffer greatly on the news itself although they closed the day with net losses.

The Mexican Oil Controversy.

There was very little to be heard for the moment about the fight which was being waged between conflicting American oil interests operating in Mexico. Not long ago both parties to the controversy were having a great deal to say as to the merits of their respective claims. The absence of discussion now has led some to believe that harmony has been restored and that before long a definite announcement of this will be made.

***

The Ford Price Cut.

Few pieces of financial news received greater attention than the announcement of a cut in the price of Ford automobiles, the reduction amounting to $142. The position of the automobile industry has been under scrutiny for some time and this latest news was taken to mean that there might perhaps be a corresponding reduction in the price of other automobiles. Wires from Detroit asserted that the Ford Company has 146,000 unfilled orders. Considering the capacity of the plants this would mean only a little over a month's production, since output is about 4,000 cars daily. If the other auto companies are in a similar position the big surplus of business that was withholding delivery in some cases for months would appear to have dwindled to small proportions. If future business has gone in this wise whether through cancellations or a decrease in the volume of orders, it might be assumed that the industry would before long be forced to curtail operations.

***

Railroad Mergers.

While all kinds of rumors of consolidations and mergers of different railroad properties are circulating among the commission houses it is the general sentiment in conservative railroad quarters that little will be accomplished on these lines for a long time to come. In some circles the rumors of mergers have been attributed to several railroad pools which have been operating in a number of rail shares or to the activity of the professionals. When run down they have been officially denied by the officials of the companies which have been mentioned. In banking quarters it was suggested yesterday that little would probably be accomplished toward a consolidation of railroads until the accounts with the Federal Government were settled and the individual roads were able to tell just what their earnings will be under the new tariffs which went into effect the first of the month.

New Cars in Service.

One concrete instance of the effort which is being made by the carriers to increase the service they are providing for the public is shown in the report of the Southern Railway system which has just been issued. The road since March 1, the end of Federal control, has placed in service 1,093 new freight cars which have been constructed since that date. In addition the road reports that new cars are now being completed and placed in operation at the rate of 20 per each day. And what is true of the Southern Railway is also generally true of the other carriers. Efforts have all been made in the direction of easing the car shortage. Some of the roads have not been in a position to buy new cars or have thought it wiser to spend their money in decreasing the number of bad-order cars on their lines. But from recent reports on car loadings and car movement it appears that the situation has been materially improved.

What Will the Railroads Earn?

We have just prepared for our clients a careful analysis of the probable earning power of the railroads under the revised passenger and freight schedules.

This is the first accurate forecast of what the different railroad systems will be able to do during the coming year or two. It indicates some surprising changes in the relative values of railroad stocks.

No railroad stockholder, whether investor or speculator, should overlook this analysis. It covers the High Grade, Medium and Low Grade issues and clearly explains the methods for properly estimating future results.

BANKING SITUATION IMPROVES RAPIDLY

RAILROAD CONDITIONS HELP

Less Fluctuation in Commodity Prices Is Predicted in Optimistic Report.

Despite the fact that banking loans still are high and there has been no marked easing in credit extensions, the general banking situation has improved substantially in the last few weeks, according to a report the National Bank of Commerce is sending out to its correspondents today. The harvesting and marketing of the country's large crops have been financed adequately and without undue strain upon the banks, the report says, and, it adds, while loans are now expanding in response to seasonal needs, as these seasonal requirements are liquidated a considerable reduction in the volume of outstanding credit may be anticipated. Continuing, the report says:

"A number of factors have facilitated the improvement in the credit outlook. As the continued improvement in transportation permits more normal movements of commodities the mobility of credits is gradually being restored. Progress is being made in the liquidation of commodity stocks and of loans against them. While the downward trend of prices involves current difficulties, it is a movement toward greater rather than less stability in both the credit and the general business situation, since it tends to reduce the pressure on banking facilities and at the same time to stimulate the large potential demand for goods which increasingly high prices had impaired. In contrast with the movement in progress a year ago, therefore, the general trend of business conditions within the United States is in the direction of increasing soundness and stability.

Sees Greater Price Stability.

"Prices continue to move downward in many important groups of raw products and of semi-manufactured materials for use in further manufactures. Declines have been passed on to the finished product in some lines. Unless untoward social and political developments should take place in Europe, however, it now seems likely that in the case of most commodities the period of rapid price adjustment has passed and that fluctuations from now on will be through a gradually narrowing margin. Present price movements, however, must be interpreted with the greatest care. Cases in point are those commodities the prices of which appear superficially stable, but in which, as a matter of fact, almost no business is being done. In such cases actual values cannot be known until trading operations are resumed.

"Curtailment of manufacturing and merchandising activities was inevitable while price changes were radical in character. On the other hand, slowly declining prices require that business be carried on cautiously with careful thought to the long future, but do not preclude sane and conservative operations. Unwillingness to face the facts in the hope of a return to another period of rapidly rising prices, and failure to admit that a new working basis must be found, not only react on the individual interests involved, but on the entire business community. Fortunately the facts have been recognized by many interests, but in some lines failure to do so is handicapping business.

Nation's Position Favorable.

"The United States is in a more favorable position than any other country in the world. If a mutual basis for transactions is found in the immediate future, labor will be kept reasonably well employed, and manufacturing, commercial and financial operations will be maintained at a healthy level. Delay in finding such a mutual basis is not only unwise, but it might well result in entirely unnecessary industrial, financial and social disorganization.

"If the business hesitation now prevalent in the United States were peculiarly an American condition, a quick return to a condition of activity could be anticipated. An adjustment of international trade, however, will require a long period for its completion. American business must depend primarily on domestic demand, with the expectation of a fluctuating and uncertain foreign demand."

AUSTRALIA SHOWS SURPLUS

Revenues Last Year $11,120,000 More Than Expenditures.

Revenue of the Australian Government during the last fiscal year exceeded total expenditures by $11,120,000. This information was contained in a report by Sir Joseph Cook, Federal Treasurer, received here yesterday by Mark Sheldon, Commissioner for Australia, from Premier W. M. Hughes.

The total revenue was $263,915,000, of which $252,795,000 was consumed in expenditures. War expenditures of the Commonwealth totaled $1,905,745,000. More than 18 per cent. of the war cost was met by revenue and the remainder from war loans. Australians were taxed lightly during the war, and when money was easy, compared with Great Britain, the Treasurer reported to Parliament.

The Government, he said, had decided to reduce further borrowing to the absolute minimum, and to provide greater sums from revenue than hitherto, and added that the present deadweight war loans would be reduced by definite sinking funds, for only by this means was it hoped to deflate credits, to lower prices and to return to conditions of sound finance.

WOULD CHECK USURY IN BUILDING LOANS

Hirshfield Wants Calling or Refusal of Mortgages Reviewed by a Board.

SEEK CHANGE IN RENT LAW

Legislature Will Be Asked to Compel Landlords to Justify All Increases.

In order to assist homeseekers in obtaining building loans and mortgages and to eliminate as much as possible the extortion of usurious interest from borrowers, Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield declared yesterday that he favored giving the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering or some other body power to investigate all cases where mortgage loans are called or refused, and where bonuses are demanded.

"It is a notorious fact that certain individuals and corporations are demanding unprecedented bonuses from borrowers who seek money for building loan or mortgage purposes," he said. "It is reported that in many instances as much as 20 per cent. is asked as a bonus for second mortgages.

"To cover up these exactions of usurious interest all kinds of subterfuges are being resorted to. The high cost of obtaining money is one of the difficulties standing in the way of the builder, and if some means can be found of making money easier to obtain there is little doubt that building operations will be materially stimulated.

"It is my opinion that savings banks and insurance companies and other corporations making money in this city should be compelled to invest their money, or at least a substantial part of it, in improved real estate."

The Commissioner characterized as "iniquitous" the proposal to exempt new construction from local taxation. He favored the exemption of new mortgage loans from the income tax.

In conjunction with Chairman Arthur J. W. Hilly of the Mayor's Committee Mr. Hirshfield will ask the Legislature to amend the existing rent laws by eliminating the 25 per cent. provision and substituting in its place one compelling landlords to justify every increase. Rents, he said, have about reached their limit and burden of proof for further increases should rest on the landlord.

The case of a sub-lessor who received rent from a tenant and two days later attempted to evict her, charging nonpayment, was characterized yesterday by Assistant Corporation Counsel James D. O'Sullivan as the most flagrant and brazen of the 20,000 rent cases he has handled for the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering. Municipal Court Justice Frederick Spiegelberg, before whom the case was tried, asked Mr. O'Sullivan to take it to the District Attorney with a view to lodging a charge of perjury against the lessor, Paul Borowsky.

Borowsky, under the name of Paul Bruno, caused the appearance yesterday in the Seventh District Court of Mrs. John Greenwood of 2,572 Seventh Avenue. He asked that Mrs. Greenwood be evicted as she had not paid her rent of $23 due on Sept. 15. When Mrs. Greenwood produced a receipt signed by Borowsky under the name of Bruno the Justice said he could not understand the state of mind of a man who attempted to oust a tenant under such circumstances.

In dismissing the complaint Judge Spiegelberg assessed $10 costs against Borowsky, saying he had no right to bring the proceedings. The money went to Mrs. Greenwood.

Junius Pendleton Wilson, chief counsel to the Mayor's Committee, said yesterday that fair play to landlords is one of the objects of the committee. In the case of the Cathedral Heights Realty Company, 210 West 110th Street, it was shown, he said, that the landlord was not earning 10 per cent. on his equity. Tenants paying $1,700 a year were asked to pay $4,000. The landlord consented to accept $2,709, an increase of $1,000, to which Mr. Wilson said he was entitled.

A case before the committee yesterday was that of a landlord who was homeless and who consented to desist from attempting to evict a tenant on condition that he be permitted to rent a hall bedroom from the tenant for $5 a month.

A number of public officials are expected to speak tonight at a mass meeting of rent payers in the High School of Commerce, Sixty-fifth Street, near Broadway, under the auspices of the Federation of Professions and Business. Plans will be made to send representatives to Albany to further the passage of legislation on behalf of tenants.

PULLMAN EARNS $12,913,509

Net Increase Equivalent to $10.76 a Share on Its Stock.

The annual report of the Pullman Company for the year ended July 31, 1920, shows Federal compensation amounting to $11,750,000, while returns from other interests amounted to $2,709,777, making a gross income for the year of $14,510,777. After charges and taxes the surplus was $12,913,509, which was the equivalent of $10.76 a share earned on the $120,000,000 outstanding capital stock, as compared with $10.61 in the preceding year.

The balance sheet of the company as of July 31, 1919, showed the cash item at $25,598,562, as compared with $8,907,832 in the preceding year, while bills and accounts receivable increased to $10,019,629 from $3,629,577. On the liability side of the balance sheet, accounts payable were shown to have increased to $17,151,164 from $5,017,507, and surplus was shown at $23,078,091, as compared with $20,364,382.

SEEKS TO DISSOLVE CORTES

Spanish Premier Will Also Ask King to Raise Rail Rates.

MADRID, Sept. 20.—Premier Dato intends to ask for a royal decree dissolving the Cortes and another giving railroad companies an increase in rates, according to persistent rumors in this city.

It is generally recognized that the railroad problem must be settled quickly, and the Premier has said he is determined to solve the question by decree. This meets with most obstinate opposition on many sides, the argument being advanced that such important action should be taken by Parliament.

ABOUT $814,000,000 is the total assessed value of Real Estate in Pittsburgh, the greatest steel manufacturing city in the world.

This valuation of all the real estate in this the seventh city of the country in size, is less than half the value of property which has been valued within the last two years by our organization. This valuation has embraced Industrial, Manufacturing, Public Utility, Shipping and Mercantile property.

In these days of high taxes, high cost of living and high rates of interest, it is absolutely essential that you know the value of your business. You cannot leave it to inexpert approximation. We are specialists in valuation for purposes of financing, merging, adjustment of taxes, leasing, insurance, cost of product and determination of plans for future development.

FIRST BIDS OPENED FOR VEHICULAR TUBE

TO LET CONTRACT TUESDAY

Completion of Under-water Thoroughfare Is Now Expected in the Summer of 1924.

Bids for building two of the eight shafts needed for the vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River were opened yesterday by the New York and Jersey Tunnel Commission. The lowest bid, $650,802.50, was made by Thomas B. Bryson of the contracting firm of Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins, which has done much important work on the new rapid transit lines. All of the bidders have either built sections of the subways or have installed tracks and finished stations.

The other bidders and the amounts were:

Booth & Flinn, Ltd., $694,455; Frederick L. Cranford, Inc., $949,590; Patrick McGovern, $922,052, and Rogers & Hagerty, $1,244,220. The estimated cost of the work from tables prepared by C. M. Holland, chief engineer of the commission, and his associates was $593,191, which is only $57,811 less than the lowest bid. After tabulating the bids the commission adjourned until next Tuesday, when the contract will probably be awarded. It was said yesterday that undoubtedly Mr. Bryson's bid would be accepted.

It is expected that the work of sinking the two shafts will take a year, but in the meantime contracts will be let for the building of the other six, as well as for the approaches, and for the work under the river, which will be let in one contract. It was explained that the time limit of three years for completing the work would not begin until the last of the contracts was let. This means that the tunnel will not be in operation until early in the Summer of 1924 at the earliest.

Two two shafts for which the contracts will soon be let will be in Canal and Spring Streets, between Washington and West Streets. Each of the shafts will be from 50 to 60 feet deep and 42 by 48 feet in breadth and length. The contractor for the first two shafts will be required to relocate and construct about 200 feet of the 8 by 16 foot sewer in Canal Street, a difficult and expensive piece of work.

BID FOR CANADIAN STOCK.

Coggeshall and Dominick Ask Option on Western Power Co.

A letter has been sent to stockholders of the Western Power Company of Canada by a committee composed of M. H. Coggeshall and Bayard Dominick stating that certain interests are desirous of obtaining an option on the company's common and preferred shares. The option price in the letter is $70 a share for the preferred and $35.10 for the common.

The letter states that because of the company's inability to raise new capital on favorable terms it is advisable to admit new interests. The option on the stock will be exercised, according to the letter, if at least 56.27 per cent. of the common stock and 51.99 per cent. of the preferred is deposited with the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The Chartered Trust and Executor Company of Toronto has agreed with the committee, which was formed at the request of several large stockholders, to take an option on the stock until Nov. 1, 1920.

Closed Mortgage Bonds

The increase in rates recently granted will permit the financing of a number of railroad projects which it has been impossible to undertake as a result of poor credit.

As future railroad financing must be done with refunding issues, the old line closed mortgage bonds are in a position of greater strength than ever.

With the increasing equity in back of this class of security, it is evident that the demand from the conservative investor will absorb the available supply and the "Old Line" bonds will gradually disappear from the market.

On request we shall be glad to supply a list of high grade investments.

South Africa's Coal Resources

SOUTH Africa contains coal deposits estimated at 56,200,000,000 tons, or 97 per cent. of the estimated reserve of the entire continent of Africa. The annual production has practically doubled since 1906, and in recent years has average more than 9,000,000 metric tons. Ample fuel supply, of utmost value to South Africa's rapidly expanding industries, is thus assured.

To American business men interested in the development of the South African market, the National Bank of South Africa, Limited, with more than 500 branches throughout the Union, offers complete facilities for international banking.

GULF STORM RULES COTTON TRADE AGAIN

List Quickly Rises 45 to 65 Points as Other Factors Are Disregarded.

NEWS BECOMES INDEFINITE

Prices Then Drop to Opening Figures Before Bad Domestic and Foreign Reports.

The tropical storm in the Gulf, which first was reported on Monday afternoon and caused a sharp advance in prices, was again the dominating factor at the opening and for the better part of the forenoon yesterday. First prices were 5 points down to 15 points up from the previous night, and in the first two hours there was a general buying and short covering movement which took the whole list up 45 to 65 points net. On this rise the unfavorable factors were largely lost sight of and only the storm was discussed.

But, as the day progressed and the reports failed to show that the storm was heading in for the Texas coast, the bullish inspiration began to wane and then the highly favorable weather, the bad trade reports from domestic centres and the none too cheerful advices from British trade points, together with the decline in sterling, came to the fore as market influences. The trade, which had not figured prominently in the early advance, took advantage of the high levels to liquidate, and by the middle of the afternoon the market was back where it had started from.

In the late afternoon there was very little business moving. The ring appeared to be out of the market, and the offices clearly were waiting for more definite news of the storm. This is the first bad storm to be reported this season, and yesterday afternoon there was little, if anything, to show just how bad it may be. Reports from the Gulf coast were not positive one way or the other, and it looked then as if it would be some hours before any real news developed.

Southern spot markets acted well. Memphis was up 100 points and Galveston and Houston were up 50 points each, while Augusta was down 25 points. The others were unchanged.

Manchester: Yarns and cloths very dull.

WHEAT MARKET DECLINES.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Big receipts of wheat at Winnipeg brought about severe breaks today in wheat prices. The close was heavy, 7¼ to 8¼c. net lower, with December $2.32@$2.32½ and March $2.26½. Corn finished ¾@2⅛c down, oats off 2⅜ to 2⅝@2¾c., and provisions at a setback of 50c to $1.25.

More than 1,000 cars of wheat arrived in Winnipeg today, and this fact gave special emphasis to reports that Canadian wheat was being offered in large quantities at Minneapolis and Buffalo. Furthermore, it was evident that the confidence of many bulls had been shaken by the continued superb weather for hastening the corn crop out of danger from frost. Under such circumstances sellers of wheat were in a decided majority, both in small and large lots. On the other hand, although support for prices was lacking, it was noticeable that country offerings, as heretofore, remained light.

PROPOSALS.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.
Albany, September 10, 1920.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS:

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned at his office in the Capitol at Albany, N. Y., until twelve o'clock noon of Wednesday, October 13, 1920, at which place and hour they will be publicly opened and read, for the construction of Barge Canal terminals pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 146 of the Laws of 1911, and amendatory laws, and Chapters 402 and 698 of the Laws of 1920, as follows:

1.
TERMINAL CONTRACT NO. 79.

For driving foundation piles for the proposed grain elevator, for constructing a bulkhead wall along Henry Street Slip, and for dredging the Henry Street Basin at Gowanus Bay, New York City.

Contract plans, sheets 1 to 5, inclusive.

TERMINAL CONTRACT NO. 80.

Plans may be seen and detailed specifications, engineers' estimates of quantities, proposal blanks, form of contract and bonds required and other information for proposers may be had at the office of the Superintendent of Public Works, Albany, N. Y., at the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Works for the Middle Division at Syracuse, N. Y., at the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Works for the Western Division at Rochester, N. Y., at the canal office, Spaulding's Exchange, Buffalo, N. Y., and at the office of the Superintendent of Public Works, Terminal Warehouse, Pier 6, East River, New York City.

Copies of detailed plans or drawing may be obtained from the State Engineer and Surveyor at Albany, N. Y., upon payment to him of the cost of producing them.

Monthly estimates will be paid of ninety per centum (90 per cent.) of the work done at the contract price. Every proposal for said work must be accompanied by a money deposit in the form of a draft or certified check upon some good banking institution in the city of Albany or New York, issued by a national or State bank or trust company in good credit within the State and payable at sight to the Superintendent of Public Works for five per centum (5 per cent.) of the amount of the proposal.

The person whose proposal shall be accepted will be required to execute a contract and furnish bonds within ten days from the date of notice of award delivered to him or them by mail addressed to the address given in the proposal.

Upon execution of the contract and approval of bonds, the certified check or draft will be returned to the proposer unless the same shall have been presented for collection prior to such time, in which case the amount of the deposit will be refunded by the Superintendent of Public Works.

The deposits of bidders other than the one to whom the award of contract shall be made will be returned immediately after the award has been made.

The bond required for the faithful performance of each contract shall be in such sum as shall be fixed by the Superintendent of Public Works, which sum shall not be less than twenty per centum (20 per cent.) of the estimated cost of the work, according to the contract price, and an additional bond, known as the labor bond, in the sum of ten per centum (10 per cent.) of the amount of the estimated cost of the work, according to the contract price, will be required as security that the contractor will pay in full at least once in each month all laborers employed by him upon the work specified to be done in the contract.

In the event that more than one surety company is offered as surety on said bonds co-insurance only will be accepted.

Each proposal must be addressed to the Superintendent of Public Works, Albany, N. Y., and must be endorsed on the envelope with the name of the construction for which the proposal is made.

Award, if made, will be made to the person or persons whose proposal shall be lowest in cost to the State for doing the work, and which shall comply with all provisions required to render it formal. Before any award shall be made the lowest bidder will be required to satisfy the Superintendent of Public Works of his ability to provide suitable equipment and materials for the proper performance of the work.

The right is reserved to reject all proposals and readvertise and award the contract in the regular manner if, in the judgment of the undersigned, the interests of the State will be enhanced thereby.

EDWARD S. WALSH,
Superintendent of Public Works.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday .....5 per cent. for the best names
Monday .....5 per cent. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Silk Golf Hose.

The ordinary conception of golf hose is associated with that of the woolen variety, but quite a fair business has been put through by one importer on silk golf hose. The goods are not produced in the conventional colors, but in fancier shades, such as light blue, rose, &c. Diamond-shaped patterns appear in the designs offered. There is said to be an increased tendency among American men and women to dress for special sports, and this has created a much larger demand for goods made expressly for the purpose.

Stripes Thought Good.

Where piece goods buyers have expressed themselves concerning the probable style trend in Spring fabrics, they have stated a liking for stripes, set about a half inch apart. The stripes described are of the hairline and broken hairline variety. Group stripes are popular, but not to the extent of the single stripe designs. Some few quiet checks are seen and, where these are worked into a pattern emphasizing the stripe line, they are considered good. Gray as a background is thought to be in the position of a best seller and, following this color, brown.

Overcoats in Fair Demand.

Overcoats, especially the better grades, appear to be in fair demand compared with the state of business existing in other branches of the clothing trade. The surplus stocks which were piled up last Winter consisted chiefly, it is explained, of the cheaper varieties and not the most desirable types. Some of the cheap makes were stored away for sale this Fall and it is these, so the market believes, which are being featured in some of the present sale offerings. Overcoats of the better grades are expected to find a fairly good sale, as they are not in overplentiful supply.

Gray Goods Buying Small.

There were few signs of the recent burst of buying activity in the local gray goods yesterday. None of the principal buyers appeared to be in the market, and the interest of those who did trade did not run past good yardage for spot or nearby deliveries. Specialty and fine-yarn cloths were generally inactive. In the sheetings some September business was put through on 7-yard goods and 5.50s, which again sold for 12½ and 11½ cents, respectively. Eastern 38½-inch 64-60 print cloths for "quick" shipment brought 15 cents. Similar deliveries of 39-inch 68-72s sold for 16 cents, as did 35½-inch 60-48s at 12 cents.

Caution on Tropicals.

According to a mill representative with years of experience in selling Summer clothing fabrics, the buyer of such goods should be especially careful in his selections this season because of the number of lines offered. Some tropical worsteds have appeared, he said, which the clothing manufacturer will find unsatisfactory because their constructions is not designed to prevent "cockling" and other faults of a lightweight material. A hard twisted Bradford yarn, he explained, does not work up well into a lightweight fabric, and the tendency to "cockle" is increased by the use of twisted silk decorations. There is no good test a clothier can make of the cloth before using it, he said, and about the only safeguard is to deal with a mill experienced in producing such weaves.

They Will Be Hit, Too.

Among the various persons who will regard the lowering of dry goods prices with more or less mingled feelings will be the clerks in the stores which pay their employes bonuses based on sales in excess of certain fixed quotas, and particularly those in stores which pay a small commission on all sales. Not only will the lowering of prices make the quotas harder to reach—they must remain unchanged unless salaries are to be decreased—but there will be lacking the "buy-now-and-save-money" argument, which was so potent in producing "big books" in the comparatively recent past. In the case of stores which pay a limited commission regardless of set quotas the earnings of the clerks will decline decidedly with prices unless there is some extra effort put into their selling.

Fall Clothing Returns.

The experience of some wholesale clothiers seems to indicate that the conditions which existed toward the latter part of the Spring season may be duplicated, but to a somewhat smaller degree, this Fall. Stories are told of merchandise being returned without the package being unopened, even to look at the goods. The opinion is growing in wholesale quarters that there will be no normal Fall season, but that the sales started late in the Spring to move out surplus stocks will be continued right along. The tactics of the retailers seem to be to create an additional surplus of merchandise which may be drawn upon to furnish material for sales purposes. This is considered sharp practice, but, in the absence of a united stand against it by the manufacturers, the latter feel it will have to be endured.

How Far Will They Drop?

While there is no little speculation here regarding the extent of the declines that will be shown by prints and percales when those fabrics are reopened by the printers, some time within the next ten days, the feeling seems to prevail that the reductions will not be so sharp as those which recently took place in ginghams and other woven colored cottons. One reason advanced for this opinion is the upturn in the price of the goods in the grey here in the last week or ten days, although there are those who believe that these gains were in a large part artificial and that they will not be sustained. The same speculation prevails in relation to the repricing of standard bleached goods, which is due in about two weeks. In this case, however, the reductions by first hands have been more or less discounted by those made recently by leading secondary distributors in the Middle West.

Knit Goods Men to Meet.

An important meeting of the Eastern District division of the Sweater and Knitted Textile Manufacturers' Association, Inc., is to be held in the Blue Room of the Hotel McAlpin on the evening of Monday, Sept. 27. Among the things to be done at the meeting will be the rendering of reports of what has been accomplished by the officers of the association during the Summer. Important discussions will be had on various trade topics, as well as on the action to be taken by the association on the invitation of the Federal Trade Commission to take up with it the different trade abuses now in existence. Delegates to the national convention of the association, which is to be held in Milwaukee on Oct. 8 and 9, will be chosen. A review of the knit goods situation abroad will be made by two officers of the organization who have just returned from the other side.

Better Dresses Selling Best.

Reports from various quarters of the dress end of the cutting-up trade indicate that, while business is good enough in all grades of merchandise to prevent worry on the part of the manufacturers, sales of the higher-priced goods are relatively the most active. So much so has this been found to be the case by at least one of the prominent local houses that several "numbers" near the bottom of its list, as to prices, have been dropped from the line entirely. The demand for the better classes of goods is said not to indicate a continuance of extravagance on the part of the women largely responsible for the "boom" prices of garments which prevailed until this Spring, but rather that wealthier women are buying more freely than they have at any other time since before the war. It was to the lack of buying activity on the part of women of average means, or less, that the house in question ascribed the need of dropping its cheaper models.

DEFENDS PRICE OF FLOUR.

Hoover Absolves Farmers from Responsibility for High Bread.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 21.—Thirty per cent. of Europe's population are still on bread rations, Herbert Hoover told the members of the American Association of the Baking Industry, in convention here today.

"During the harvest year ahead," Mr. Hoover said, "the great exporting centres of the world will have available some 575,000,000 to 625,000,000 bushels of wheat for export. The import necessities of Europe, if the bread consumption were restored to normal, would exceed this amount. In any event, there does not appear either any great shortage or any great surplus."

Mr. Hoover said that the 4.30 cents for flour in a loaf of bread meant that the Mississippi Valley farmer received about 3 cents from the loaf. The balance of the flour price goes to handling, storage, transportation, milling and wholesale distribution.

"This should tend," said Mr. Hoover, "to dissipate any notion that the farmer is primarily responsible for doubling the price of the loaf. In fact, a reduction of 60 cents a bushel in wheat would affect the loaf but 1 cent."

PRIVATE DWELLINGS IN STRONG DEMAND

J. J. Higginson, Boston Banker, Purchases Home on East Ninety-second Street.

PHYSICIAN BUYS A HOUSE

Dr. Russell L. Cecil Acquires Bolton Hall Residence on Sixty-first Street.

Residential property held a leading position in a moderately active real estate market, with buyers manifesting considerable interest in private houses in the Fifth Avenue section.

William J. Roome & Co. sold for Frank Gulden, executor of the estate of Charles Gulden, the four-story dwelling at 51 East Ninety-second Street. The buyer, James J. Higginson of Lee, Higginson & Co., intends to improve the house into an American basement dwelling for his own occupancy. The same brokers last year sold the adjoining dwelling, 49 East Ninety-second Street, to Harrison Tweed, a classmate of Mr. Higginson at Harvard.

Bolton Hall, the writer, sold to Dr. Russell L. Cecil the four-story dwelling at 33 East Sixty-first Street, on a lot 19 by 100.5, between Madison and Park Avenues. Dr. Cecil now lives on East Sixty-fifth Street.

The four-story and basement dwelling at 41 West Fifty-second Street is reported to have been sold by Emily L. Wilcox to G. De Mari of De Mari & Co., ladies' tailors, now at 64 West Fifty-second Street, on the same block. It is a four-story and basement house, on a lot 17 by 100.5, near Sixth Avenue.

Negotiations are also reported pending for the sale of the five-story residence at 66 West Fifty-fifth Street, on lot 18 by 100.5, owned by Mrs. Herbert S. Carpenter.

Meister Builders have purchased from the Cushman Estate the five-story dwellings on a plot 50 by 100 at 345-347 West Twenty-third Street. Dresler & Co. were the brokers in the transaction.

Cross & Brown sold for Catherine Boyle the four-story dwelling 20 by 100, at 151 East Forty-fifth Street. About Oct. 1 the purchaser will begin the alteration of the building into stores and apartments. The property was held at $35,000.

The estate of J. Block sold the private house 137 West 118th Street, held at $35,000. Bernard B. Block was the broker.

Louise Winkler bought from Frank Stiller the three-story dwelling, 16.8 by 100.11, at 114 East 121st Street.

Simson Wolf and others, as executors, sold to Mattie Bradley 54 West Ninety-first Street, a four-story residence, 18 by 100.8.

The four-story dwelling, 20 by 100.8, at 70 West Eighty-ninth Street, has been sold by Violet E. Proctor to George H. Powers.

Margherita P. Devito purchased from the Sterling Finance and Realty Company 702 East Eighty-seventh Street, a three-story dwelling, 17 by 100.8, irregular.

APARTMENT HOUSE SALES.

Moderate Priced Holdings Are Chief Feature.

Harry Levy sold to Hyman Schwartz a five-story new-law flat at 563 West 173d Street, on a plot 37.6 by 100. The property was held at $55,000.

Frank Frisch bought from E. Greenberg and another the five-story flat, on a plot 30 by 100.8, at 337 East Ninety-fifth Street, adjoining the northwest corner of First Avenue.

The five-story flat, 25 by 87.5, at 206 West 135th Street, adjoining the northwest corner of Seventh Avenue, has been sold by George W. Hindmarsh to the De Van Catering Corporation.

The four-story tenement 25 by 75, at 49 Pitt Street, adjoining the northwest corner of Delancey, has been purchased by Joseph Shanik from Julius Cohen.

J. Oscar Delamater sold to Elizabeth Wankel the five-story flat, 20.2 by 78.3, irregular at 1,573 Third Avenue, near Eighty-eighth Street.

H. Kliot and the S. W. Mitchell Company sold for A. Cypress the six-story tenement at 402 to 406 East Seventy-eighth Street for a reported price of $760,000.

In the Bronx Armstrong Brothers sold a five-story new-law apartment house at 2,482 Tiebout Avenue, near Fordham Road, on a plot 33 by 100, for Harry Cohen to a client.

Clement H. Smith sold to a client for occupancy the one-family dwelling at 4,065 Park Avenue; also the two-family house at 2,180 Washington Avenue, and to an investor the three-family house at 2,402 Bathgate Avenue.

F. C. Sauter Agency sold the two-family dwelling at 367 Seventh Street for Sarah Miller to James McDermott.

Robert G. Balmanno sold the factory building covering plot 200 by 225 on Nevins Street, between Baltic and Butler, for the John S. Loomis Company to the Commonwealth Color and Chemical Company for occupancy; also plot 60 by 100 on the north side of Douglass Street, between Nevins Street and Third Avenue, for the John S. Loomis Company to a client for building purposes, and the three-story house, 477 South Elliott Place, for the estate of Esther L. Bedell to a client for occupancy.

Baffa & Dixon and George Ganzle sold the three-story factory and garage at 148 Lee Avenue for M. Pohorille to David Brown.

The McInerney-Klinck Realty Company sold for Adelaide Behrens the three-story store and apartment building on the north side of Church Avenue, forty feet west of St. Paul's Place, 20 by 100.

Tutino & Cerny sold three six-family apartments, 5,413 5,417 and 5,419 Fourth Avenue, on plot 75 by 80, for the Meshel Estate to clients for investment.

Big Brooklyn Leases.

M. & L. Hess, Inc., leased for the Lincoln Trust Company and Norma Hastings Wolff, executors of George Gordon Hastings, the three-story building at 61-67 Navy Street to Isidor Blickman, manufacturer of sheet metal products, who will occupy the building for his own business, at an aggregate rental of $150,000.

Rice & Hill leased for the United Cigar Stores Company to the Silver Lunch Company the four-story building 583 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, through to Flatbush Avenue, about 75 feet south of the junction of these two streets. The lease is for a long term of years, at an aggregate rental of approximately $160,000. Extensive improvements are planned when possession is obtained next Spring.

Little Interest—Big Bargains

On the eve of the special legislative session at Albany, the city submitted bills providing for loans to relieve the housing crisis. This means that vacant lots—now the cheapest of all commodities—soon should be in active demand. Despite this encouraging outlook, there has been very little public interest in the Coster-Walsh Estates, in one of the best sections of the Bronx, the area benefited by the new Westchester Ave. subway. This means that foresighted homeseekers and lot buyers are going to have the opportunity of their lives to buy building sites at bargain prices.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The centre of the tropical storm over the Gulf of Mexico is moving northward toward the coast west of the Mississippi River. The pressure was falling quite rapidly Tuesday night on the Louisiana coast, with the lowest barometer 29.52 inches; wind, east, forty-eight miles; weather, raining at Burrwood, La., and at Galveston, and barometer was 29.80 inches; wind, north, 18 miles, and weather, raining at 8 P. M. Tuesday. Hurricane warnings are displayed on the Gulf Coast from Pensacola, Fla., westward to Corpus Christi, Texas, and northwest storm warnings on the extreme South Texas coast. A thorough dissemination of storm advices has been made over the area where warnings are displayed, and shipping over the Gulf of Mexico has been advised, beginning Saturday night last, of the movement and nature of this disturbance. Pressure is high throughout the Atlantic States and low over the Plains States and Rocky Mountain region. There have been rains within the last twenty-four hours on the Middle Gulf Coast and in the region of the Great Lakes and at widely scattered points in the Rocky Mountain region and the North Pacific States.

The temperature has risen over the Upper Mississippi Valley in the region of the Great Lakes and the North Atlantic States and it has fallen decidedly over the Rocky Mountain region. High temperatures continued during Tuesday over the Great Central Valleys and the Plains States. There will be rains Wednesday and Thursday in the East Gulf States, Tennessee and the Lower Ohio Valley and Thursday in the upper lake region. Elsewhere east of the Mississippi River the weather will be fair Wednesday and Thursday. The temperature will be considerably lower Thursday in the Great Central Valleys and the lake region and will rise Wednesday in the Middle Atlantic and New England States.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Northern New England—Fair and somewhat warmer Wednesday; Thursday probably fair.

Southern New England, Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey—Fair and somewhat warmer Wednesday; Thursday fair.

Western New York—Fair Wednesday; Thursday unsettled.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

Do You Use Wood or Wooden Parts in Your Business?

WE CAN SAVE YOU MONEY.

Here's our proposition: We manufacture the well-known Milbilt houses, and owing to the nature of the work we have considerable spare capacity in the machine end of our plant. We can offer you this spare time use of our mills at extremely large savings over current prices. We can make anything you use out of wood, in any size, and in any quantity, from all our native woods—but do no cabinet work.

If you use wood we can make it. Send us your specifications—that is all that's necessary.

BROADWAY ROBBERY LASTS SIX HOURS

OVERLOOK NEARLY $6,000

Robbers Phone for Acetylene Gas, Then Cut Into Wrong Compartment of Vault.

One of the most carefully planned and leisurely executed robberies Broadway ever has known took place early Sunday when four men, holding the watchman and two other employes prisoners, worked for six hours on the vault in the offices of the Colonial Theatre, Broadway and Sixty-second Street, and escaped with $600. Because they cut into the wrong compartment, they missed approximately $6,000 kept in another part of the vault.

The facts were made public yesterday by C. C. Egan, manager of the theatre. He said the four robbers hid themselves in the theatre after the doors were closed on Saturday night. At the point of revolvers they forced a porter and a carpenter down to the orchestra pit and under the stage. One robber stood guard until the watchman was rounded up. When everything was in readiness they telephoned for cans of acetylene gas, which they used in torches to burn their way into the safe.

The watchman was in the balcony of the theatre when three armed men approached him with hats pulled down over their eyes. They forced him to the basement and locked him in the paint room. The leader explained that they had seen the show, that it was "fairly good," and that they hid in the theatre to "give a little exhibition" themselves.

They were about to leave the watchman when the leader noticed a clock and key arrangement attached to his belt. Leveling a revolver at the watchman's head, the leader said:

"Tell me the time you punch hourly."

The watchman was forced to give the desired information and to accompany one of the robbers on the regular rounds, pushing the clock and signifying that all was well at the theatre.

Shortly after 5 o'clock, according to James Brown, the porter of the theatre, who lives at 46 West Thirty-ninth Street, the other three robbers returned to the orchestra pit and told their companion guarding the employes:

"Let's beat it in a hurry. We didn't get much. We'll have to come back."

Detective Thomas Donohue of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station is of the opinion that the robbers knew the receipts of the Friday and Saturday night performances were locked up in the vault.

Bomb Setter Pleads Guilty.

WATERBURY, Conn., Sept. 21.—Michael Kolachuk, charged with placing a bomb near the home of Superintendent of Police George M. Beach last July, pleaded guilty in the Superior Court today. Judge John P. Kellogg imposed a sentence of ten to fifteen years in the State prison and a fine of $1,000.

900 ARRIVE ON THE ST. PAUL

The American liner St. Paul arrived yesterday from Southampton and Cherbourg with 521 cabin passengers and 379 third class. While the vessel was anchored at the Quarantine station Mrs. D. Breckenridge, wife of the publisher of the Lexington, Ky., Herald, was taken off on a coast guard cutter and brought to the Battery accompanied by Jonett Shouse, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who came from Washing to meet her.

The Rt. Rev. J. P. Cheshire, Bishop of North Carolina, and the Rt. Rev. Cameron Mann, Bishop of Florida, returned from the Lambeth Conference in London.

J. A. Wilder, Chief of the Sea Scouts Division of the Boy Scouts of America, came back on the liner from his visit to the "Jamboree" of the Boy Scouts of the world held in London.

Chief Wilder said he hoped to have a ship anchored in New York harbor before another year is over where every Saturday night several hundred Boy Sea Scouts could spend week-ends on board in intensive training as they do in London on the two ships anchored in the river Thames.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. McElroy, the latter the daughter of Irving T. Bush, came back from their honeymoon trip in England and France.

DROP PALMER LIBEL SUIT.

Wool Merchants Say Attorney General Has Explained.

Counsel for Julius Forstmann and the wool concern of Forstmann & Huffmann Company announced yesterday that suits filed against Attorney General Palmer alleging libel in certain magazine articles had been discontinued upon receipt of a letter from Mr. Palmer stating that he had not intended to charge either Mr. Forstmann or the company with disloyalty during the war, and that he was satisfied there was no basis for such a charge.

Mr. Palmer's letter stated that the magazine articles in question, and also an introduction by him to a book on Germany's commercial war, had been written "solely to inform the public concerning the administration of Trading with the Enemy act." His letter, he explained, was written to correct any erroneous construction placed on these articles.

Much of it is due to a Bed Spring that is worn in humps and hollows—a spring perhaps never built for sleep in the first place.

And in Mattresses and in Box Springs you will find nothing quite so restful as the ones built by Simmons Company.

What "Big" and "Little" Business Think About the Dalton

Within the year more than 15,000 retail businesses have installed Daltons—that's what "Little" business thinks.

The Prudential Life Insurance Company has, in the same period, installed 100 Daltons, The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company more than 80; dozens of other large corporations have purchased from ten to a hundred machines each.

And it thinks that way because the Dalton represents a development in figuring machines; it provides a simpler, faster method of handling all the figure-work of business. Anyone can use it.

For the Dalton has 10 keys only; selection of columns is unnecessary; touch operation, with its saving of 6,000 to 20,000 needless eye and head motions daily, can be learned in 10 minutes; it makes the Dalton 25 to 80 per cent faster than ordinary machines.
